TITO'S REDS PROCLAIM FREEDOM

Bevin And Marshall Say Western Allies Intend To Remain In Berlin

Direct Approach To Kremlin Considered; Step Up Air Service

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said today the Western Powers are determined to continue flying food to blockaded Berlin despite the risk of grave trouble with the Russians.

He told the House of Commons: "If ever there was a time to stand firm it is now."

In Washington, United States Secretary of State Marshall said "we intend to stay" in Berlin regardless of the Russian blockade. His announcement coincided with the Washigton disclosure that the number of B-29 Superfortresses in Germany is being trebled—increased to 30 planes.

Bevin said the Western Allies are considering a direct approach to the Kremlin in an attempt to settle the Berlin crisis. He did not specify whether the approach would consist merely of a protest against the blockade or would include a request for four-power talks. He did say, however, that Britain is ready to renew four-power attempts to settle East-West disputes in Berlin—after Russia lifts her blockade.

A government source said the United States, Britain and France already have begun consultations on the form and language the communication would take.

It was understood this was one of the topics discussed when Bevin met with United States Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas and French Ambassador Rene Massigli during the day.

One official British source said Britain has asked the dominions to lend all the transport planes they can spare to help carry food to Berlin.

The Allies stepped up the pace of their air cargo service. By late afternoon 225 planes, 100 of them British, had reached Berlin with vital supplies for the 2,000,000 or more Germans in the American, British and French sectors of the city.

The United States Air Force began this greatest airlift operation of peacetime history last Sunday.

Berlin's official Soviet newspaper claimed the western air fleets were plundering the city by carrying out machinery and products on return flights. American officials promptly denied the charge. There was speculation that the newspaper's attack might herald a Russian attempt to restrict use of the air corridor to Berlin.

U. S. Serves No-Surrender Notice

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The United States served a crisp no-surrender notice on Russia today: We intend to stay in Berlin despite Soviet efforts to push us and the other Western Powers out.

Secretary of State Marshall issued the 89-word declaration from the hospital where he is undergoing a physical checkup. He promised to "deal promptly" with questions raised by the Russian blockade of the former German capital.

Marshall's statement:

"We are in Berlin as a result of agreement between the governments of the areas of occupation in Germany and we intend to stay.

"The Soviet attempt to blockade the German civilian population of Berlin raises basic questions of ser-

U. S. Agrees To Unfreeze Yugoslav Gold, Assets

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—The United States has agreed in principle to unfreeze about $57,000,000 in Yugoslavia gold and assets, government officials reported today.

In return, the Yugoslavia government has promised to turn over about $17,000,000 to pay claims of the American government and its citizens.

The Yugoslav assets were frozen by the United States in 1941 to keep them out of the hands of the Axis.

The officials who disclosed the agreement in pricinple stressed that the timing of the release of Yugoslav property has "no bearing whatever" on Yugoslavia's current quarrel with Moscow.

SENTENCED—Robert H. Best (above), 52-year-old American newspaperman convicted of being a Nazi radio propagandist during the war, was sentenced to life imprisonment and fined $10,000 in Boston yesterday for treason. The Sumter, S. C., native is planning to appeal.

Number Of B-29s In Europe Tripled By U. S. Air Force

Wing Of Jet Planes Assigned To Germany

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP) — The United States Air Force is trebling, for the time being at least, the number of B-29 Superfortresses in Europe.

This announcement today followed closely the disclosure that the fighter force there is being doubled with the assignment of a wing of jet planes to the American zone of Germany.

American air strength thus is being bolstered in Western Europe at the height of the Western Powers' struggle to keep their foothold at Berlin.

Total Brought To 30

Except for a one-month period last spring, the number of Superfortresses visiting Germany on rotational training missions has been limited to single 10-plane squadrons. But two squadrons are now on training operations there and a third was due to arrive today, bringing the total force up to a 30-plane group.

A group of the long range bombers arrived in Germany in early April. At that time it was planned to continue sending full groups instead of squadrons to Germany for three-month training tours, with a new group replacing a departing group immediately.

This plan was put aside, however, until manpower strength of the strategic air force could be built up and the group returned, to be replaced by single squadrons which remained about one month.

Jets Due In Late August

While the bomber groups will not be on permanent station in Germany, but will only rotate in training trips, the fortified fighter force will be assigned permanently. To reinforce the 86th Fighter Group (equipped with World War II conventional engined planes) the USAF will transfer from the Panama Canal Zone to the United States zone of Germany the 36th Fighter Wing, outfitted with F-80 jet fighters.

ACEW Votes For Walkout

Western Electric Co. Faces "Cold Strike"

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—A nationwide ballot by the Association of Communication Equipment Workers (CIO) has authorized the union's bargaining committee to call a strike against the Western Electric Company, the union said tonight.

Ernest weaver, union president, said the members voted four-to-one to authorize the national bargaining committee to call a strike "should such be necessary" to enforce union demands for a 31-cent hourly wage increase.

Weaver said the union would begin what he called a "cold strike" tomorrow. Union members will carry placards listing their grievances in front of "every prominent telephone exchange in the country where our members are employed," Weaver said.

The union members manufacture and install telephone exchange equipment.

Not Picket Line

Weaver emphasized that the men carrying placards would not constitute a picket line and that they would not attempt to influence persons against entering telephone buildings.

The Western Electric Company is a manufacturing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Weaver said a strike would affect 30,000 installers of heavy telephone equipment in 44 states and the District of Columbia.

He added that the union is free to strike any time after tomorrow under its present contract with the company.

Weaver said average hourly wages earned by ACEW members was $1.15 and that more than half of the men receive less than $1 an hour. He said the company had refused "even to make an offer."

"Coolie" Conditions Charged

"Our members cannot accept coolie labor conditions," he said. "Year after year we have had to tail-end other labor and to settle for increases smaller than those paid workers in other industries.

"We are starting our action with a 'cold strike' protest because we do not want to interrupt telephone service and to inconvenience the public with an all-out strike."

Weaver accused the company of using "brute force" to keep workers at "sub-standard levels." He added, "our members are sick and tired of subsidizing super profits for the company."

Weaver said the Federal Conciliation Service still is active in the dispute and the service now is "apparently working on the company."

Company officials were not immediately available for comment.

Two Of 14 Survive Fishing Boat Blast

CEDAR KEY, Fla., June 30. (AP)—At least six persons were drowned, two were saved and six others are missing from the 39-foot boat Hazel which exploded on a fishing trip Sunday.

Three of the fishing party of 14 were seen to drown; the bodies of three have been recoverd—two today.

Two survivors are in a hospital—apparently the only two to survive after L. R. Burnett, owner of the Yankeetown craft, and Buck Gilley, fishing guide, put out Sunday to an unforeseen rendezvous with fire and death. All were from Ocala, Fla.

At 6 o'clock the party sailed into the Gulf of Mexico. At 8:20, just 30 miles off shore, there was an explosion in the engine room.

"In a matter of seconds," said William Sanders, a barber now in a hospital wheelchair. "The boat seemed to be in flames. There were only six life preservers. These were distributed to the six women aboard and we all jumped over the side."

In the hospital with him was Mrs. Merle Potts, mother of three children. Her husband was drowned. Her eyelids were swollen shut from the blistering sun.

Hot Weather Causes 11 Deaths; Relief Forecast

CHICAGO, June 30. (AP)—Hot, sticky, collar-wilting weather clung to the Eastern Seaboard states today, causing at least 11 deaths attributed to high temperatures and summer storms.

A mass of comparatively cool, dry air moved across the Midwest from the Plains States. Weather forecasters said it might bring relief to the East in a day or two.

Temperatures were seasonable on the West Coast and slightly above normal in the plains states.

Cemetery To Be Closed

PARIS, June 30 (AP) — The last United States World War II cemetery established in Normandy will be closed July 4 in a joint Franco-American bendiction ceremony, the American Graves Registration Command said today. The cemetery is located at St. Andre, 60 miles west of Paris.

LOSES IN COURT—A police matron beside her, Mrs. Nancy Fletcher Choremi (right) appeared in New York Supreme Court, New York City, yesterday where she lost her fight to escape trial on police charges that she "loitered for purposes of prostitution" in a New York hotel and in her East Side apartment. Supreme Court Justice Carroll G. Walters dismissed a writ of habeas corpus which had been sought by Mrs. Choremi. She said her father is C. Paul Fletcher, consul general at Casablanca.

Israel's Banner Replaces Union Jack Over Haifa

Holy Land Evacuation Completed By British

HAIFA, Israel, June 30 (AP)—Israel's Star of David banner replaced the Union Jack over Haifa harbor tonight as the last of British troops pulled out of Palestine.

Britain's 31-years of military power in the strategic Middle East land ended quietly and calmly, in contrast to the years of intermittent violence that swept the Holy Land when Arabs, then Jews, revolted and finally fought each other.

A selected crowd of 1,000 Jews filed through the port gate this evening and watched the ceremony of hoisting the blue and white Israel flag.

Premier Hails Evacuation

At the ceremony, David Ben-Gurion, Israel's premier described the evacuation as "one of the greatest days in the state of Israel's history."

"We are prepared to forget this shameful British chapter in the history of Palestine if they will stop war against us," he continued. "During the last two years they have been fighting us with the white paper (which limited Jewish immigration) enforced by British soldiers and police; and during the last half year they have been fighting us with Arab mercenaries."

The evacuation of the last 2,500 British soldiers began before dawn and was completed shortly after noon when the British flag was hauled down.

Month Ahead Of Target Date

Their withdraway—more than a month ahead of the original August 1 target date—was a precise military operation. Gunposts, tanks and circling planes covered the movement of the 2,500 troops back to the docks. Finally all that remained under British control was a small area ringed by barbed wire.

That too passed from British control as Lt. Gen. Gordon H. A. MacMillan stepped aboard a ship's boat a few moments after the Union Jack was pulled down from the harbor office.

MacMillan, Britain's last military commander in Palestine, was the last British soldier to leave. He told newsmen: "I am most sad indeed."

Dewey Pledges To Clean Up Washington Cobwebs

Republican Nominee Describes Lasting Peace As Job Ahead

ALBANY, N. Y., June 30 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey promised tonight that if he is elected President he will "clean house" in Washington and "strengthen the fundamentals of freedom that have made America the greatest nation in the world."

Dewey made the pladge in an address to 4,000 Albany and Rensselaer County Republicans, who gathered in Capitol Park to welcome him back as the GOP nominee for President.

Standing halfway up the capitol steps, Dewey said that in his five and one-half years as Governor he had cleaned up 20 years' "accumulation" of "cobwebs" of Democratic state administrations.

Lasting Peace Is "Job Ahead"

He said he intended to clean up "the cobwebs" of 16 years of Democratic administration in Washington.

This should be easier because of his experience in Albany, Dewey observed.

The Governor described lasting peace as the "job ahead."

"The world is looking to the United States for leadership to build a firm and lasting peace," he said.

Other peoples "have almost a mystic faith that we can somehow prevent future wars," the Governor continued. "The world is looking to America for such leadership because this nation always has stood for freedom."

The Bill of Rights, he added, has made the United States "the greatest power on earth," and "we hope to bring again to our government and to all the peoples of the world a restoration of faith in the fundamentals of liberty."

Dewey Confers With Dulles

It was the fourth time in 20 years that a governor of New York had returned home from a national convention as a presidential nominee.

In 1928, Alfred E. Smith won the Democratic nomination. Four years later, Franklin D. Roosevelt was the Democratic nominee. In 1944, Dewey led the Republican ticket, and now again he is his party's standard bearer.

Dewey motored to Albany from his Pawling Farm. He was accompanied by John Foster Dulles, his foreign affairs adviser.

After dinner at the executive mansion, they conferred on the international situation. There was to be no statement from them until tomorrow, however.

Memphis Bans Movie Starring Dotty Lamour

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 30 (AP)—The motion picture, "Lulu Belle," was banned by the Memphis Board of Censors today.

Chairman Lloyd T. Binford said the movie, starring Dorothy Lamour, "is a sensual performance catering to the lowest impulses of its audiences."

Rail Injunction Ruling Due Today

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The White House let go of the railroad labor dispute today to wait for the federal court to say whether it will extend no-strike orders against three labor unions.

Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman has been working with both sides trying in vain to break the deadlock over union demands. These were set last week at a 31½-cent hourly pay increase and changes in operating rules.

Tomorrow Judge T. Alan Goldsborough is scheduled to decide whether to make permanent an injunction under which the 190,000 members of the three unions have been kept from tying up the nation's rail traffic.

The unions are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, and the Switchmen's Union.

The three unions were set to strike on May 11. The government seized the railroads on May 10, but the unions made it clear this alone would not halt a strike. So the government went to court.

British Dock Strike Ends

Longest Nickel Ride In World Only A Memory

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—Thousands of 10-cent turnstiles were readied today to play a noisy funeral dirge for the longest nickel ride in the world.

Like the five-cent beer, New York's nickel subway fare — guidebook pride of the city for 44 years—will be only a memory tomorrow.

The price of a ride on the city's 239-mile web of subway and elevated lines then becomes 10 cents.

Western German Government Gets Go-Ahead Signal

People To Be Offered Occupation Statute

FRANKFURT, June 30 (AP)—Germans will be told by the three Western Powers tomorrow to start forming a German government for all Western Germany.

They also will be offered an occupation statute to take the place of a formal peace treaty until all four occupying powers can agree on final peace terms.

Plans for this political fusion of all three western occupation zones were virtually completed today at a meeting of the British, American and French military commanders in this proposed capital of the new Western Germany.

Russians Plan Rival Regime

It will leave the Russian-occupied eastern zone of Germany all by itself in almost complete political and economic isolation from the rest of Germany.

The Western Allies still held out an offer to include the Soviet zone in an all-German government whenever the Russians will agree.

The Russians, however, were reported going ahead with their own plans for forming a rival German government in their zone which will claim to represent all Germany.

German ministers present were summoned to meet here tomorrow with the Allied commanders to hear the terms of the Allied agreement.

They will be told to have a constituent assembly ready to meet by September 1 and begin drafting a constitution for the new government, said Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States zone commander, as he emerged from the meeting with British Commander Gen. Sir Brian Robertson and the French commander, Gen. Pierre Koenig.

Occupying Forces' Power Curbed

Clay said the "general principles" of the proposed occupation statue will be outlined to the Germans tomorrow, but details will be worked out later. German suggestions for procedure in setting up the new government also will be received later.

In general, an occupation statute would define the powers and responsibilities of the Germans on the one side and the occupying powers on the other.

It would provide the first written curb on the powers of the occupying forces since Germany surrendered unconditionally three years ago.

Maj. Gen. Preston Brown Dies In Massachusetts

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., June 30. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, United States Army retired, World War I commander of the Third Division in the battle of the Meuse-Argonne, died today at his home. He was 76.

Gen. Brown was assistant chief of staff of the American Expeditionary force in November, 1918, and later served in Panama and headed corps area commands at Chicago and Boston.

He had been ill two weeks. A relative said death was caused by a heart condition. He retired in 1934.

Soviet-Derided Plan Of Balkan Bloc Is Revived

Yugo Leader Appears In Public For First Time In Two Weeks

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, June 30 —(AP)—Marshal Tito's Communists today nailed up another proclamation of Yugoslavia's nationalistic independence of Moscow.

They hinted their willingness to deal with the West as well as the East on a basis of peaceful co-operation and equality, and revived the Moscow-derided project of a Balkan federation.

The program was announced as Tito appeared in public today for the first time in more than two weeks. Accompanied by top Communists and high-ranking army officers, he inspected a construction job in Belgrade. Members of youth brigades working on the job hailed him with shouts of "Tito, Tito" when he appeared. He spent two hours at the site.

His appearance indicated Yugoslavia's Communists still are behind Tito in defiance of the accusation by the Communist International Information Bureau (Cominform) that he is leading them astray from the world party line.

Cominform May Move HQ

Meanwhile, reliable word was received here that the Cominform plans to discontinue publishing its bi-weekly newspaper in Belgrade. This was interpreted here as meaning that the Cominform would move its headquarters from Belgrade, but there was no confirmation of reports that the agency would shift its offices to Warsaw or Prague.

Outwardly the Yugoslav party leaders continued to hold out the olive branch by declaring they stood for "strengthening and further developing tight co-operation with the Soviet Union" and with the "peoples democracies" of the other Soviet satellites.

But stoutly, they asserted, "the national independence of the people of Yugoslavia is the condition for their road to socialism and their progress in general."

They called for a "general strengthening" of the Yugoslav army which they declared "protects the freedom and independence of the people of Yugoslavia."

These declarations were contained in an eight-point program which Yugoslav Communist leaders have drawn up for the fifth congress of the party July 21. Its publication in the party organ, Borba, came only a few hours after the

Five Navy Fliers Die In Va. Crash

ATLANTA, June 30 (AP) — Five Navy reserve fliers, including War Hero "Snuffy" Smith, died today in an airplane crash five miles north of Fredericksburg, Va.

All five aboard the two-engined Navy transport were from Atlanta or vicinity. They were returning to the naval air base here from Anacostia, near Washington.

Smith, a lieutenant commander listed on the records as "Allen W." held the Navy Cross, the Silver Star, the Air Medal and the Purple Heart. The Navy Cross rates second only to the Congressional Medal of Honor.

During the war, Smith had 60 months of sea duty and was credited with shooting down a "Tojo" or heavy Nip bomber, and with the sinking of a light Japanese cruiser and a heavy Japanese cruiser.

The others aboard the craft were Lt. Com. R. L. S. Edison, 35, a wartime instructor; Lt. James A. Cotton; Machinist Julius Bassolotti, 44, a veteran of 22 years in the service and Lt. (jg) Cornelius Idwise.

Smith, who the subject of a magazine article called "Plug That Rathole," served aboard the U.S.S. Yorktown, the U.S.S. Ranger and the U.S.S. Omaney Bay.

Democratic Anti-Truman Bandwagon Rolls In Calif.

LOS ANGELES, June 30. (AP)—A Democratic anti-Truman bandwagon rolled today in California.

Although the state's 54 votes in the Democratic national convention are pledged to the President, State Chairman James Roosevelt indicated a swing to another candidate was abrewing—and stirring up plenty of interest elsewhere.

"The majority of our delegates, I believe, do not consider themselves bound by the pledge," said Roosevelt. "We agreed at our state meeting in San Luis Obispo last weekend to wait and see what the situation is in Philadelphia before acting."

Party insiders said Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and Justice William O. Douglas were most frequently mentioned at the state parley.

"My phone has been ringing all day with calls from all over the country—Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and several southern states," Roosevelt added. "Indications are that they're not unfavorable to California's viewpoint."

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) said today that after talking with Gen. Dwight E. Eisenhower "I am more convinced than ever that Eisenhower is the man of the hour" for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Johnston said he discussed the nomination with Eisenhower for 45 minutes in New York yesterday. He told a reporter he is not at liberty to disclose what Eisenhower said to him, but "we had a very pleasant conversation."

MERIDEN, N. H., June 30. (AP)—Harry Carlson, Democratic national committeeman, has written to other members of the committee asking them to help persuade President Truman to withdraw as a candidate for re-election in favor of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, whom Carlson believes could be drafted.

Carlson's letter went to National Committee members in all states. He said that he conferred with Eisenhower last week, but added

Search Fails To Turn Up Bomb On Giant Liner

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—The crew of the liner Queen Elizabeth combed the giant ship today on a report that a time bomb had been placed aboard. The search failed to turn up a bomb.

Police and firemen converged on the British luxury liner after newspaper offices received telephone calls that a bomb would explode on the Queen Elizabeth 20 hours after she left port tonight.

Capt. C. B. Osborne, of the Elizabeth, told police at 4:30 p. m. (EST) the search was completed. The crew, however, was ordered to remain on the alert.

Truman Blasts Congress As He Signs Three Bills

WASHINGTON, June 30—(AP)—President Truman sharply criticized actions of the 80th Congress again tonight as he signed three bills.

The Chief Executive called it "reckless and irresponsible" to refuse to provide funds for a Tennessee Valley Authority steam-generating plant "when the security of the nation may be adversely affected." He called it an "area of critical production."

He did so in signing the Government Corporations Appropriation Act which includes funds for TVA.

In signing an appropriation bill for the Interior Department, he said he complied because a veto would close down operations.

He protested a provision which would bring about removal of Michael Straus, reclamation commissioner, and Richard Boke, regional director of the Central Valley in California, "who have supported the public power policy of the government."

Neither the bill nor Mr. Truman named the two officials affected.

Mr. Truman accused Congress of delaying important reclamation work "in all of the great basin areas of the West" by voting less money than he asked for reclamation.

He said that congressional action on the bill evidenced "an intent to destroy the national power policy."

The third bill with which he found fault extends the life of the Virgin Islands Company one year. This is an agency under the Interior Department which promotes economic life of the islands.

Mr. Truman said the law does not meet the needs. He termed it a stopgap doing little to make the islands self sustaining and raising standards of living. The United States should set a progressive example, he said.

The Interior appropriation of $406,836,974 carried a rider establishing arbitrary qualifications for the commissioner and other reclamation officials. Mr. Truman said it was designed to effect removal of supporters of the government's public power policy.

Longest Nickel Ride In World Only A Memory

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—Thousands of 10-cent turnstiles were readied today to play a noisy funeral dirge for the longest nickel ride in the world.

Like the five-cent beer, New York's nickel subway fare — guidebook pride of the city for 44 years—will be only a memory tomorrow.

The price of a ride on the city's 239-mile web of subway and elevated lines then becomes 10 cents.

Western German Government Gets Go-Ahead Signal

People To Be Offered Occupation Statute

FRANKFURT, June 30 (AP)—Germans will be told by the three Western Powers tomorrow to start forming a German government for all Western Germany.

They also will be offered an occupation statute to take the place of a formal peace treaty until all four occupying powers can agree on final peace terms.

Plans for this political fusion of all three western occupation zones were virtually completed today at a meeting of the British, American and French military commanders in this proposed capital of the new Western Germany.

Russians Plan Rival Regime

It will leave the Russian-occupied eastern zone of Germany all by itself in almost complete political and economic isolation from the rest of Germany.

The Western Allies still held out an offer to include the Soviet zone in an all-German government whenever the Russians will agree.

The Russians, however, were reported going ahead with their own plans for forming a rival German government in their zone which will claim to represent all Germany.

German ministers present were summoned to meet here tomorrow with the Allied commanders to hear the terms of the Allied agreement.

They will be told to have a constituent assembly ready to meet by September 1 and begin drafting a constitution for the new government, said Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States zone commander, as he emerged from the meeting with British Commander Gen. Sir Brian Robertson and the French commander, Gen. Pierre Koenig.

Occupying Forces' Power Curbed

Clay said the "general principles" of the proposed occupation statue will be outlined to the Germans tomorrow, but details will be worked out later. German suggestions for procedure in setting up the new government also will be received later.

In general, an occupation statute would define the powers and responsibilities of the Germans on the one side and the occupying powers on the other.

It would provide the first written curb on the powers of the occupying forces since Germany surrendered unconditionally three years ago.

Soviet-Derided Plan Of Balkan Bloc Is Revived

Yugo Leader Appears In Public For First Time In Two Weeks

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, June 30—(AP)—Marshal Tito's Communists today nailed up another proclamation of Yugoslavia's nationalistic independence of Moscow.

They hinted their willingness to deal with the West as well as the East on a basis of peaceful co-operation and equality, and revived the Moscow-derided project of a Balkan federation.

The program was announced as Tito appeared in public today for the first time in more than two weeks. Accompanied by top Communists and high-ranking army officers, he inspected a construction job in Belgrade. Members of youth brigades working on the job hailed him with shouts of "Tito, Tito" when he appeared. He spent two hours at the site.

His appearance indicated Yugoslavia's Communists still are behind Tito in defiance of the accusation by the Communist International Information Bureau (Cominform) that he is leading them astray from the world party line.

Cominform May Move HQ

Meanwhile, reliable word was received here that the Cominform plans to discontinue publishing its bi-weekly newspaper in Belgrade. This was interpreted here as meaning that the Cominform would move its headquarters from Belgrade, but there was no confirmation of reports that the agency would shift its offices to Warsaw or Prague.

Outwardly the Yugoslav party leaders continued to hold out the olive branch by declaring they stood for "strengthening and further developing tight co-operation with the Soviet Union" and with the "peoples democracies" of the other Soviet satellites.

But stoutly, they asserted, "the national independence of the people of Yugoslavia is the condition for their road to socialism and their progress in general."

They called for a "general strengthening" of the Yugoslav army which they declared "protects the freedom and independence of the people of Yugoslavia."

These declarations were contained in an eight-point program which Yugoslav Communist leaders have drawn up for the fifth congress of the party July 21. Its publication in the party organ, Borba, came only a few hours after the

Number Of B-29s In Europe Tripled By U. S. Air Force

Wing Of Jet Planes Assigned To Germany

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP) — The United States Air Force is trebling, for the time being at least, the number of B-29 Superfortresses in Europe.

This announcement today followed closely the disclosure that the fighter force there is being doubled with the assignment of a wing of jet planes to the American zone of Germany.

Total Brought To 30

Except for a one-month period last spring, the number of Superfortresses visiting Germany on rotational training missions has been limited to single 10-plane squadrons. But two squadrons are now on training operations there and a third was due to arrive today, bringing the total force up to a 30-plane group.

A group of the long range bombers arrived in Germany in early April. At that time it was planned to continue sending full groups instead of squadrons to Germany for three-month training tours, with a new group replacing a departing group immediately.

This plan was put aside, however, until manpower strength of the strategic air force could be built up and the group returned, to be replaced by single squadrons which remained about one month.

Jets Due In Late August

While the bomber groups will not be on permanent station in Germany, but will only rotate in training trips, the fortified fighter force will be assigned permanently. To reinforce the 86th Fighter Group (equipped with World War II conventional engined planes) the USAF will transfer from the Panama Canal Zone to the United States zone of Germany the 36th Fighter Wing, outfitted with F-80 jet fighters.

Israel's Banner Replaces Union Jack Over Haifa

Holy Land Evacuation Completed By British

HAIFA, Israel, June 30 (AP)—Israel's Star of David banner replaced the Union Jack over Haifa harbor tonight as the last of British troops pulled out of Palestine.

Britain's 31-years of military power in the strategic Middle East land ended quietly and calmly, in contrast to the years of intermittent violence that swept the Holy Land when Arabs, then Jews, revolted and finally fought each other.

A selected crowd of 1,000 Jews filed through the port gate this evening and watched the ceremony of hoisting the blue and white Israel flag.

Premier Hails Evacuation

At the ceremony, David Ben-Gurion, Israel's premier described the evacuation as "one of the greatest days in the state of Israel's history."

"We are prepared to forget this shameful British chapter in the history of Palestine if they will stop war against us," he continued. "During the last two years they have been fighting us with the white paper (which limited Jewish immigration) enforced by British soldiers and police; and during the last half year they have been fighting us with Arab mercenaries."

The evacuation of the last 2,500 British soldiers began before dawn and was completed shortly after noon when the British flag was hauled down.

Month Ahead Of Target Date

Their withdraway—more than a month ahead of the original August 1 target date—was a precise military operation. Gunposts, tanks and circling planes covered the movement of the 2,500 troops back to the docks. Finally all that remained under British control was a small area ringed by barbed wire.

That too passed from British control as Lt. Gen. Gordon H. A. MacMillan stepped aboard a ship's boat a few moments after the Union Jack was pulled down from the harbor office.

MacMillan, Britain's last military commander in Palestine, was the last British soldier to leave. He told newsmen: "I am most sad indeed."

Dewey Pledges To Clean Up Washington Cobwebs

Republican Nominee Describes Lasting Peace As Job Ahead

ALBANY, N. Y., June 30 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey promised tonight that if he is elected President he will "clean house" in Washington and "strengthen the fundamentals of freedom that have made America the greatest nation in the world."

Dewey made the pladge in an address to 4,000 Albany and Rensselaer County Republicans, who gathered in Capitol Park to welcome him back as the GOP nominee for President.

Standing halfway up the capitol steps, Dewey said that in his five and one-half years as Governor he had cleaned up 20 years' "accumulation" of "cobwebs" of Democratic state administrations.

Lasting Peace Is "Job Ahead"

He said he intended to clean up "the cobwebs" of 16 years of Democratic administration in Washington.

This should be easier because of his experience in Albany, Dewey observed.

The Governor described lasting peace as the "job ahead."

"The world is looking to the United States for leadership to build a firm and lasting peace," he said.

Other peoples "have almost a mystic faith that we can somehow prevent future wars," the Governor continued. "The world is looking to America for such leadership because this nation always has stood for freedom."

The Bill of Rights, he added, has made the United States "the greatest power on earth," and "we hope to bring again to our government and to all the peoples of the world a restoration of faith in the fundamentals of liberty."

Dewey Confers With Dulles

It was the fourth time in 20 years that a governor of New York had returned home from a national convention as a presidential nominee.

In 1928, Alfred E. Smith won the Democratic nomination. Four years later, Franklin D. Roosevelt was the Democratic nominee. In 1944, Dewey led the Republican ticket, and now again he is his party's standard bearer.

Dewey motored to Albany from his Pawling Farm. He was accompanied by John Foster Dulles, his foreign affairs adviser.

After dinner at the executive mansion, they conferred on the international situation. There was to be no statement from them until tomorrow, however.

Memphis Bans Movie Starring Dotty Lamour

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 30 (AP) —The motion picture, "Lulu Belle," was banned by the Memphis Board of Censors today.

Chairman Lloyd T. Binford said the movie, starring Dorothy Lamour, "is a sensual performance catering to the lowest impulses of its audiences."

Rail Injunction Ruling Due Today

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—The White House let go of the railroad labor dispute today to wait for the federal court to say whether it will extend no-strike orders against three labor unions.

Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman has been working with both sides trying in vain to break the deadlock over union demands. These were set last week at a 31½-cent hourly pay increase and changes in operating rules.

Tomorrow Judge T. Alan Goldsborough is scheduled to decide whether to make permanent an injunction under which the 190,000 members of the three unions have been kept from tying up the nation's rail traffic.

The unions are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen, and the Switchmen's Union.

The three unions were set to strike on May 11. The government seized the railroads on May 10, but the unions made it clear this alone would not halt a strike. So the government went to court.

Two Of 14 Survive Fishing Boat Blast

CEDAR KEY, Fla., June 30. (AP)—At least six persons were drowned, two were saved and six others are missing from the 39-foot boat Hazel which exploded on a fishing trip Sunday.

Three of the fishing party of 14 were seen to drown; the bodies of three have been recoverd—two today.

Two survivors are in a hospital—apparently the only two to survive after L. R. Burnett, owner of the Yankeetown craft, and Buck Gilley, fishing guide, put out Sunday to an unforeseen rendezvous with fire and death. All were from Ocala, Fla.

At 6 o'clock the party sailed into the Gulf of Mexico. At 8:20, just 30 miles off shore, there was an explosion in the engine room.

"In a matter of seconds," said William Sanders, a barber now in a hospital wheelchair. "The boat seemed to be in flames. There were only six life preservers. These were distributed to the six women aboard and we all jumped over the side."

In the hospital with him was Mrs. Merle Potts, mother of three children. Her husband was drowned. Her eyelids were swollen shut from the blistering sun.

Boycott Effective

OTTAWA, June 30 (AP)—A housewives boycott brought the price of beef today below 50 cents a pound.

British Dock Strike Ends

Hot Weather Causes 11 Deaths; Relief Forecast

CHICAGO, June 30. (AP)—Hot, sticky, collar-wilting weather clung to the Eastern Seaboard states today, causing at least 11 deaths attributed to high temperatures and summer storms.

A mass of comparatively cool, dry air moved across the Midwest from the Plains States. Weather forecasters said it might bring relief to the East in a day or two.

Temperatures were seasonable on the West Coast and slightly above normal in the plains states.

Cemetery To Be Closed

PARIS, June 30 (AP) — The last United States World War II cemetery established in Normandy will be closed July 4 in a joint Franco-American bendiction ceremony, the American Graves Registration Command said today. The cemetery is located at St. Andre, 60 miles west of Paris.

Search Fails To Turn Up Bomb On Giant Liner

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—The crew of the liner Queen Elizabeth combed the giant ship today on a report that a time bomb had been placed aboard. The search failed to turn up a bomb.

Police and firemen converged on the British luxury liner after newspaper offices received telephone calls that a bomb would explode on the Queen Elizabeth 20 hours after she left port tonight.

Capt. C. B. Osborne, of the Elizabeth, told police at 4:30 p. m. (EST) the search was completed. The crew, however, was ordered to remain on the alert.

Maj. Gen. Preston Brown Dies In Massachusetts

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., June 30. (AP)—Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, United States Army retired, World War I commander of the Third Division in the battle of the Meuse-Argonne, died today at his home. He was 76.

Gen. Brown was assistant chief of staff of the American Expeditionary force in November, 1918, and later served in Panama and headed corps area commands at Chicago and Boston.

He had been ill two weeks. A relative said death was caused by a heart condition. He retired in 1934.

Five Navy Fliers Die In Va. Crash

ATLANTA, June 30 (AP) — Five Navy reserve fliers, including War Hero "Snuffy" Smith, died today in an airplane crash five miles north of Fredericksburg, Va.

All five aboard the two-engined Navy transport were from Atlanta or vicinity. They were returning to the naval air base here from Anacostia, near Washington.

Smith, a lieutenant commander listed on the records as "Allen W.," held the Navy Cross, the Silver Star, the Air Medal and the Purple Heart. The Navy Cross rates second only to the Congressional Medal of Honor.

During the war, Smith had 60 months of sea duty and was credited with shooting down a "Tojo" or heavy Nip bomber, and with the sinking of a light Japanese cruiser and a heavy Japanese cruiser.

The others aboard the craft were Lt. Com. R. L. S. Edison, 35, a wartime instructor; Lt. James A. Cotton; Machinist Julius Bassolotti, 44, a veteran of 22 years in the service and Lt. (jg) Cornelius Idwise.

Smith, who the subject of a magazine article called "Plug That Ratchole," served aboard the U.S.S. Yorktown, the U.S.S. Ranger and the U.S.S. Omaney Bay.

Democratic Anti-Truman Bandwagon Rolls In Calif.

LOS ANGELES, June 30. (AP)—A Democratic anti-Truman bandwagon rolled today in California.

Although the state's 54 votes in the Democratic national convention are pledged to the President, State Chairman James Roosevelt indicated a swing to another candidate was abrewing—and stirring up plenty of interest elsewhere.

"The majority of our delegates, I believe, do not consider themselves bound by the pledge," said Roosevelt. "We agreed at our state meeting in San Luis Obispo last weekend to wait and see what the situation is in Philadelphia before acting."

Party insiders said Gen. Dwight Eisenhower and Justice William O. Douglas were most frequently mentioned at the state parley.

"My phone has been ringing all day with calls from all over the country—Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and several southern states," Roosevelt added. "Indications are that they're not unfavorable to California's viewpoint."

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-SC) said today that after talking with Gen. Dwight E. Eisenhower "I am more convinced than ever that Eisenhower is the man of the hour" for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Johnston said he discussed the nomination with Eisenhower for 45 minutes in New York yesterday. He told a reporter he is not at liberty to disclose what Eisenhower said to him, but "we had a very pleasant conversation."

MERIDEN, N. H., June 30. (AP)—Harry Carlson, Democratic national committeeman, has written to other members of the committee asking them to help persuade President Truman to withdraw as a candidate for re-election in favor of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, whom Carlson believes could be drafted.

Carlson's letter went to National Committee members in all states. He said that he conferred with Eisenhower last week, but added

U. S. Agrees To Unfreeze Yugoslav Gold, Assets

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—The United States has agreed in principle to unfreeze about $57,000,000 in Yugoslavia gold and assets, government officials reported today.

In return, the Yugoslavia government has promised to turn over about $17,000,000 to pay claims of the American government and its citizens.

The Yugoslav assets were frozen by the United States in 1941 to keep them out of the hands of the Axis.

The officials who disclosed the agreement in pricinple stressed that the timing of the release of Yugoslav property has "no bearing whatever" on Yugoslavia's current quarrel with Moscow.

Truman Blasts Congress As He Signs Three Bills

WASHINGTON, June 30—(AP)—President Truman sharply criticized actions of the 80th Congress again tonight as he signed three bills.

The Chief Executive called it "reckless and irresponsible" to refuse to provide funds for a Tennessee Valley Authority steam-generating plant "when the security of the nation may be adversely affected." He called it an "area of critical production."

He did so in signing the Government Corporations Appropriation Act which includes funds for TVA.

In signing an appropriation bill for the Interior Department, he said he complied because a veto would close down operations.

He protested a provision which would bring about removal of Michael Straus, reclamation commissioner, and Richard Boke, regional director of the Central Valley in California, "who have supported the public power policy of the government."

Neither the bill nor Mr. Truman named the two officials affected.

Mr. Truman accused Congress of delaying important reclamation work "in all of the great basin areas of the West" by voting less money than he asked for reclamation.

He said that congressional action on the bill evidenced "an intent to destroy the national power policy."

The third bill with which he found fault extends the life of the Virgin Islands Company one year. This is an agency under the Interior Department which promotes economic life of the islands.

Mr. Truman said the law does not meet the needs. He termed it a stopgap doing little to make the islands self sustaining and raising standards of living. The United States should set a progressive example, he said.

The Interior appropriation of $406,836,974 carried a rider establishing arbitrary qualifications for the commissioner and other reclamation officials. Mr. Truman said it was designed to effect removal of supporters of the government's public power policy.

Rain Slows Work In Jap Quake Area

FUKUI, Japan, Thursday, July 1 (AP)—Rain and a new light earth shock added today to the woes of this stricken area of Western Japan where thousands were believed killed or injured by Monday's great earthquake.

The rains, heralding the arrival of the rainy season, forced many searchers to stop work and begin building temporary shelters.

A slight quake this morning sent debris tumbling from wrecked buildings, injuring two searchers. Neither was hurt seriously.

(The United States Eighth Army in Tokyo revised its figures upward drastically listing 3,251 dead and 7,885 injured.

(Of these, 3,212 were dead and 7,695 were injured in Fukui prefecture, center of the disaster, and 39 were dead and 190 injured in the adjacent prefecture of Ishikawa to the north.

(This report, highest yet estimated by any official source, said 36,829 houses were destroyed in the disaster zone.)

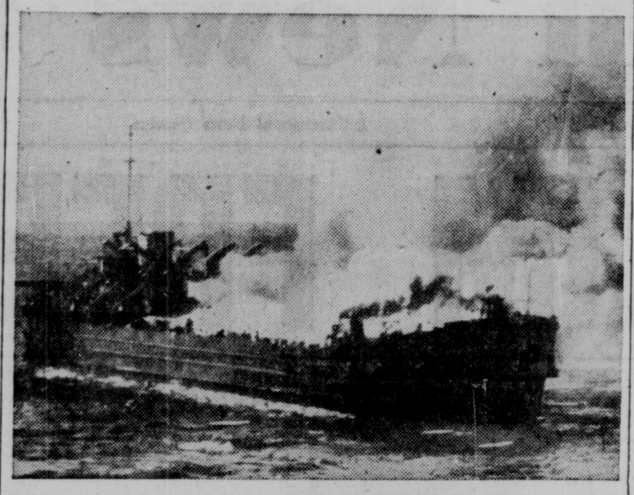

Army authorities said that 303 bodies of Japanese victims had been cremated so far in Fukui and that others were being cremated privately by families of the dead.

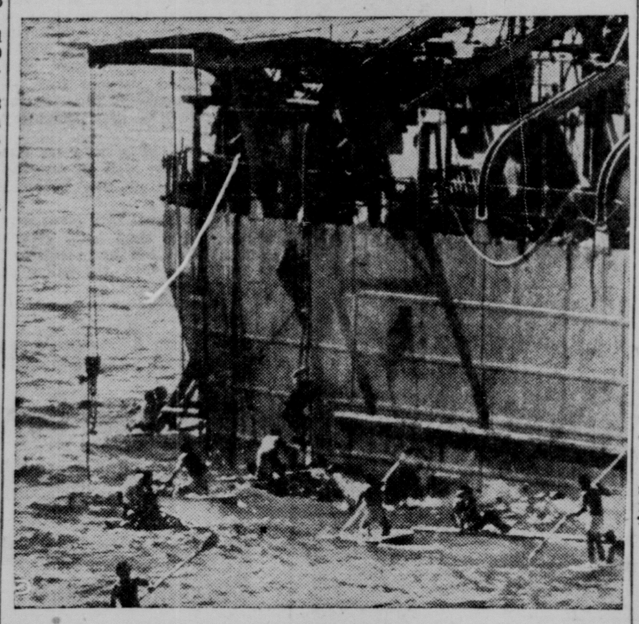

The search of the appalling wreckage for additional victims went ahead.

There were many obstacles to an accurate count. Hundreds of refugees fled the city and have not returned. Families are separated.

The fires have been extinguished in this city of 30,000, but a fresh worry arose for relief authorities.

Lowering clouds threatened downpours which might bring floods to an area where river banks and levees have been split by the earthquake.

THE IRGUNIST ARMS SHIP BURNS AS MUNITION CARGO EXPLODES

Youth Kills His Mother, Planned To Slay Father

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 30. (AP)—A 16-year-old farm youth accused of killing his mother told authorities tonight he had planned also to slay his father but that his foot slipped as he aimed his rifle.

Dist. Atty. John A. Moore charged the youth, Gordon Fisher, Jr., with first degree murder on the basis of an oral statement made to Moore and Sheriff Clarence Smith. He will be arraigned in Municipal Court tomorrow.

Mrs. Fisher, 35, was shot in her farm home near Neenah, Wis., yesterday as she was doing the ironing. The body was found by Fisher when he came in to look for his son. The youth disappeared but was recaptured this morning. At first he said the shooting was accidental.

Moore described young Fisher's statement as "a long premediated plan of killing, in which he planned to do away with both his parents." He said the six-foot, two-inch lad complained he was required to do a man's work on the farm but was told repeatedly he was too young to have dates.

Hint Of Strike Flung At "Captive" Coal Mines

WASHINGTON, June 30—(AP)—A broad hint of a strike was flung today at the coal mines owned by the steel industry should they stick by refusal to sign the new 1948 coal wage and welfare fund contract.

It came in an editorial of John L. Lewis' newspaper, the United Mine Workers Journal. The steel-owned mines have balked at a union shop clause in the agreement which the rest of the soft coal industry has accepted.

Commenting on the holdout, the Journal said:

"Everyone acquainted with labor-management relations in the coal fields knows full well that if the steel industry attempted to revert back to an open shop the men who suffered the hardships of economic domination by the steel industry prior to complete unionization, of their own free will and accord, would deem it a proud privilege of asserting their American rights to shut the captive mines at will."

Anti-Pollution Compact Made By Eight States

CINCINNATI, June 30 (AP)—Pure drinking water and better health protection for 20,000,000 persons in the United States was the promise made for eight states in an anti-stream pollution compact signed today in colorful surroundings.

The Governors of Indiana, West Virginia, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Virginia personally signed the papers. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, the Republican presidential nominee who could not get here, sent word he will sign promptly for that state.

The compact, a reality after 13 years of negotiations, binds the states together to control sewage and industrial wastes through a joint authority. It affects 200,000 square miles and many streams which wind their way into the Ohio River.

Communist Loss Seen On Finnish Election Eve

HELSINKI, June 30 (AP) — A Communist loss was predicted tonight on the eve of Finland's parliamentary elections.

Six parties will compete tomorrow for Parliament's 200 seats. There are 2,600,000 registered voters in Finland.

Boastful Robber Backs Up Braggin'

KANSAS CITY, June 30 (AP) — Robbing the Jackson County sheriff's safe of $9,661 two weeks ago was an easy touch and was planned to coincide with President Truman's visit here, a man who claimed he did the job wrote the Kansas City Star today.

The writer, who signed himself "Pistol Pete," enclosed one of the stolen cashier's checks to back up his boasting. The envelope was postmarked Detroit 9:30 a. m., June 29.

Checks totaling $5,000 and $9,661.50 in cash disappeared from the safe the night of June 15 a day before the President arrived in Kansas City.

The letter was turned over to Sheriff J. A. Purdome by the Star. The sheriff said it might turn up some kind of a lead.

The typewritten letter said in part:

"The haul I made at the courthouse a fortnight ago was a dandy. It was so good and so easy. And to think, the sheriff's till. I just want to spill it and might as well help out those bunnys who are in a jam for leaving that much dough laying loose.

"Everyone knows the courthouse at K. C. is open for business at all hours. xxx I hope to open every piggy bank there.

"I thot it might be funny to take it when Truman was in town and was giving it the last case xxx when I saw that heavy sugar at the sale. When the dum deputty went up on the third floor I poked along behind and spotted where he left the dough. xxx"

The letter added this ironic touch: "Having a lot of time to fool around, I just locked it up again so nothing else would get stole."

Cause Of Costliest Plane Crash Still Baffles CAB

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board Reported today it does not know what caused the crash of an Eastern Airlines plane near Bainbridge, Md., on May 30, 1946.

Fifty-three persons died in the strange accident, the costliest in the history of commercial flying.

The plane, a DC-4, was en route from Newark, N. J., to Miami, Fla., non-stop. Flying straight and level in clear weather, at mid-afternoon of Memorial Day, the big ship suddenly dived 4,000 feet and landed on its back. All aboard were killed.

Agreement On Hard Coal Contract Believed Near

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—Conferees seeking a new hard coal contract adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow after designating three-member subcommittee's to conduct the negotiations.

Conference circles interpreted the appointments as meaning that final agreement was near.

"We are getting down to cases," Thomas Kennedy, vice-president of the United Mine Workers, said in announcing the development. "We can explore things a little faster."

Kennedy said the union subcommittee would include John L. Lewis, UMW president; Martin Brennan, a trustee of the anthracite health and welfare fund, and himself.

J. B. Warriner, board chairman of the Lehigh Navigation Coal Company, and operator spokesman, said the operator's subcommittee had not been determined.

Vets May Not Get Wartime Life Insurance Dividends Before 1950

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Veterans: That dividend you've been expecting on wartime life insurance policies may not be declared until 1950.

H. W. Breining, Veterans Administration insurance chief, had nothing to say, but a VA spokesman condeded that such a delay is likely.

The agency asked for $7,364,000 as as start on the job — estimated eventually to cost $23,000,000 — of auditing National Service Life Insurance records and preparing dividend checks. Officials expected the $7,364,000 to last no more than six months, when another appropriation would have to be requested.

Congress appropriated $2,851,000.

VA had estimated that the requested appropriation would enable it to add 2,700 employes within one year—or 5,400 for six-month terms—to take care of the program, and possibly to start paying out a dividend next summer.

"Nobody knows how much the program will be delayed under the smaller appropriation, but it's obvious the job can't be done as initially planned," the spokesman said.

There's an estimated $6,735,000,000 in the National Service Life Insurance fund. It involves more than 20,000,000 active and lapsed policies, with a number of veterans or their heirs due to collect dividends on two or more policies each.

Individual dividends will vary with the size of each policy, the length it was in force and the age of the insured.

Sailor Held In Alleged Chloroforming Of Girl

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 30 (AP)—A Navy hospital orderly was held today for investigation after what the Naval Academy described as a chloroform attack on a girl of three.

Capt. Jesse R. Wallace, chief of staff of the Severn River Naval Command, said the child was the object of a "chloroforming" yesterday in a garage behind a row of naval officers' cottages at the academy.

"Medical authorities reported that the girl was unharmed," Wallace said. "The alleged chloroforming was broken up by the mother of the child."

Lane Says State May Pass Road-Spending Goal

EASTON, Md., June 30 (AP) — Gov. Lane said tonight that Maryland may spend $50,000,000 on better roads this year.

"I believe," he said, "that we will overshoot" the State Roads Commission's goal of $40,000,000 in 1948.

"Given proper conditions, the 50 million-dollar mark should be reached," the Governor said in a speech prepared for the annual ladies night banquet of the Easton Rotary Club.

New Kind Of Radio Set Has No Vacuum Tubes

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP) — A new kind of radio set, whose music begins instantly when the set is turned on, was shown today by the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

This set has no vacuum tubes. Nothing lights, nothing even glows, and nothing gets warm. The set always goes instantly because the usual warming up of tubes does not exist.

The invention that replaces tubes is a tiny metal cylinder. Although this cylinder acts like a radio tube, there is no vacuum, no grid, no plate, no glass to keep the air away.

The entire innards of the new tube are merely two hair-thin wires that run down to the base of an empty tube, to stand on a bit of metal not much larger than the head of a pin.

This piece of metal is the secret. The metal amplifies the current that one wire carries to it, and the other wire carries away the amplified current.

Rape-Slayer Sought

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP) — Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said today a completed autopsy showed that 11-year-old Carol Bardwell, slain in Rock Creek Park Sunday, was raped.

Meanwhile, police broadcast the description of a man wearing blood-stained clothing in the park area Sunday evening and sought public aid in finding him.

Rain Slows Work In Jap Quake Area

FUKUI, Japan, Thursday, July 1 (AP)—Rain and a new light earth shock added today to the woes of this stricken area of Western Japan where thousands were believed killed or injured by Monday's great earthquake.

The rains, heralding the arrival of the rainy season, forced many searchers to stop work and begin building temporary shelters.

A slight quake this morning sent debris tumbling from wrecked buildings, injuring two searchers. Neither was hurt seriously.

(The United States Eighth Army in Tokyo revised its figures upward drastically listing 3,251 dead and 7,885 injured.

(Of these, 3,212 were dead and 7,695 were injured in Fukui prefecture, center of the disaster, and 39 were dead and 190 injured in the adjacent prefecture of Ishikawa to the north.

(This report, highest yet estimated by any official source, said 36,829 houses were destroyed in the disaster zone.)

Army authorities said that 303 bodies of Japanese victims had been cremated so far in Fukui and that others were being cremated privately by families of the dead.

The search of the appalling wreckage for additional victims went ahead.

There were many obstacles to an accurate count. Hundreds of refugees fled the city and have not returned. Families are separated.

The fires have been extinguished in this city of 80,000, but a fresh worry arose for relief authorities.

Youth Kills His Mother, Planned To Slay Father

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 30. (AP)—A 16-year-old farm youth accused of killing his mother told authorities tonight he had planned also to slay his father but that his foot slipped as he aimed his rifle.

Dist. Atty. John A. Moore charged the youth, Gordon Fisher, Jr., with first degree murder on the basis of an oral statement made to Moore and Sheriff Clarence Smith. He will be arraigned in Municipal Court tomorrow.

Mrs. Fisher, 35, was shot in her farm home near Neenah, Wis., yesterday as she was doing the ironing. The body was found by Fisher when he came in to look for his son. The youth disappeared but was recaptured this morning. At first he said the shooting was accidental.

Moore described young Fisher's statement as "a long premediated plan of killing, in which he planned to do away with both his parents." He said the six-foot, two-inch lad complained he was required to do a man's work on the farm but was told repeatedly he was too young to have dates.

Hint Of Strike Flung At "Captive" Coal Mines

WASHINGTON, June 30—(AP)—A broad hint of a strike was flung today at the coal mines owned by the steel industry should they stick by refusal to sign the new 1948 coal wage and welfare fund contract.

It came in an editorial of John L. Lewis' newspaper, the United Mine Workers Journal. The steel-owned mines have balked at a union shop clause in the agreement which the rest of the soft coal industry has accepted.

Commenting on the holdout, the Journal said:

"Everyone acquainted with labor-management relations in the coal fields knows full well that if the steel industry attempted to revert back to an open shop the men who suffered the hardships of economic domination by the steel industry prior to complete unionization, of their own free will and accord, would deem it a proud privilege of asserting their American rights to shut the captive mines at will."

Anti-Pollution Compact Made By Eight States

CINCINNATI, June 30 (AP)—Pure drinking water and better health protection for 20,000,000 persons in the United States was the promise made for eight states in an anti-stream pollution compact signed today in colorful surroundings.

The Governors of Indiana, West Virginia, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Virginia personally signed the papers. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, the Republican presidential nominee who could not get here, sent word he will sign promptly for that state.

The compact, a reality after 13 years of negotiations, binds the states together to control sewage and industrial wastes through a joint authority. It affects 200,000 square miles and many streams which wind their way into the Ohio River.

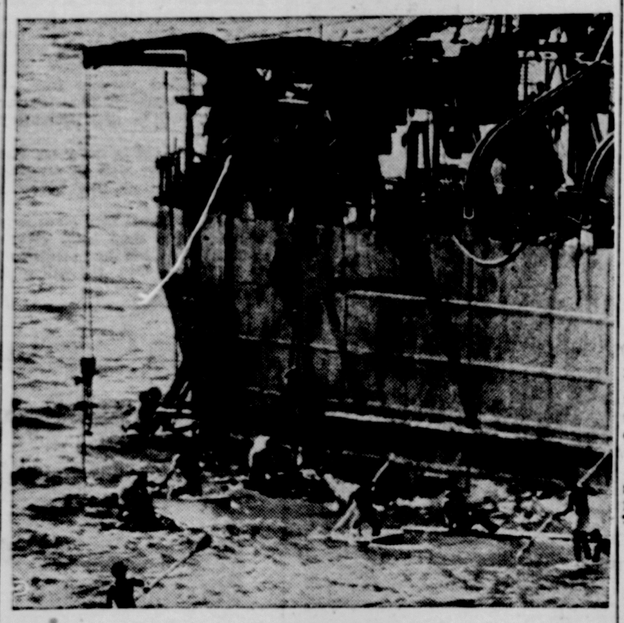

Communist Loss Seen On Finnish Election Eve

HELSINKI, June 30 (AP) — A Communist loss was predicted tonight on the eve of Finland's parliamentary elections.

Six parties will compete tomorrow for Parliament's 200 seats. There are 2,600,000 registered voters in Finland.

THE IRGUNIST ARMS SHIP BURNS AS MUNITION CARGO EXPLODES

Vets May Not Get Wartime Life Insurance Dividends Before 1950

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP)—Veterans: That dividend you've been expecting on wartime life insurance policies may not be declared until 1950.

H. W. Breining, Veterans Administration insurance chief, had nothing to say, but a VA spokesman conceded that such a delay is likely.

The agency asked for $7,364,000 as as start on the job — estimated eventually to cost $23,000,000 — of auditing National Service Life Insurance records and preparing dividend checks. Officials expected the $7,364,000 to last no more than six months, when another appropriation would have to be requested.

Congress appropriated $2,851,000.

VA had estimated that the requested appropriation would enable it to add 2,700 employes within one year—or 5,400 for six-month terms—to take care of the program, and possibly to start paying out a dividend next summer.

"Nobody knows how much the program will be delayed under the smaller appropriation, but it's obvious the job can't be done as initially planned," the spokesman said.

There's an estimated $6,735,000,000 in the National Service Life Insurance fund. It involves more than 20,000,000 active and lapsed policies, with a number of veterans or their heirs due to collect dividends on two or more policies each.

Individual dividends will vary with the size of each policy, the length it was in force and the age of the insured.

Sailor Held In Alleged Chloroforming Of Girl

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 30 (AP)—A Navy hospital orderly was held today for investigation after what the Naval Academy described as a chloroform attack on a girl of three.

Capt. Jesse R. Wallace, chief of staff of the Severn River Naval Command, said the child was the object of a "chloroforming" yesterday in a garage behind a row of naval officers' cottages at the academy.

"Medical authorities reported that the girl was unharmed," Wallace said. "The alleged chloroforming was broken up by the mother of the child."

Lane Says State May Pass Road-Spending Goal

EASTON, Md., June 30 (AP) — Gov. Lane said tonight that Maryland may spend $50,000,000 on better roads this year.

"I believe," he said, "that we will overshoot" the State Roads Commission's goal of $40,000,000 in 1948.

"Given proper conditions, the 50 million-dollar mark should be reached," the Governor said in a speech prepared for the annual ladies night banquet of the Easton Rotary Club.

New Kind Of Radio Set Has No Vacuum Tubes

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP) — A new kind of radio set, whose music begins instantly when the set is turned on, was shown today by the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

This set has no vacuum tubes. Nothing lights, nothing even glows, and nothing gets warm. The set always goes instantly because the usual warming up of tubes does not exist.

The invention that replaces tubes is a tiny metal cylinder. Although this cylinder acts like a radio tube, there is no vacuum, no grid, no plate, no glass to keep the air away.

The entire innards of the new tube are merely two hair-thin wires that run down to the base of an empty tube, to stand on a bit of metal not much larger than the head of a pin.

This piece of metal is the secret. The metal amplifies the current that one wire carries to it, and the other wire carries away the amplified current.

Boastful Robber Backs Up Braggin'

KANSAS CITY, June 30 (AP) — Robbing the Jackson County sheriff's safe of $9,661 two weeks ago was an easy touch and was planned to coincide with President Truman's visit here, a man who claimed he did the job wrote the Kansas City Star today.

The writer, who signed himself "Pistol Pete," enclosed one of the stolen cashier's checks to back up his boasting. The envelope was postmarked Detroit 9:30 a. m., June 29.

Checks totaling $5,000 and $9,661.50 in cash disappeared from the safe the night of June 15 a day before the President arrived in Kansas City.

The letter was turned over to Sheriff J. A. Purdome by the Star. The sheriff said it might turn up some kind of a lead.

The typewritten letter said in part:

"The haul I made at the courthouse a fortnight ago was a dandy. It was so good and so easy. And to think, the sheriff's till. I just want to spill it and might as well help out those bunnys who are in a jam for leaving that much dough laying loose.

"Everyone knows the courthouse at K. C. is open for business at all hours. xxx I hope to open every piggy bank there.

"I thot it might be funny to take it when Truman was in town and was giving it the last case xxx when I saw that heavy sugar at the sale. When the dum deputy went up on the third floor I poked along behind and spotted where he left the dough. xxx"

The letter added this ironic touch:

Cause Of Costliest Plane Crash Still Baffles CAB

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board Reported today it does not know what caused the crash of an Eastern Airlines plane near Bainbridge, Md., on May 30, 1946.

Fifty-three persons died in the strange accident, the costliest in the history of commercial flying.

The plane, a DC-4, was en route from Newark, N. J., to Miami, Fla., non-stop. Flying straight and level in clear weather, at mid-afternoon of Memorial Day, the big ship suddenly dived 4,000 feet and landed on its back. All aboard were killed.

Agreement On Hard Coal Contract Believed Near

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—Conferees seeking a new hard coal contract adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow after designating three-member subcommittee's to conduct the negotiations.

Conference circles interpreted the appointments as meaning that final agreement was near.

"We are getting down to cases," Thomas Kennedy, vice-president, of the United Mine Workers, said in announcing the development. "We can explore things a little faster."

Kennedy said the union subcommittee would include John L. Lewis, UMW president; Martin Brennan, a trustee of the anthracite health and welfare fund, and himself.

J. B. Warriner, board chairman of the Lehigh Navigation Coal Company, and operator spokesman, said the operator's subcommittee had not been determined.

Good Time For Stalin To Prove "Joe Is Fine Fellow"

The chips are finally down in the struggle between Soviet Russia and the Western powers at Berlin.

The United States, Great Britain and France are as resolute as ever in their determination not to be driven out of their Berlin areas by Soviet goading, even if they have to supply their administrative personnel indefinitely by air. But the Russians are now using the 2,000,000 Germans in the western sectors of Berlin as hostages. First they cut off fuel supplies from the west. Then they interfered with power service. Now they have banned all food shipments by rail via the Soviet occupied zone west of Berlin, as well as from agricultural East Germany. They have even tampered with the water supply.

Already the children in more than half of Berlin have been deprived of fresh milk. There is enough food in storage to last a month on emergency rations. But the feeding of 2,000,000 Germans by air would seem to be an impossible task. The Moscow edict amounts to an effort to starve Western Berlin into submission—or rather to use the threat of such starvation as a weapon to drive the Western Allies out of Berlin. It is a dastardly thing to do, yet quite typical of the ruling minds in the Kremlin.

The Russian aim is, of course, to make Berlin the Communist capital of a puppet eastern Germany, as a step toward placing the whole country under subjection to Moscow. The ejection of the Western democratic officials from Berlin would be a long step toward that goal.

The latest and most ruthless Soviet move confronts the Western powers with a terrible dilemma. If they stay on in Berlin they risk the slow starvation of 2,000,000 German men, women and children. If they clear out under pressure they will suffer critical loss of prestige and will turn those Germans over to Communist rule and reprisals.

This would seem to be the time for Stalin to prove that "Joe is a fine fellow." Surely these Russian "friends of the people" would not resort to mass starvation to further their aims of conquest.

Do the Russians want war? Perhaps, but it looks more like a stepping up of the deliberate campaign to bring such pressure on the western Allies that they will abandon Berlin to the Russians.

But what the Russians want and what they will get may be two entirely different things. It is easier to start a fire in a powder keg than it is to put it out. Russian tactics have created a highly explosive situation in Berlin. The question which the next few days will answer is whether the Russians will raise the pressure to the point of conflict or whether they will ease it short of war.

Though the task is gigantic, we should try emergency feeding of Western Berlin by air. The Kremlin may soon feel the political effects of the contrast between the Western democracies, which try to sustain, and Soviet Russia, which tries to starve, the population of a big city.

If the November outcome is already determined, as spokesmen for the opposing camps say, let's agree upon the figures and everybody go about their business and call off the oratory.

Before Congress wound up its session there were many outraged cries that farm prices were going to be left to the law of supply and demand, the implication of these lamentations being that this would be carrying private enterprise too far.

But Congress continued present price supports through 1949. After that there are provisions for supports at varying levels. But it is virtually certain that the next Congress will pass a new farm price measure, regardless of which party wins in November.

As matters stand, the farmer can count on 90 per cent of parity for his crops (92½ per cent in the case of cotton) for the next 18 months. The new farm measure may provide for such lower supports for surplus crops and higher supports for crops in which more production is desired, an adaptation of Henry Wallace's "ever-normal" granary.

Representatives of consumers complain because the government supports farm prices at a high level. They point out this mitigates against [illegible] living. But guaranteeing the farmer profitable prices has been incorporated into national policy permanently. And the farmer points out that farm prices are low today in comparison with wages received by labor in the cities—and in comparison to the prices he must pay for labor's products, such as automobiles and farm machinery.

One of the small-time kings in the Far East threatens action against England for saying he had 600 wives. Actually the number is only 106, which is virtually monogamy in that country.

Child Training

Much attention is being paid to child training. Guidance experts are holding clinics, in which parents are told how to react to Junior's little pecularities. They have answers to all the problems.

They say a child is never naughty simply because he refuses to obey every command. If he tears up his playthings, it is because he has an inquisitive mind and wants to see how they are made. If he quarrels with his playmates he is only asserting his individuality and demanding recognition. All this, of course, is vital to his development.

One expert told the National Conference of Social Workers that baby should never be placed in a play pen. It gives him an early sense of guilt, of having done something which his childish mind cannot grasp and for which he is being punished by virtual imprisonment.

Another says a child should never be corrected for a bit of back talk to his parents, that being a definite sign of an agile mind. "There should be two-way criticism," this expert declares, "both favorable and unfavorable, from child to parent no less than from parent to child."

If children play hookey from school, says still another, it is not from an urge for adventure which motivated Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn, but because he has been given a sense of impending doom by listening to adult conversation.

With all respect to the experts, who probably serve a purpose, mother will find little comfort in their findings on those days when Junior seems to be working up to a good old-fashioned spanking.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Keeping Cool

It is much easier to warm up than to cool off. By adding layers of clothing, we can usually withstand the rigors of the most severe winter; but combating summer heat is far more difficult. Even if we became nudists and walked around in our birthday suits, most of us would still find sweltering weather overpowering.

Dr. Van Dellen

Air conditioning is the ultimate but this boon is not available to every one. Furthermore, we cannot spend all of our time in places where it is installed—offices, theaters, and stores. Since the majority of our population have to work for a living, neither can we sit for hours in a tub of cool water or a lake, swimming pool, river or ocean. Thus we must reach into our bag of tricks in order to keep as cool as possible.

By wearing clothes that are thin and light in weight and color, some relief is obtained. Women are more fortunate than men in this respect but some day perhaps the male sex will be emancipated. Ties, suit coats, heavy shoes, and starched collars and cuffs must go before this stage is reached. The outfits worn in the home and so-called sports clothing are more sensible but for office and professional workers, the situation remains unchanged.

Food is fuel and the more we eat, the more heat we generate hence smaller meals are advised. Milk, cheese, lean meat, cereals, fresh fruits, and vegetables are preferred. The less fat, the better. Moreover ,foods rich in this element rarely appeal to us in torrid weather. On the other hand, carbohydrates and especially proteins are tolerated well and furnish the needed energy for individuals who must do strenuous work.

Frequent bathing keeps the skin clean and encourages perspiration. To offset excessive sweating, an abundance of fluids should be taken, and when they are iced the cooling effect is enhanced. Since perspiration contains salt we must be careful to replenish the supply. Tablets are available but the majority of us can do just as well by adding the mineral to foods such as celery, tomatoes, and radishes.

Exercise also produces heat within the body; by minimizing physical exertion, we are less likely to disturb our thermo-regulating mechanism. This is true especially during the heat of the day. By avoiding the obvious—Old Sol—we can keep several degrees cooler. When out-of-doors, the shady side should be selected, particularly at noon when the sun is close to its zenith. This is no time to go shopping; for those so situated, a siesta is much better.

If the bedroom is stifling, we cannot sleep and thus fatigue is added to the burden already created by heat. By drawing the shades during the day, the house stays cooler. Any breeze is welcome and when one is blowing, we should not hesitate to take advantage of it.

PAINFUL JOINTS

B. F. writes: I am 12 years old and every evening I get severe pains in my ankles. Both my mother and I wonder what causes these pains.

Reply

If distress is marked, X-ray examination of the ankles is advised, to determine whether the bones and joints are normal. Flat feet, overactivity, and rheumatic fever are other possibilities.

THYROID AND WEIGHT

A. W. writes: After a thyroid operation I began to put on weight and now have to starve myself to keep in shape. Is there any medicine I can take to help?

Reply

The administration of thyroid extract is often helpful when a large part of the gland has been removed. The preparation helps to supply the deficiency.

HEARING

Mrs. K. writes: It seems that I hear better with my eyes open than I do when they are closed. Is this my imagination?

Reply

No. When concentration is demanded, it is better to close the eyes. On the other hand, hearing acuity may be increased when they are open because a second sense is being brought into play. The same is true when we make use of other senses such as smell and taste.

Baering Down On The News

When it comes to grand gestures there isn't the slightest tincture of a doubt that France is head and ears over everybody

Last year we sent them a train of hot groceries including wheat, corn, beans and potatoes. Anything that will take the wrinkles out of your vest

Well, France ties on the testimonial feed-bag and returns the compliment. She is sending a perishable caravan of champagne, caviar perfume pate de foie gras and truffles.

You can eat that stuff or rub it into your hair It is the nectar of the Olympians and the elixir of the dilettantes. It's as foolish as an indoor weather-vane and as silly as Simon.

People Who Live In Glass Houses Shouldn't Throw Charge Of "Liar;" Texas Officials Finally Begin To Prosecute Veterans' Housing Frauds

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 30—Three weeks ago, this columnist reported that about 150 cases of housing frauds against veterans had been referred to the U. S. District Attorney in Dallas, Texas, but that not one indictment had been brought. Several prominent citizens, including members of the Dallas Home Builders Association, it was stated, were involved.

The U. S. District Attorney, Frank Potter, immediately hurled the charge of "liar." Nonetheless, Attorney General Tom Clark has now sent a special assistant, Philip W. Yager, to Dallas, together with deputy housing expediter Morris S. Verner, Jr., and a special grand jury has been called to probe these frauds. In addition, the Veterans Administration admitted publicly that some 150 fraud cases were hanging fire.

However, here is something else which the Veterans Administration has not yet made public. In its files are some revealing letters written by its representative, R. F. Andrews, chief of the Veterans Loan Guaranty Service in Dallas. Here are some excerpts from them:

On Feb. 18, Andrews reported to Washington: "Mr. Godfrey of the Dallas Home Builders in telephonic conversation with Mr. Baker, Loan Guaranty Officer, Dallas, today stated that the side-payment cases now in the hands of the U. S. Attorney in Dallas are progressing to his, Mr. Godfrey's satisfaction. The innuendo is obvious."

The "side-payment" cases refer to the practice of charging veterans a fee above the limit permitted by the GI Bill of Rights. This fee is paid on the side and concealed from the Veterans Administration. This columnist previously reported that fraud cases involving members of the Dallas Home Builders had been referred to the U. S. Attorney in Dallas, but no action taken.

"Prominent Citizens" involved

On June 4, Andrews again reported to the Veterans Administration in Washington:

"It would appear that Washington (the Justice Department) has directed vigorous prosecution. . . . But procrastination is the thief of time.

"In instance where so-called 'prominent citizens' as termed by the U. S. Attorney's staff, are involved, it is most convenient to find excuses to postpone from one grand jury to another.

"A member of the Dallas Loan Guaranty Division was in the U. S. Attorney's office while interrogations were being made concerning overpayments, and an operator admitted receiving $2,500 overpayment as 'that was my sales price,' and curtly inquired: 'What do you intend to do about it?'

"The answer was negative, as the operator was a 'prominent citizen.'"

Again on June 10, Andrews made the following report regarding U. S. Attorney Frank Potter whom this columnist charged with dragging his feet.

"In view of the indication in these letters that the U. S. Attorney's office may not be properly cooperating in the prosecution of the persons and corporations involved, it is thought that perhaps you may decide to bring the matter specifically to the Attorney General."

Frauds In Ft. Worth

Andrews also reported to the Veterans Administration that the side-payment complaints referred to Potter totalled more than $100,000.

Regarding near-by Ft. Worth, the Veterans Administration official reported:

"In Ft. Worth one operator, Whitehall and Williams, has been reported as collecting overpayment on all transactions. Cases were presented to the District Attorney 18 months or more ago with no action whatsoever to date, other than shuttling them back to the Regional Chief Attorney 'for more information.'"

That is the record of the U. S. District Attorney who hurls the charge of "liar" so readily.

French Train Of Gratitude

Here is the inside story of the "Train of Gratitude," the French reply to the Friendship Train.

The idea began with the French Railway Workers Veterans Association who hauled the Friendship Train through France and who knew about the great job the American Railroads — both executives and the Brotherhoods—did in handling the train in the USA. Simultaneously, Commandant Guy de la Vasselais, former chief liaison of the 3rd Army and a friend of the late General Patton's, conceived a similar idea. Both took the project to President Auriol of France, who brought them together.

Subsequently the plan was broadened to include all French veterans associations, 34 in number, with a membership of six million.

It was the French Railway veterans who first proposed sending 48 of the old railway cars used by American troops in World War I (40 men-8 horses). They suggested sending one car to each of the 48 states as a permanent souvenir.

Accordingly permission has been given by the French National Railways to send the cars, and the French Line has agreed to ship them to the United States without charge.

The French veterans also propose loading these cars with gifts for the American people, but have ruled out any food, drink or luxury items. Also they do not want to send anything to Americans made out of raw materials received under the Marshall Plan. Therefore they plan to send typically French, nonluxury items such as Sevres pottery, Limoges porcelain, Baccaret crystals, engraved woodwork, Annecy church bells, Brittany bonnets, peasant costumes, plus history documents of mutual interest to the two countries.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Democrats In the Dumps

WASHINGTON.

THE GLUM resignation of the leading Democrats has to be seen to be believed. In the happy isolation of the White House, President Truman is reported to retain his usual chirpy optimism. Something, he tells his callers, will turn up, and then dwells lovingly on the series of unlikely chances by which he reached his present eminence. But the Republican ticket of Dewey and Warren has plunged the Democratic party bosses, their labor allies, the Democratic leaders in Congress and even some among the President's personal advisers into a state of dreadful gloom.

The truth is that Democratic leadership had been prepared for Dewey or the equivalent. But they had always supposed that if a modern-minded Republican headed the ticket, he would be balanced by some one like House Majority Leader Charles Halleck or Senator John W. Bricker, who would be open to easy attack.

Furthermore, by nominating Dewey and Warren, the Republicans deprived the Democratic leadership of what had always been their only real hope. This was that an isolationist - conservative Republican choice — the nomination, say, of Speaker Joseph W. Martin—could be made the pretext for a movement to draft General Dwight D. Eisenhower as the Democratic standard bearer. The strongest advocates of drafting Eisenhower, like Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., now accept the fact that this project has become impractical. A good many of them even hope that Eisenhower will somehow reiterate his earlier statement taking himself out of the Presidential race. They want this to happen so that the opposition to Truman may crystallize more readily around some other candidate, such as Justice William O. Douglas.

The betting is of course approximately 99 to 1 that President Truman will be re-nominated at Philadelphia, despite this widespread desire to make a real showing with Douglas or some one like him. Working for Truman's re-nomination are two oddly selected political agents, Oscar Chapman, the Under Secretary of the Interior, and his old court-jester, that expert mixer of business and politics, George Allen.

Just how and when Allen was readmitted to White House favor is not precisely known. His re-admission is all the stranger, in view of the fact that he has been talking around Washington of "Eisenhower in 1952," which implies acknowledgement of Truman's inevitable defeat. In any case, Allen and Chapman, much more than the Democratic chairman, Senator J. Howard McGrath, have been the Truman contact men with the organizations in the country. And they are very confident they have everything sewed up in advance.

Yet the virtual certainty of President Truman's re-nomination does not mean that the President has a very happy time ahead of him. In the first place, it is still probable that the great Northern Democratic satraps, like Ed Flynn of the Bronx and Jake Arvey of Chicago, will tell the President plainly some time prior to the convention that his defeat is inevitable. It is also probable that they will suggest Truman's retirement for the good of the party.

If this occurs, Truman is expected to make his usual reply, that he is "not a quitter." In this case the Northern leaders, with the possible exception of the Chicago organization, are pretty certain to do nothing further. Yet the experience will hardly be enjoyable for the beleaguered President.

As for the convention itself, Messrs. Chapman, Allen and McGrath will have to step pretty lively to prevent it from being one long horror. The attack on Truman will come both from the Democratic party's Left and Right. The Southerners of the Right have more or less agreed to accept the party's 1944 civil rights plank, but are now insisting on qualifying it with a states' rights plank. This will throw the fat into the fire in the platform committee. The Southerners are also planning to nominate such men as Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Walter George of Georgia and Governor J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina as their section's favorite sons. In short, the purpose of the Southern Democrats is still to give the President the maximum of trouble.

As for the left-wing Democrats, the labor groups and such organizations as the Americans for Democratic Action have lately been working to get what is called an "open convention." Most of those making the fight, like Leon Henderson, have been comparative amateurs in practical politics. Yet President Truman and his agents have only been able to obtain advance commitments from 304 of the 1,234 convention delegates. The rest are uninstructed.

It is the present intention of the fighters for an "open convention" to place Justice Douglas's name in nomination. They are hoping that a rather substantial protest vote against Truman will rally around Douglas. Douglas himself is incommunicado in Oregon and seems unlikely to call a halt to this effort in his behalf, of which he was informed by friends before he left Washington. Altogether, although the President may expect to receive his party's invitation to the ball, he must also expect the invitation to be proferred with almost unparalleled rudeness.

Dewey Would Favor Labor Law Changes, If Elected, Is Belief

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Labor leaders have a problem of practical politics on their hands in trying to decide how much support they should give to the presidential and congressional tickets this autumn.

These leaders will have to determine whether to line themselves up solidly behind President Truman and thus force Governor Dewey to look for his support either in the rank and file of the unions rather than in the leadership cliques or to look entirely to groups and classes that have been fighting the labor-union bosses.

In brief, will the labor bosses by their strategy force Dewey over toward the right while his natural inclination is to move on labor problems to the left of center? Certainly if Dewey wins and has not been helped in the slightest by the labor unions, he will owe nothing to these leaders. Their influence at the White House in the next four years would be negligible.

The Samuel Gompers philosophy and tactics in presidential campaigns was to observe a theoretical neutrality but actually little was done to offend the man likely to be the winning candidate. In the headquarters of both parties were to be found labor leaders.

Now, while all labor-union leaders today say they want the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, many of them realize that this law embodies all the rights which the Wagner Act gave to labor and repeal means, strictly speaking, the wiping out of Wagner Act rights, too. What would have to be done, even if the labor-union leaders had their way, would be the writing of a new law. This can be accomplished by amending the Taft-Hartley Act.

Believed Dewey Favors Changes

There seems no doubt that Governor Dewey, if elected, would favor amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act. He may, during the campaign, call them "corrective" or "clarifying" but labor strategists will recognize such a declaration as the opening wedge toward the removal from the law of certain provisions objected to by labor spokesmen.

The conservatives in Congress would fight against such chan but the politically minded Dew conscious of the importance of bor-union leaders and the supp they can give not only in this ca paign but four years hence if De is elected and runs for a sec term, will want to meet the vi point of the labor chiefs as fa practicable.

Hence it doesn't seem sensible the labor-union policymakers to all out for the Democratic ti in this campaign. Much more lik a goodly number of labor uni and leaders will openly endo Dewey and put themselves in favorable position for the advoc of changes in the Taft-Hartley A

Another big problem for labor-union leaders in the com election is what to do about s porting or opposing members Congress. The situation is com cated by the fact that the la chiefs have little or no influe in the south where Democra Senators and Representatives of conservative and anti-union var are usually elected. The north Democrats, in large measure, radicals and left-wingers. Will labor-union leaders alienate all northern Republicans or support ones that give promise of being rigid on labor legislation? Ag it is the Gompers bipartisan po that emerges as the most prac able course—supporting those publicans who give promise of be friendly to labor and those De crats in states or districts where Republican nominees are not lik ever to aid the movement to mod the Taft-Hartley Act.

If, of course, the union chiefs pect to elect a Congress that wo emasculate the present law, t might as well waste their supp on losing candidates all along line. The country wants the bala between labor and managem maintained. The recent effe use of the present statute to a the nation industrial catastroph too fresh in the minds of the pe to listen to the arguments of th who want outright repeal of Wagner-Taft-Hartley law.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSK

Robert A. Taft

FEW men in American political life are as beloved by those who know them as Senator Robert A. Taft, who lost the nomination for the Presidency on the Republican ticket. For nearly a year, in spite of accelerated excitement for such aspirants as Harold Stassen and Arthur Vandenberg, this column has constantly maintained that it would be either Taft or Dewey, and there never was, at the convention, any other possibility.

Taft's defeat will not affect his leadership in the Senate or, for that matter, in Congress. No one questions his intellectual capacity, his personal integrity or his general competence. Even his opponents admit these qualities. Yet Taft has never been able to translate his virtues into a leadership over large enough numbers of the rank and file of his own party.

Like Henry Clay, Daniel Webster and Elihu Root, he achieves every success but the Presidency.

His failure was due to several causes, principally an inadequate campaign organization and a fear that he would not do well enough to pull them through in marginal districts.

Dewey's campaign management was superb. His three managers, Herbert Brownell, Jr., J. Russel Sprague and Edwin Jaeckle, moved without friction or wasted motion. Stassen and Vandenberg had smooth, mechanical organizations, although both suffered from caginess. Taft's, on the other hand, was too rough and tumble, too unsure.

For instance, the Taft organization let it be believed that he would open with about 350 votes; that figure never appeared. The Dewey people said that they would make it but gave no figure. Either the Taft people were too optimistic or they did not know. That is bad management.

This weakness could have been overcome were it not that this convention contained an extraordinary number of candidates for local office and for Congress. Many districts are, for Republicans, marginal; that is, they can be won only if the top of the ticket gets so large a vote that he pulls everyone along with him. These candidate-delegates were worried lest, with Taft as the nominee, they would be left behind. In every delegation such persons fought Taft.

They were really protecting what they thought were their own interests, although some of them were pro-Taft, as they told me.

Whether their judgment was sound or not, they were not willing to take the risk. Dewey was, throughout the convention, regarded as the best vote-getter. Many mutual friends had hoped that Taft and Dewey would have an automatic agreement as to which would be the candidate after the second ballot. At no time was there any agreement between them in spite of the numerous stories to the contrary. This was an error on Taft's part.

Taft also erred in the last days of the convention by joining the "Hold the line" of the anti-Dewey forces organized by Governor Duff of Pennsylvania, whose brain-truster was Harry Luce. Taft had no business being in this because it was aimed at him. The objective of the "Hold the line" was first to stop Dewey and then to kill off Taft. It was really an anti-Taft move designed to achieve the nomination Vandenberg on a Vandenbe Stassen ticket. This was to be complished, in spite of Vandenbe poor showing in the convention a mechanical process of eliminat Taft discovered what his "frie were doing to him too late.

Fortunately, Taft and Dew respect each other and nothi in the convention occurred destroy their friendship. T stories that went the roun that Dewey was buying del gates by promises is, of cou untrue. The Dewey managem was extraordinarily careful to get caught in any mesh that sort, for promises ma must be kept and no one k know in June what he will ne or want to do in Janua Therefore, the Dewey peo made no promises but trusted the normal human instinct going along with the one w appears to be the winner.

Taft then has no cause for sonal antagonism to Dewey Dewey will remember that it the Vandenberg and not the group that forced the unneces and unpleasant postponement the second ballot. Taft stands a gentleman and a good sport.

Good Time For Stalin To Prove "Joe Is Fine Fellow"

The chips are finally down in the struggle between Soviet Russia and the Western powers at Berlin.

The United States, Great Britain and France are as resolute as ever in their determination not to be driven out of their Berlin areas by Soviet goading, even if they have to supply their administrative personnel indefinitely by air. But the Russians are now using the 2,000,000 Germans in the western sectors of Berlin as hostages. First they cut off fuel supplies from the west. Then they interfered with power service. Now they have banned all food shipments by rail via the Soviet occupied zone west of Berlin, as well as from agricultural East Germany. They have even tampered with the water supply.

Already the children in more than half of Berlin have been deprived of fresh milk. There is enough food in storage to last a month on emergency rations. But the feeding of 2,000,000 Germans by air would seem to be an impossible task. The Moscow edict amounts to an effort to starve Western Berlin into submission—or rather to use the threat of such starvation as a weapon to drive the Western Allies out of Berlin. It is a dastardly thing to do, yet quite typical of the ruling minds in the Kremlin.

The Russian aim is, of course, to make Berlin the Communist capital of a puppet eastern Germany, as a step toward placing the whole country under subjection to Moscow. The ejection of the Western democratic officials from Berlin would be a long step toward that goal.

The latest and most ruthless Soviet move confronts the Western powers with a terrible dilemma. If they stay on in Berlin they risk the slow starvation of 2,000,000 German men, women and children. If they clear out under pressure they will suffer critical loss of prestige and will turn those Germans over to Communist rule and reprisals.

This would seem to be the time for Stalin to prove that "Joe is a fine fellow." Surely these Russian "friends of the people" would not resort to mass starvation to further their aims of conquest.

Do the Russians want war? Perhaps, but it looks more like a stepping up of the deliberate campaign to bring such pressure on the western Allies that they will abandon Berlin to the Russians.

But what the Russians want and what they will get may be two entirely different things. It is easier to start a fire in a powder keg than it is to put it out. Russian tactics have created a highly explosive situation in Berlin. The question which the next few days will answer is whether the Russians will raise the pressure to the point of conflict or whether they will ease it short of war.

Though the task is gigantic, we should try emergency feeding of Western Berlin by air. The Kremlin may soon feel the political effects of the contrast between the Western democracies, which try to sustain, and Soviet Russia, which tries to starve, the population of a big city.

If the November outcome is already determined, as spokesmen for the opposing camps say, let's agree upon the figures and everybody go about their business and call off the oratory.

Before Congress wound up its session there were many outraged cries that farm prices were going to be left to the law of supply and demand, the implication of these lamentations being that this would be carrying private enterprise too far.

But Congress continued present price supports through 1949. After that there are provisions for supports at varying levels. But it is virtually certain that the next Congress will pass a new farm price measure, regardless of which party wins in November.

As matters stand, the farmer can count on 90 per cent of parity for his crops (92½ per cent in the case of cotton) for the next 18 months. The new farm measure may provide for such lower supports for surplus crops and higher supports for crops in which more production is desired, an adaptation of Henry Wallace's "ever-normal" granary.

Representatives of consumer groups complain because the government supports farm prices at a high level. They point out this mitigates against low living. But guaranteeing the farmer profitable prices has been incorporated into national policy permanently. And the farmer points out that farm prices are low today in comparison with wages received by labor in the cities—and in comparison to the prices he must pay for labor's products, such as automobiles and farm machinery.

One of the small-time kings in the Far East threatens action against England for saying he had 600 wives. Actually the number is only 106, which is virtually monogamy in that country.

Child Training

Much attention is being paid to child training. Guidance experts are holding clinics, in which parents are told how to react to Junior's little peculiarities. They have answers to all the problems.

They say a child is never naughty simply because he refuses to obey every command. If he tears up his playthings, it is because he has an inquisitive mind and wants to see how they are made. If he quarrels with his playmates he is only asserting his individuality and demanding recognition. All this, of course, is vital to his development.

One expert told the National Conference of Social Workers that baby should never be placed in a play pen. It gives him an early sense of guilt, of having done something which his childish mind cannot grasp and for which he is being punished by virtual imprisonment.

Another says a child should never be corrected for a bit of baci talk to his parents, that being a definite sign of an agile mind. "There should be two-way criticism," this expert declares, "both favorable and unfavorable, from child to parent no less than from parent to child."

If children play hookey from school, says still another, it is not from an urge for adventure which motivated Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn, but because he has been given a sense of impending doom by listening to adult conversation.

With all respect to the experts, who probably serve a purpose, mother will find little comfort in their findings on those days when Junior seems to be working up to a good old-fashioned spanking.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Keeping Cool

It is much easier to warm up than to cool off. By adding layers of clothing, we can usually withstand the rigors of the most severe winter; but combating summer heat is far more difficult. Even if we became nudists and walked around in our birthday suits, most of us would still find sweltering weather overpowering.

Dr. Van Dellen

Air conditioning is the ultimate but this boon is not available to every one. Furthermore, we cannot spend all of our time in places where it is installed—offices, theaters, and stores. Since the majority of our population have to work for a living, neither can we sit for hours in a tub of cool water or a lake, swimming pool, river or ocean. Thus we must reach into our bag of tricks in order to keep as cool as possible.

By wearing clothes that are thin and light in weight and color, some relief is obtained. Women are more fortunate than men in this respect but some day perhaps the male sex will be emancipated. Ties, suit coats, heavy shoes, and starched collars and cuffs must go before this stage is reached. The outfits worn in the home and so-called sports clothing are more sensible but for office and professional workers, the situation remains unchanged.

Food is fuel and the more we eat, the more heat we generate hence smaller meals are advised. Milk, cheese, lean meat, cereals, fresh fruits, and vegetables are preferred. The less fat, the better. Moreover, foods rich in this element rarely appeal to us in torrid weather. On the other hand, carbohydrates and especially proteins are tolerated well and furnish the needed energy for individuals who must do strenuous work.

Frequent bathing keeps the skin clean and encourages perspiration. To offset excessive sweating, an abundance of fluids should be taken, and when they are iced the cooling effect is enhanced. Since perspiration contains salt we must be careful to replenish the supply. Tablets are available but the majority of us can do just as well by adding the mineral to foods such as celery, tomatoes, and radishes.

Exercise also produces heat within the body; by minimizing physical exertion, we are less likely to disturb our thermo-regulating mechanism. This is true especially during the heat of the day. By avoiding the obvious—Old Sol—we can keep several degrees cooler. When out-of-doors, the shady side should be selected, particularly at noon when the sun is close to its zenith. This is no time to go shopping; for those so situated, a siesta is much better.

If the bedroom is stifling, we cannot sleep and thus fatigue is added to the burden already created by heat. By drawing the shades during the day, the house stays cooler. Any breeze is welcome and when one is blowing, we should not hesitate to take advantage of it.

Reply

If distress is marked, X-ray examination of the ankles is advised, to determine whether the bones and joints are normal. Flat feet, overactivity, and rheumatic fever are other possibilities.

THYROID AND WEIGHT

A. W. writes: After a thyroid operation I began to put on weight and now have to starve myself to keep in shape. Is there any medicine I can take to help?

Reply

The administration of thyroid extract is often helpful when a large part of the gland has been removed. The preparation helps to supply the deficiency.

HEARING

Mrs. K. writes: It seems that I hear better with my eyes open than I do when they are closed. Is this my imagination?

Reply

No. When concentration is demanded, it is better to close the eyes. On the other hand, hearing acuity may be increased when they are open because a second sense is being brought into play. The same is true when we make use of other senses such as smell and taste.

People Who Live In Glass Houses Shouldn't Throw Charge Of "Liar;" Texas Officials Finally Begin To Prosecute Veterans' Housing Frauds

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, June 30—Three weeks ago, this columnist reported that about 150 cases of housing frauds against veterans had been referred to the U. S. District Attorney in Dallas, Texas, but that not one indictment had been brought. Several prominent citizens, including members of the Dallas Home Builders Association, it was stated, were involved.

The U. S. District Attorney, Frank Potter, immediately hurled the charge of "liar." Nonetheless, Attorney General Tom Clark has now sent a special assistant, Philip W. Yager, to Dallas, together with deputy housing expediter Morris S. Verner, Jr., and a special grand jury has been called to probe these frauds. In addition, the Veterans Administration admitted publicly that some 150 fraud cases were hanging fire.

However, here is something else which the Veterans Administration has not yet made public. In its files are some revealing letters written by its representative, R. F. Andrews, chief of the Veterans Loan Guaranty Service in Dallas. Here are some excerpts from them:

On Feb. 18, Andrews reported to Washington: "Mr. Godfrey of the Dallas Home Builders in telephonic conversation with Mr. Baker, Loan Guaranty Officer, Dallas, today stated that the side-payment cases now in the hands of the U. S. Attorney in Dallas are progressing to his, Mr. Godfrey's satisfaction. The innuendo is obvious."

The "side-payment" cases refer to the practice of charging veterans a fee above the limit permitted by the GI Bill of Rights. This fee is paid on the side and concealed from the Veterans Administration. This columnist previously reported that fraud cases involving members of the Dallas Home Builders had been referred to the U. S. Attorney in Dallas, but no action taken.

"Prominent Citizens" involved

On June 4, Andrews again reported to the Veterans Administration in Washington:

"It would appear that Washington (the Justice Department) has directed vigorous prosecution. . . . But procrastination is the thief of time.

"In instance where so-called 'prominent citizens' as termed by the U. S. Attorney's staff, are involved, it is most convenient to find excuses to postpone from one grand jury to another.

"A member of the Dallas Loan Guaranty Division was in the U. S. Attorney's office while interrogations were being made concerning overpayments, and an operator admitted receiving $2,500 overpayment as 'that was my sales price,' and curtly inquired: 'What do you intend to do about it?'

"The answer was negative, as the operator was a 'prominent citizen.'"

Again on June 10, Andrews made the following report regarding U. S. Attorney Frank Potter whom this columnist charged with dragging his feet.

"In view of the indication in these letters that the U. S. Attorney's office may not be properly cooperating in the prosecution of the persons and corporations involved, it is thought that perhaps you may decide to bring the matter specifically to the Attorney General."

Frauds In Ft. Worth

Andrews also reported to the Veterans Administration that the side-payment complaints referred to Potter totalled more than $100,000.

Regarding near-by Ft. Worth, the Veterans Administration official reported:

"In Ft. Worth one operator, Whitehall and Williams, has been reported as collecting overpayment on all transactions. Cases were presented to the District Attorney 18 months or more ago with no action whatsoever to date, other than shuttling them back to the Regional Chief Attorney 'for more information.'"

That is the record of the U. S. District Attorney who hurls the charge of "liar" so readily.

French Train Of Gratitude

Here is the inside story of the "Train of Gratitude," the French reply to the Friendship Train.

The idea began with the French Railway Workers Veterans Association who hauled the Friendship Train through France and who knew about the great job the American Railroads — both executives and the Brotherhoods—did in handling the train in the USA. Simultaneously, Commandant Guy de la Vasselais, former chief liaison of the 3rd Army and a friend of the late General Patton's, conceived a similar idea. Both took the project to President Auriol of France, who brought them together.

Subsequently the plan was broadened to include all French veterans associations, 34 in number, with a membership of six million.

It was the French Railway veterans who first proposed sending 48 of the old railway cars used by American troops in World War I (40 men-8 horses). They suggested sending one car to each of the 48 states as a permanent souvenir.

Accordingly permission has been given by the French National Railways to send the cars, and the French Line has agreed to ship them to the United States without charge.

The French veterans also propose loading these cars with gifts for the American people, but have ruled out any food, drink or luxury items. Also they do not want to send anything to Americans made out of raw materials received under the Marshall Plan. Therefore they plan to send typically French, nonluxury items such as Sevres pottery, Limoges porcelain, Baccaret crystals, engraved woodwork, Annecy church bells, Brittany bonnets, peasant costumes, plus history documents of mutual interest to the two countries.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Democrats In the Dumps

WASHINGTON.

THE GLUM resignation of the leading Democrats has to be seen to be believed. In the happy isolation of the White House, President Truman is reported to retain his usual chirpy optimism. Something, he tells his callers, will turn up, and then dwells lovingly on the series of unlikely chances by which he reached his present eminence. But the Republican ticket of Dewey and Warren has plunged the Democratic party bosses, their labor allies, the Democratic leaders in Congress and even some among the President's personal advisers into a state of dreadful gloom.

The truth is that Democratic leadership had been prepared for Dewey or the equivalent. But they had always supposed that if a modern-minded Republican headed the ticket, he would be balanced by some one like House Majority Leader Charles Halleck or Senator John W. Bricker, who would be open to easy attack.

Furthermore, by nominating Dewey and Warren, the Republicans deprived the Democratic leadership of what had always been their only real hope. This was that an isolationist - conservative Republican choice — the nomination, say, of Speaker Joseph W. Martin—could be made the pretext for a movement to draft General Dwight D. Eisenhower as the Democratic standard bearer. The strongest advocates of drafting Eisenhower, like Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., now accept the fact that this project has become impractical. A good many of them even hope that Eisenhower will somehow reiterate his earlier statement taking himself out of the Presidential race. They want this to happen so that the opposition to Truman may crystallize more readily around some other candidate, such as Justice William O. Douglas.

The betting is of course approximately 99 to 1 that President Truman will be re-nominated at Philadelphia, despite this widespread desire to make a real showing with Douglas or some one like him. Working for Truman's re-nomination are two oddly selected political agents, Oscar Chapman, the Under Secretary of the Interior, and his old court-jester, that expert mixer of business and politics, George Allen.

Just how and when Allen was readmitted to White House favor is not precisely known. His re-admission is all the stranger, in view of the fact that he has been talking around Washington of "Eisenhower in 1952," which implies acknowledgement of Truman's inevitable defeat. In any case, Allen and Chapman, much more than the Democratic chairman, Senator J. Howard McGrath, have been the Truman contact men with the organizations in the country. And they are very confident they have everything sewed up in advance.

Yet the virtual certainty of President Truman's re-nomination does not mean that the President has a very happy time ahead of him. In the first place, it is still probable that the great Northern Democratic satraps, like Ed Flynn of the Bronx and Jake Arvey of Chicago, will tell the President plainly some time prior to the convention that his defeat is inevitable. It is also probable that they will suggest Truman's retirement for the good of the party.

If this occurs, Truman is expected to make his usual reply, that he is "not a quitter." In this case the Northern leaders, with the possible exception of the Chicago organization, are pretty certain to do nothing further. Yet the experience will hardly be enjoyable for the beleaguered President.

As for the convention itself, Messrs. Chapman, Allen and McGrath will have to step pretty lively to prevent it from being one long horror. The attack on Truman will come both from the Democratic party's Left and Right. The Southerners of the Right have more or less agreed to accept the party's 1944 civil rights plank, but are now insisting on qualifying it with a states' rights plank. This will throw the fat into the fire in the platform committee. The Southerners are also planning to nominate such men as Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Walter George of Georgia and Governor J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina as their section's favorite sons. In short, the purpose of the Southern Democrats is still to give the President the maximum of trouble.

As for the left-wing Democrats, the labor groups and such organizations as the Americans for Democratic Action have lately been working to get what is called an "open convention." Most of those making the fight, like Leon Henderson, have been comparative amateurs in practical politics. Yet President Truman and his agents have only been able to obtain advance commitments from 304 of the 1,234 convention delegates. The rest are uninstructed.

It is the present intention of the fighters for an "open convention" to place Justice Douglas's name in nomination. They are hoping that a rather substantial protest vote against Truman will rally around Douglas. Douglas himself is incommunicado in Oregon and seems unlikely to call a halt to this effort in his behalf, of which he was informed by friends before he left Washington. Altogether, although the President may expect to receive his party's invitation to the ball, he must also expect the invitation to be proferred with almost unparalleled rudeness.

Dewey Would Favor Labor Law Changes, If Elected, Is Belief

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Labor leaders have a problem of practical politics on their hands in trying to decide how much support they should give to the presidential and congressional tickets this autumn.

These leaders will have to determine whether to line themselves up solidly behind President Truman and thus force Governor Dewey to look for his support either in the rank and file of the unions rather than in the leadership cliques or to look entirely to groups and classes that have been fighting the labor-union bosses.

In brief, will the labor bosses by their strategy force Dewey over toward the right while his natural inclination is to move on labor problems to the left of center? Certainly if Dewey wins and has not been helped in the slightest by the labor unions, he will owe nothing to these leaders. Their influence at the White House in the next four years would be negligible.

The Samuel Gompers philosophy and tactics in presidential campaigns was to observe a theoretical neutrality but actually little was done to offend the man likely to be the winning candidate. In the headquarters of both parties were to be found labor leaders.

Now, while all labor-union leaders today say they want the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, many of them realize that this law embodies all the rights which the Wagner Act gave to labor and repeal means, strictly speaking, the wiping out of Wagner Act rights, too. What would have to be done, even if the labor-union leaders had their way, would be the writing of a new law. This can be accomplished by amending the Taft-Hartley Act.

Believed Dewey Favors Changes

There seems no doubt that Governor Dewey, if elected, would favor amendments to the Taft-Hartley Act. He may, during the campaign, call them "corrective" or "clarifying" but labor strategists will recognize such a declaration as the opening wedge toward the removal from the law of certain provisions objected to by labor spokesmen.

The conservatives in Congress would fight against such chan but the politically minded Dew conscious of the importance of bor-union leaders and the supp they can give not only in this ca paign but four years hence if Dew is elected and runs for a seco term, will want to meet the vi point of the labor chiefs as far practicable.

Hence it doesn't seem sensible the labor-union policymakers to all out for the Democratic tic in this campaign. Much more lik a goodly number of labor unl and leaders will openly endo Dewey and put themselves in favorable position for the advoca of changes in the Taft-Hartley A

Another big problem for labor-union leaders in the com election is what to do about s porting or opposing members Congress. The situation is comp cated by the fact that the la chiefs have little or no influe in the south where Democra Senators and Representatives of conservative and anti-union vari are usually elected. The north Democrats, in large measure, radicals and left-wingers. Will labor-union leaders alienate all northern Republicans or support ones that give promise of being rigid on labor legislation? Aga it is the Gompers bipartisan pol that emerges as the most prac able course—supporting those publicans who give promise of be friendly to labor and those Dem crats in states or districts where Republican nominees are not lik ever to aid the movement to mod the Taft-Hartley Act.

If, of course, the union chiefs pect to elect a Congress that wo emasculate the present law, t might as well waste their supp on losing candidates all along line. The country wants the bala between labor and managem maintained. The recent effect use of the present statute to sp the nation industrial catastrophe too fresh in the minds of the peo to listen to the arguments of th who want outright repeal of Wagner-Taft-Hartley law.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSK

Robert A. Taft

FEW men in American political life are as beloved by those who know them as Senator Robert A. Taft, who lost the nomination for the Presidency on the Republican ticket. For nearly a year, in spite of accelerated excitement for such aspirants as Harold Stassen and Arthur Vandenberg, this column has constantly maintained that it would be either Taft or Dewey, and there never was, at the convention, any other possibility.

Taft's defeat will not affect his leadership in the Senate or, for that matter, in Congress. No one questions his intellectual capacity, his personal integrity or his general competence. Even his opponents admit these qualities. Yet Taft has never been able to translate his virtues into a leadership over large enough numbers of the rank and file of his own party.

Like Henry Clay, Daniel Webster and Elihu Root, he achieves every success but the Presidency.

His failure was due to several causes, principally an inadequate campaign organization and a fear that he would not do well enough to pull them through in marginal districts.

Dewey's campaign management was superb. His three managers, Herbert Brownell, Jr., J. Russel Sprague and Edwin Jaeckle, moved without friction or wasted motion. Stassen and Vandenberg had smooth, mechanical organizations, although both suffered from caginess. Taft's, on the other hand, was too rough and tumble, too unsure.

For instance, the Taft organization let it be believed that he would open with about 350 votes; that figure never appeared. The Dewey people said that they would make it but gave no figure. Either the Taft people were too optimistic or they did not know. That is bad management.

This weakness could have been overcome were it not that this convention contained an extraordinary number of candidates for local office and for Congress. Many districts are, for Republicans, marginal; that is, they can be won only if the top of the ticket gets so large a vote that he pulls everyone along with him. These candidate-delegates were worried lest, with Taft as the nominee, they would be left behind. In every delegation such persons fought Taft.

They were really protecting what they thought were their own interests, although some of them were pro-Taft, as they told me.

Whether their judgment was sound or not, they were not willing to take the risk. Dewey was, throughout the convention, regarded as the best vote-getter. Many mutual friends had hoped that Taft and Dewey would have an automatic agreement as to which would be the candidate after the second ballot. At no time was there any agreement between them in spite of the numerous stories to the contrary. This was an error on Taft's part.

Taft also erred in the last days of the convention by joining the "Hold the line" of the anti-Dewey forces organized by Governor Duff of Pennsylvania, whose brain-truster was Harry Luce. Taft had no business being in this because it was aimed at him. The objective of the "Hold the line" was first to stop Dewey and then to kill off Taft. It was really an anti-Taft move designed to achieve the nomination Vandenberg on a Vandenbe Stassen ticket. This was to be complished, in spite of Vandenbe poor showing in the convention a mechanical process of eliminat Taft discovered what his "frie were doing to him too late.

Fortunately, Taft and Dew respect each other and nothi in the convention occurred destroy their friendship. T stories that went the roun that Dewey was buying del gates by promises is, of cour untrue. The Dewey manageme was extraordinarily careful n to get caught in any mesh that sort, for promises ma must be kept and no one c know in June what he will ne or want to do in Janua Therefore, the Dewey peo made no promises but trusted the normal human instinct going along with the one w appears to be the winner.

Taft then has no cause for sonal antagonism to Dewey Dewey will remember that it the Vandenberg and not the group that forced the unneces and unpleasant postponement the second ballot. Taft stands a gentleman and a good sport.

Cafe Cavalcade

NEW YORK, July 30—Greenwich Village proudly recalls that many stars of stage, screen, radio and opera made their first bid to local fame in cafes and bistros, among them Rudy Vallee, Judy Canova, Paul and Grace Hartman, Walter O'Keefe, John Carter and the late Grace Moore and Mary Lewis; that Norma Shearer, while trying to crash the Greenwich Village Theatre, served for at least one day as waitress at the Pepper Pot on West Fourth Street. Many a present-day celebrity has tried to buy back his autograph, signed to tabs during his impecunious days at Bertolotti's on West Third Street, one of the few Greenwich Village institutions to weather the years and practically the last link with its Bohemian past . . . Bertolotti's, located in a mansion once occupied by Lillian Russell, and before that by Edgar Allen Poe—he wrote "The Bells" and "The Fall of the House of Usher" while living there—dates from the 1880's, with time out for a padlocked period during prohibition, when it was taken over by Barney Gallant.

•—•—•

Carrie Monteverdi, a native Greenwich Villager and wife of Angelo Bertolotti, wearied of her husband's many unsuccessful attempts to operate saloons and transformed one of them into a restaurant catering to Italian laborers. The long family table in the center of the room, with good food at cheap prices, soon attracted the impoverished artists and writers of the neighborhood and in their wake came the stars of the early movies, then being made in the Union Square sector. Among the "names" who lent lustre to Ma Bertolotti's humble quarters were Clara Kimball Young, Colleen Moore, Anita Stewart, Helen Twelvetrees and Jeanne Eagels . . . The site now houses the cafe of Bill Bertolotti, son of Ma Bertolotti, who now operates a modest dining place on West Fourth Street, opposite the Pepper Pot . . . Another hangout for the less affluent lierati was the Mad Hatter, first of the many tea rooms, also on West Fourth. Over the entrance was spelled "Down the rabbit hole," spelled backwards in the "Alice In Wonderland" tradition, and overhead in the extremely limited quarters was a sign reading "There's plenty of room, said Alice."

Among the hangers-on at the Mad Hatter was a ponderous Dutchman who had a flair for sketching on menus. Years later, as author of "Story of Mankind," Hendrick Wilhelm Van Loon's sketches became collectors' items. Van Loon married the hostess of the Mad Hatter, who bore the nickname of "Jimmy"; married her twice, in fact, as they were reunited after a divorce . . . In those pre-World War I days the tea rooms enjoyed a great vogue. Modest prices and the personal cordiality of their operators, some of them artists in their own right, attracted the long-haired set The Purple Pup, Ye Pig and Whistle, the Early Bird Breakfast and Christine's were some of the more popular places.

The influx into the Village of what are now called nite clubs began in the early 1920's the pioneer, of course being the Greenwich Village Inn. Property owners at first regarded the intruders as despoilers of the neighbornood and a menace to realty values. They induced the Police Department to "clean up" the more objectionable places, but as fast as one closed another opened up. Though lacking the Bohemian glamor of more picturesque cafes of an earlier day, the nite clubs continued to lure the crowds. Don Dickerman's East 9th St., the Pirates' Den, with County Fair, a bucolic nitery on its synthetic Spanish Main atmosphere and a swaggering one-eyed doorman (a gentle-spoken artist in private life); the Village Nut Club, whose most famous patron was Fanny Ward. Also Jimmy Kelly's and El Chico, oldest and most picturesque Spanish nite club in New York, which has launched more Latin-American talent than any of the Broadway cafes. A number of these latter still carry on, but they are more in the tradition of Broadway than of Greenwich Village.

The oldest Village institution, of course, is the Hotel Brevoort, still flourishing after 96 years. The early and more genuine literary life of the Village is linked with this hostelry, but that is another and different story. The Brevoort supplied background for "Romance," which for years served as a starring vehicle for Doris Keane, and next year will be revived as an operetta on Broadway. The Brevoort's proprietor, Raymond Orteig, awarded a $25,000 prize to Charles Lindbergh for making the first solo trans-Atlantic flight in 1927, and the history-making ceremony was held at that hotel . . . The Brevoort has refused to yield to the pressure of the modern age and still maintains its tranquility and conservatism. Recently Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, a neighbor from Washington Square, dropped in for breakfast. At her polite request for speedier service, the garcon pointed to a drugstore luncheonette and asserted "That is the place for quick service, Madam—this is the Brevoort."

Ada Jean Barnard Becomes Bride Of Cpl. R. E. Elkins

Couple To Reside In Norfolk, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hurley Barnard, 700 Lowell Avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ada Jean Barnard, to Cpl. Robert Eugene Elkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Elkins, 523 Lowell Avenue.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized June 26 in Kingsley Methodist Church with Rev. M. A. Keesecker officiating. Mrs. Betty Jean Elkins, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor and the bride's only attendant. William Elkins served as his brother's best man.

The bride wore a powder blue suit with white accessories and her matron of honor was attired in a black print dress, with which she wore red accessories.

The bride attended Fort Hill High School and is employed at Memorial Hospital from which she will resign Friday, when she will move to Virginia with her husband.

The bridegroom also attended Fort Hill High School and was employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad until he enlisted in the United States Marines one and one half years ago. This weekend he and his bride will leave for Norfolk, Va., where he is stationed.

brother's best man. Mrs. Richard Goldsworthy played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Miss Drucilla Schreiner, vocalist.

The bride wore a white sheer gown with lace edged illusion veil and her maid of honor wore pink marquisette with matching headband and shoulder length veil.

The bride is on the staff of the Celanese Corporation and the bridegroom, a veteran of three years Army service, is associated with his father in the Hughes Coal Company.

A wedding breakfast was served at Anton's Big Savage Inn followed by a reception at the home of the bride, during the afternoon. After an eastern trip the couple will reside in Midland.

Francis J. Hughes Weds Helen A. Cain

Miss Helen A. Cain, daughter of Mrs. Annie Cain, Vale Summit, and the late James H. Cain, became the bride of Francis J. Two New Hybrid Tea Roses Win National Rose Jury's Nod For '49

Forty-niner and Tallyho, two new hybrid tea roses, have won the National Rose Jury's title, "All-America Rose Selection for 1949."

Both roses competed with the best new varieties of the nation's leading rose growers during two-year trials in 18 official test gardens.

Judged on the qualities of the ideal rose, Forty-niner and Tallyho achieved near perfect scores and demonstrated that they could flourish in any part of the country.

Forty-niner is probably the most brilliantly hued bi-colored rose ever introduced. Its outstanding feature is the color of its petal . . . a rich yellow outside which contrasts and yet harmonizes with a vivid red inside.

Yellow Most Evident

The yellow color is most evident in the bud which is a chrome yellow, sometimes overlaid with pink. This changes to straw yellow in the open bloom. The inside surface of the peals is an orient red which turns cherry red as the blossom ages.

Tallyho, also bi-colored, has an unusual that is entirely new to roses. Its coloring varies according to the weather and planting location.

While the outside of the petals fluctuates from crimson to cardinal red, its inside surface exhibits several shades of pink including Tyrian rose, China rose, phlox pink and neyron rose.

Roses competing for the National Rose Jury's annual award are judged on 12 counts. Most emphasis is placed on a plant's vitality, foliage, bud form and floriferousness (quantity and quality of blooms and inherent capacity to flower throughout the season).

Other qualities considered include fragrance, disease resistance, color, habit, substance, flower form and length and strength of stems.

Vigor is a strong trait of Forty-niner. Its stems are long and straight, usually very heavy, and are quite free of thorns.

Possessing a mild, pleasant fragrance, its long pointed buds open into well shaped flowers of 30 to 40 petals.

Colors Of Forty-Niner Stay

While in the past, bi-colored roses have had a tendency to fade rapidly, the colors of Forty-niners stay until the last petal drops. The plant also shows satisfactory strength and resistance to diseese.

Robust growth is one of the strongest characteristics of Tallyho. This plant branches continually, throwing out long straight flower stems with a beautiful bud at the top. Its flowers, when in full bloom, last well.

A rich spicy fragrance, unique coloring and graceful form in the open bloom were major reasons for Tallyho's selection as an All-America Rose.

Selection of the All-America Roses is made each year by a panel of rose experts. These impartial judges score each variety on the basis of its performance during two-year trials in All-America Rose Selections test gardens.

These gardens are located throughout the country insuring that prize winning plants are capable of surviving under any climatic conditions in America.

Scores compiled by experts are averaged. Only those plants which receive nearly perfect scores are given a place on the national rose honor roll.

Five roses currently on the market, Diamond Jubilee, Nocturne, Pinkie, San Fernando and Taffeta, were chosen by the National Rose Jury for 1948 honors.

Mrs. Alma Wilt Heads North Branch Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of District 16, Volunteer Firemen was organized and elected officers at the North Branch fire hall, with Mrs. J. F. Bittner, Bowman's Addition Auxiliary in charge.

Mrs. Alma Wilt was elected president; Mrs. Pearl Dever, vice president; Mrs. Xyla Lewis, financial secretary; Mrs. Eunice Spooler, recording secretary; Mrs. Ruth Early, treasurer; Mrs. Hilda Lehman, social chairman; Mrs. Margaret Wolford, welcome chairman; Mrs. Ollie Johns, Mrs. Florence Brown, Mrs. Addie Newcomb, By-Laws committee; Mrs. Delia McDonald, Mrs. Gladys Johnson, Mrs. Elizabeth Brehm, trustees; Mrs. Mary Squires, publicity; Mrs. Ethel McBride, chaplain and Mrs. Lenora Grabenstein, Mrs. Edde Gordon and Mrs. Dorothy Malone, auditors.

Twenty-six members were initiated and it was decided to meet the second and four Mondays of the month. A social hour followed and refreshments were served.

DAV Marks Anniversary

The DAV Auxiliary celebrated it's third anniversary and held installation of officers with Mrs Mabel Howard, Washington, national executive committee woman, officiating. Mrs. Rose Perdew was inducted as commander; Mrs. Faye Herbaugh, senior vice commander; Mrs. Clara Mantheiy, junior vice commander; Mrs. Bertha Klink, treasurer; and Mrs. Marie Snyder, adjutant. Mrs. Georgia Flurshutz was appointed executive committee woman. Two new members were admitted. They are Mrs. Leatha Shiner and Mrs. Oneita Willison.

Mrs. Mae Mont, American Legion and Mrs. Hazel Burke, Purple Heart Auxiliary, were guests.

Staff Club Plans Picnic

Plans for a picnic supper were formulated at the meeting of the Staff Social Club of Manhattan Temple, Pythian Sisters, recently at the home of Mrs. Josephine Biggs, Ridgeley. It will be held July 22 at Constitution Park beginning at 5:30.

Each member was asked to make a sunshine basket for Mrs. Armenia Zimmerman who is a patient in Allegany Hospital. The baskets are to be taken to the home of Mrs Ada Twigg, 114 Harrison Street, for delivery.

A social hour followed and prizes were won by Mrs. Eleanor Adams, and Mrs. Nellie Lucas.

Bryaxis was a Greek sculptor who worked about 350 B. C. He created five colossal figures of the gods at Rhodes, statues of Bacchus, Aesculaphius and Hygeia, of Apollo and Serapis.

Marriage Announced

Mary Malamphy Becomes Bride Of A. E. Bull

The marriage of Miss Mary Margaret Malamphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Malamphy, 414 Park Street, to Arthur Edward Bull, son of Mrs. A. B. Bull, Hereford, June 26. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas A. Hardesty in St. Patrick's rectory. Miss Jane Bell, city, and George Palmer, Butler, were the attendants.

The bride wore a green crepe dress with Panama hat and gold accessories, with it she wore a corsage of orchids. Her maid of honor wore a pink jersey dress, Panama hat and gold accessories, and natural orchid corsage.

Mrs. Malamphy wore black and white and Mrs. Bull, blue and white. Both had corsages of gardenias.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School and formerly was employed on the Celanese staff. The bridegroom is a graduate of Sparks, Md., High School and is employed by the Walter Ruhl Construction and Building Company, Hereford.

Penn Avenue Group Plans Festival

The Pennsylvania Avenue Playground Association formulated plans for a festival at the meeting Tuesday night. It will be held early this month at the ball field. Proceeds are to be used for a fence for the playground. Mrs. Bernard Fleigle is general chairman of arrangements.

A children's parade will be held at 7:30 and prizes will be awarded. James Torbitt and Bernard Fleigle are in charge of entertainment. The Refreshment committee includes Mrs. Frank Moss, Lloyd Norris, G. H. Nield, Mrs. Harry Hall, Mrs. William Muir, Mrs. J. H. Deneen, Mrs. L. A. Mattingly, Mrs Fred Gross, and Mrs. Gladys Fuller.

Daylight Robbery Nets $1,800 Here

Investigation of the bold robbing of the Rand Drug Company Store yesterday morning, with $1,800 in cash being taken, is still underway according to reports from Police authorities.

Abe Loundy, 936 Bedford Street, manager, reported that the sum was placed in a desk shortly before the weekly order arrived. While he and three employes were checking the supplies on the second floor storeroom, the culprits entered the door leading from North Centre Street.

The weekly order from the company's main warehouse had arrived shortly before 10:30 and Loundy had placed the money in the desk for payment after the goods were checked.

When he came downstairs he found a 150-pound filing cabinet placed against the door leading to the main room of the store and the money gone.

A legless man, John Allen, address unknown, told Lt. Edwin R. Lilya that he had been sitting on his wheeled platform on North Centre Street and had noticed no one enter the Centre street door during the time the robbery is thought to have taken place.

Later, Loundy said, Officer John H. Stitcher, who is the traffic officer at the Baltimore-North Centre Street intersection, told him that he noticed a local "boozer" standing near the back entrance of the store.

Stitcher told Loundy that another "boozer," known to police, walked out of the alley which runs in the rear of Rosenbaum's store, called to the man on Centre Street, and they then left.

Loundy said that the order from the main warehouse is brought here each Wednesday morning and that the usual routine of checking the supplies and paying for them is carried out.

On the Island of Timor, an island of the Malay Archipelago, there are three volcanic lakes which are respectively sapphire-blue, opaque turquoise and garnet-red, due to chemicals in the waters.

Motorists Forfeit Bonds In Magistrates Court

George A. Smith, Artemas, Pa., forfeited $6.45 on a charge of failing to keep to the right of the center of the highway. He was apprehended on June 24 on Long Hill.

A Findlay, Ohio, woman, Patricia Ann Sutkamp, failed to appear and forfeited $11.45 on a count of driving with an expired motorist's permit on Route 220.

A local man, J. Okey Rowand, 312 Park Street, forfeited $6.45 bond posted after he had been arrested on Route 220 in the city for allowing an unauthorized person to drive his machine.

Once upon a time scientists claimed that chemicals in a human being were worth a little less than one dollar; they tell us now that each is worth about $30.

Couple Thanks Magistrate For 30-Day Jail Sentence

Blanche and Luther Huff, both of Cumberland were not indignant when given 30-day jail sentences for being drunk yesterday, instead they thanked Trial Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

The incident which happened at the close of the yesterday's court veered sharply from any previous case. The Huff's related that the last time they were interned, they met such fine people and it was such a good place that "we are appreciative, Judge, for your deed."

Glenn Sisk, Laing Avenue, was given a $20 fine for being drunk and disorderly. His wife testified that he had been running around the house with an open razor, shouting threats.

In the central part of the Sahara desert the temperature may go up to 130 degrees during the day and at midnight may drop to 50 degrees, or even below freezing.

Remodeling Planned For Seafood Store

A permit was granted yesterday in the city engineer's office to James H. Hope, 19 Washington Street, and Earl Sipple to remodel a two-family residence at 212 Greene Street into a seafood store and residence.

The two-story brick building measures 40 by 60 feet. John Cook is the contractor and remodeling work is expected to cost $1,000.

Mrs. Gertrude Shinholtz, 603 Louisiana Avenue, secured a permit to build a one-room addition at 101 Valley Street to the second flor over the kitchen. The frame adition will have a composition shinle roof and will measure 10 by 28 fet. Work will be done by D. A. Martn and cost is estimated at $1,000.

When he came downstairs he found a 150-pound filing cabinet placed against the door leading to the main room of the store and the money gone.

A legless man, John Allen, address unknown, told Lt. Edwin R. Lilya that he had been sitting on his wheeled platform on North Centre Street and had noticed no one enter the Centre street door during the time the robbery is thought to have taken place.

Later, Loundy said, Officer John H. Stitcher, who is the traffic officer at the Baltimore-North Centre Street intersection, told him that he noticed a local "boozer" standing near the back entrance of the store.

Stitcher told Loundy that another "boozer," known to police, walked out of the alley which runs in the rear of Rosenbaum's store, called to the man on Centre Street, and they then left.

Loundy said that the order from the main warehouse is brought here each Wednesday morning and that the usual routine of checking the supplies and paying for them is carried out.

Motorists Forfeit Bonds In Magistrates Court

George A. Smith, Artemas, Pa., forfeited $6.45 on a charge of failing to keep to the right of the center of the highway. He was apprehended on June 24 on Long Hill.

A Findlay, Ohio, woman, Patricia Ann Sutkamp, failed to appear and forfeited $11.45 on a count of driving with an expired motorist's permit on Route 220.

A local man, J. Okey Rowand, 312 Park Street, forfeited $6.45 bond posted after he had been arrested on Route 220 in the city for allowing an unauthorized person to drive his machine.

Once upon a time scientists claimed that chemicals in a human being were worth a little less than one dollar; they tell us now that each is worth about $30.

Couple Thanks Magistrate For 30-Day Jail Sentence

Blanche and Luther Huff, both of Cumberland were not indignant when given 30-day jail sentences for being drunk yesterday, instead they thanked Trial Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr.

The incident which happened at the close of the yesterday's court veered sharply from any previous case. The Huff's related that the last time they were interned, they met such fine people and it was such a good place that "we are appreciative, Judge, for your deed."

Glenn Sisk, Laing Avenue, was given a $20 fine for being drunk and disorderly. His wife testified that he had been running around the house with an open razor, shouting threats.

Remodeling Planned For Seafood Store

A permit was granted yesterday in the city engineer's office to James H. Hope, 19 Washington Street, and Earl Sipple to remodel a two-family residence at 212 Greene Street into a seafood store and residence.

The two-story brick building measures 40 by 60 feet. John Cook is the contractor and remodeling work is expected to cost $1,000.

Mrs. Gertrude Shinholtz, 603 Louisiana Avenue, secured a permit to build a one-room addition at 101 Valley Street to the second floor over the kitchen. The frame addition will have a composition shingle roof and will measure 10 by 28 feet. Work will be done by D. A. Martin and cost is estimated at $1,000.

It has been estimated that the main underground water level in the United States has been lowered 10 to 40 feet by cutting forests and cultivation of the land.

The Playground Of Books

Now that vacation time is on and people are planning places to go for recreation and relaxation, I should like to suggest a supplement, by which this season may be spiced and relished to the mind's gain, as well as that of the body. I wish to suggest the playground of books!

No enrichment to the mind and spirit of man can compare with that which results from the reading of books. You can go to the ends of the earth. You can taste of adventure; you can learn of all the peoples of the earth. You can enter the world of nature and learn of its fascinating mysteries and revelations. You can talk with the great and the humble. You can revel in the poetry of the heart.

The more you learn about the peoples of the earth the more you learn about yourself. Misunderstanding is what creates wars. Go to the playground of books and go back to your work this summer with an enlarged horizon of thought and a wider sympathy with your fellowman. Books accomplish this. It is as though you took an artist, a story writer, a poet, a historian, a philosopher, with you on your vacation. Books, you must understand, are the shadows and recorded expressions of men and women.

You will never be alone if you have a book at hand. A book is a silent friend—and you can choose from the very great, no matter what your station in life. Books belong to you, and you invest nothing in their bed or board! They will give to you what you choose—hope, comfort, entertainment, inspiration, relaxation—and peace.

The inexpensive, fine assortment of books that are being sold by the millions, in convenient, small volumes are a blessing to mankind. They can be slipped into the pocket or several into your grip—and you can leave them behind to give joy to others when you leave for home. Bread upon the waters! But take my suggestion and venture into the playground of books. Be refreshed in mind and spirit!

Reds Quiz Travelers

BERLIN — (AP) — Germans who cross from the U. S. Occupation Zone into the Soviet Zone say that frequently they are subjected to an "inquisition" by Russians seeking to learn American "military secrets." The interrogated travelers tell the Americans that the Russians asked them manifold questions about conditions in the U. S. Zone. They said the Russians were especially interested in knowing about the deployment of occupation troops and air power and the construction of new airports.

"Some of the questions the Russians are reported asking are a bit fantastic," an American official said. "Apparently no detail is too small for them. And most of what they ask they can learn just by reading the newspapers." German newspaper reports said the Russians also conducted extensive interrogation of German travelers on economic and political conditions in western Germany. Such information is frequently used for propaganda against the western occupying powers.

Poland And Italy Swap

WARSAW—(AP)—Poland and Italy have agreed to boost their commercial exchanges under the existing trade pact from a value of $15,000,000 to $17,000,000 on each side.

Poland also has agreed to ship Italy 750,000 tons of coal this year. Additionally, the Italians are to get rolled products, sugar, eggs, potatoes, paper, and chemicals. The Poles are to receive roller-bearings, machinery and machine tools, zinc ore, dyestuffs, oranges and lemons from the Italians.

A separate agremeent calls for the Poles to import Italian-made motorcars and trailers valued at $11,000,000.

RED

You've seen them in action . . . at work and at play. The "Show-Off" who knows all the answers, has an expert opinion on every subject, and likes to act the part of a big shot wherever he goes.

He likes to be thought of as a "Man of Distinction" who enjoys the best of everything in life.

We've seen these characters ourselves, and when they're drinking beer they choose a brand with some fancy label or fancy claim which they think is better than local beers because it's made out of town, shipped long distances, or uses four-color advertising in the big national magazines.

It's perfectly natural for the "SHOW-OFF" to think this way. He likes to impress people and be different just for the sake of being different.

We're quite happy to say that most people aren't like this. FOUR OUT OF FIVE beer drinkers in Cumberland and Allegany County drink either Old German or Old Export Beer. We want to tell these FOUR OUT OF FIVE we're proud of them for being regular fellows.

These regular fellows are not only getting GOOD TASTE when they choose Old Export or Old German; they're showing GOOD TASTE by saying "Well Done" to more than 300 of their neighbors who produce Old German and Old Export.

These 300 men who make Old German and Old Export spend more than a million dollars a year with grocery stores, clothing stores, beauty shops, theatres, hardware stores, automobile dealers, doctors, lawyers, furniture stores and other business places in Cumberland and Allegany County.

Outside of the Celanese and Kelly-Springfield, the two local breweries have the largest payroll, and pay more taxes than any other local industry. They make local purchases amounting to more than a quarter of a million dollars annually. The beer industry in Cumberland contributes much to the prosperity of this community, directly and indirectly.

We realize only too well that many of the people who drink out-of-town beers are not trying to be "SHOW-OFFS." Most of them are drinking without thinking.

But to the "SHOW-OFF" who chooses out-of-town beers because he thinks he's impressing somebody, or getting something better, we want to tell them about one thing they've overlooked.

Cumberland beers are "BOTTLE-FRESH." They come to you within a short time after they leave the aging vats, right at the peak of their flavor. There is no beer made that improves in taste after it's bottled . . . and all beers tend to loose flavor the longer they are bottled . . . and we'll give anyone A THOUSAND DOLLARS that can disprove this statement.

Take your choice . . . but take local beer.

Pool Filtration Bid Is Accepted

Mayor and City Council yesterday accepted the bid of the Refinite Sales Company, Washington, D. C., for installation of a recirculating system costing $17,304 in the Constitution Park swimming pool.

Edgar Reynolds, commissioner of streets and public parks, told council the Health Department has been urging this improvement at the pool for some time. The Refinite Company will furnish materials and supervise construction of the new system, in which conventional type filters will be used.

Council also accepted the bid of the Geare-Everstine Agency of the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company to insure all city motor vehicles at a cost of $1,107. The bid of the Hartford Company is a renewal of last year's policy and was the only bid submitted.

Authorization to purchase a lot for $250 for additional space at the Thomas S. Post playground was approved by council. The lot, located in South End at the intersection of Elizabeth and Lafayette Streets, is owned by Walter Kline, city sanitary inspector.

Mayor Post stated he has received several complaints that playgrounds are being overrun with adults.

William V. Keegan, commissioner of police and fire, agreed that in the future regular checkups would be made by the police department.

Payment of $69,256.26 to the Cumberland Construction Company on Cumberland's auxiliary water line was approved. William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and light, reported that approximately one-ninth of the line has been laid, and the job, which will total approximately $774,000, will probably be completed by December.

18 Miners Sue For Back Pay

Seeking $983.75 in back pay allegedly due them, 18 coal miners yesterday filed suit in Allegany County Circuit Court against Walter Blank, whom they contend operated a coal mine near Mt. Savage in which they were employed.

The bill of complaint states that the men worked for Blank until he shut the operation down May 26. They declared that Blank is now seeking to lease the mine and sell the equipment, and petitioned the court for a restrainer against such action.

A court order is also sought for receivership of the mine in order that the claims may be satisfied.

The men who entered the suit include John Orndoff, Leslie Martin, Fred Winebrenner, Arthur Winebrenner, Paul Dickle, Coleman Bowers, Frank John, Henry Diehl, Albert Bridges, Cecil Bridges, John Hutzel, William Rice, Charles Grady, Robert Fadley, Walter Lashbaugh, Carl Pearen, Frank Lutz and Russell Rice.

Majority Of Rent Violations Settled

Area Rent Director Walter R. Heath reported today that 90 per cent of the violations of the Federal Rent Law in this area are settled in friendly compliance conferences. At the same time he reminded that enforcement power is broadened considerably under the new law that went into effect April 1, which provides for injunctions against unlawful evictions and any other rent violations.

Heath urged both tenants and landlords to consult his office if they have any questions concerning the law.

Gephart Drive Postal Employe Is Elected

George B. Statler, 118 Gephart Drive, was elected vice president of the Maryland-Delaware Bi-State Association of Postal Clerks at a meeting held late last week in Washington, D. C.

Statler attended the convention as a representative from the Cumberland post office along with Joseph A. Grabenstein, 541 Fairview Avenue. Statler was also elected as first alternate delegate to the National convention to be held in Miami, Fla., in August.

The total area of the Borough of Manhattan in square miles is 31.2; the Bronx, 544; Brooklyn, 88.8; Queens, 126.6, and Richmond, 64.4.

Derailment Causes Delay On B. And O. Railroad

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad traffic was delayed near Fairhope, Pa., yesterday by a 17-car derailment which forced the company to reroute travel over the Western Maryland Railway tracks between Sand Patch, Pa., and City Junction here.

Powered by a Diesel locomotive, the fast freight was headed east from Chicago to New York. Railroad officials listed it as No. 94. The Diesel was not involved in the derailment and after being cut off the string of boxcars came into Cumberland.

Eastbound passenger train No. 8 and a freight were rerouted over the Western Maryland up until noon today. Railroad officials could not determine when the tracks would be cleared.

Marine "Regulars" Enlist Two New Local Men

Two Cumberland men have been been enlisted in the "regular" Marine Corps, Tech. Sgt. Vernon B. Debnam, officer in charge of the local office has announced.

The men are: James I. Wright, 449½ Columbia Street and John H. O'Neal, Route 3, Bedford Road.

Pool Filtration Bid Is Accepted

Mayor and City Council yesterday accepted the bid of the Refinite Sales Company, Washington, D. C., for installation of a recirculating system costing $17,304 in the Constitution Park swimming pool.

Edgar Reynolds, commissioner of streets and public parks, told council the Health Department has been urging this improvement at the pool for some time. The Refinite Company will furnish materials and supervise construction of the new system, in which conventional type filters will be used.

Council also accepted the bid of the Geare-Everstine Agency of the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company to insure all city motor vehicles at a cost of $1,107. The bid of the Hartford Company is a renewal of last year's policy and was the only bid submitted.

Authorization to purchase a lot for $250 for additional space at the Thomas S. Post playground was approved by council. The lot, located in South End at the intersection of Elizabeth and Lafayette Streets, is owned by Walter Kline, city sanitary inspector.

Mayor Post stated he has received several complaints that playgrounds are being overrun with adults.

William V. Keegan, commissioner of police and fire, agreed that in the future regular checkups would be made by the police department.

Payment of $69,256.26 to the Cumberland Construction Company on Cumberland's auxiliary water line was approved. William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and light, reported that approximately one-ninth of the line has been laid, and the job, which will total approximately $774,000, will probably be completed by December.

Commissioner Reynolds was authorized by council to advertise for bids for two dump trucks for the Street Department.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Girl Planning September Wedding Runs Into Attendant Trouble

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am to be married in September. About two months ago I asked my best girl friend to be matron of honor for me and she said she couldn't because she is moving and is buying all her furniture. I think she thought it would run into too much money and that she would be too busy anyhow. But I felt very hurt and now I don't know what to do. I have another girl friend I might ask but now I am afraid to do it because I might get the same reply. I want to tell her exactly what happened but perhaps she would be offended because she was not asked first.

Also, I am asking none of my future husband's relatives to be in the wedding party serving as ushers and bridesmaids. Am I being selfish? I have had my attendants all picked out for some time except the matron of honor.

"BESSIE"

Dear "Bessie":

I think you are foolish to be so hurt because your girl friend felt she could not be in your bridal party. Lots of girls have the same experience and simply ask somebody else. I don't see any reason for your telling the next person you ask that somebody else has turned you down. Just ask someone and don't be so sensitive when people find it inconvenient to do what you ask.

As for your not having any of your husband's relatives in the wedding party, it is customary, you know, for the bridegroom to pick out his own ushers. The bride's attendants are selected by her and the groom's by him. If a girl knows her finance's sisters well, it is usually a gracious gesture to include the one she knows best, or perhaps both of them, among her bridesmaids, but that is up to her. You certainly, however, should allow your prospective husband to choose his own ushers.

Gaining Boy's Interest

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is a boy in my class at school that I have known for two years. We are real good friends and he seems to like me more than just a friend but he won't let me know it. I don't think he knows how much I like him.

Please don't suggest that I ask him to a party because he doesn't like parties. But please tell me how I could get him to ask me for a date because I am really crazy about him and want him to feel the same about me.

"B. H. S."

Dear "B. H. S.":

It seems to me you girls are sometimes very quick to jump at conclusions. Aren't you assuming a good deal when you say this boy seems to like you "more than just a friend"? He's never once invited you out, so what makes you think he is so interested in you? Most boys aren't as shy as all that. Usually they go after what they want.

However, there is nothing to prevent you making the attempt to get him to take a more active interest in you, and if you don't want to invite him to a party, why not just invite him to spend an evening at your house or to Sunday supper or something of that sort? If he is interested enough to accept your invitation, then the next move would be up to him, and he should return your gesture by inviting you to the movies or on some other date. If he doesn't do so, or if he declines your invitation, then you'll have to resign yourself to the fact that he is not really as interested as you think.

Aaron Burr was vice president of the United States when he killed Alexander Hamilton in a duel.

The origin of wheat is unknown. Its cultivation antedates history. Most ancient monuments show by inscriptions that it was already domesticated at a very early period, even in the Stone Age.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Pampered Farmers

If the folks in our town were less tolerant, they'd be really burned up over that nationally circulated article on "pampered farmers," describing them as living off the fat of the land.

From where I sit the farmer is anything but "pampered." If he's better off today than twenty years ago it's because he's worked hard to improve the quality and quantity of his production.

Take Bert Childers, for example. Bert is up at four in the morning, to get the milking finished—and ploughing or harvesting, depending on the season, until sundown. In the evening he finally relaxes with the missus over a moderate glass of beer.

And the farmer today's not only temperate in his habits, like Bert's evening glass of beer ... but tolerant in his opinions. So he'll probably say of that article, "somebody got the facts wrong," and just let it go at that.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is a boy in my class at school that I have known for two years. We are real good friends and he seems to like me more than just a friend but he won't let me know it. I don't think he knows how much I like him.

Please don't suggest that I ask him to a party because he doesn't like parties. But please tell me how I could get him to ask me for a date because I am really crazy about him and want him to feel the same about me.

"B. H. S."

Dear "B. H. S.":

It seems to me you girls are sometimes very quick to jump at conclusions. Aren't you assuming a good deal when you say this boy seems to like you "more than just a friend"? He's never once invited you out, so what makes you think he is so interested in you? Most boys aren't as shy as all that. Usually they go after what they want.

However, there is nothing to prevent you making the attempt to get him to take a more active interest in you, and if you don't want to invite him to a party, why not just invite him to spend an evening at your house or to Sunday supper or something of that sort? If he is interested enough to accept your invitation, then the next move would be up to him, and he should return your gesture by inviting you to the movies or on some other date. If he doesn't do so, or if he declines your invitation, then you'll have to resign yourself to the fact that he is not really as interested as you think.

The origin of wheat is unknown. Its cultivation antedates history. Most ancient monuments show by inscriptions that it was already domesticated at a very early period, even in the Stone Age.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Pampered Farmers

If the folks in our town were less tolerant, they'd be really burned up over that nationally circulated article on "pampered farmers," describing them as living off the fat of the land.

From where I sit the farmer is anything but "pampered." If he's better off today than twenty years ago it's because he's worked hard to improve the quality and quantity of his production.

Take Bert Childers, for example. Bert is up at four in the morning, to get the milking finished—and ploughing or harvesting, depending on the season, until sundown. In the evening he finally relaxes with the missus over a moderate glass of beer.

And the farmer today's not only temperate in his habits, like Bert's evening glass of beer ... but tolerant in his opinions. So he'll probably say of that article, "somebody got the facts wrong," and just let it go at that.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—You've heard about the fellow who, indicating another fellow who was wearing his hat side-saddle and sticking his hand inside of his coat, remarked:

"He thinks he's Napoleon. Silly man. How could he be? I am."

Well, there are always differences of opinion, and baseball provides its share. Bucky Harris, for instance, was quite perturbed because Ted Williams popped off and said the Boston Red Sox will win the American League pennant.

"Where does he get that stuff?" Harris asked petulantly. "Saying that the Red Sox will win and the other teams know it. The Red Sox won't win. The Yankees will."

Disregarding the possibility that both Harris and Williams are wrong, and that the Athletics or Indians might sneak in ahead of both of them, it's a healthy situation when the athletes and managers have such supreme confidence in their respective teams.

Bucky really isn't peeved at Ted. For one thing, it doesn't pay to rile a guy who is capable of knocking your brains out, even when he isn't riled. And Bucky wouldn't have much respect for Williams if Ted went around moaning that his team didn't have a chance.

In that way professional athletes and officials are just a little more honest than the amateurs. Sure, they are looking toward the box office when they say it, but the pros don't try to hide optimism and a sure thing under a cloak of glycerin tears.

We wonder a little how Bo McMillin will react in his new role of coach of a pro team. Bo became quite famous with his "Poor Little Boys" statements at Indiana. His anguish at the thought of what would happen to his kids in a particular game was heart-touching, even if you knew a couple of 225-pounders had been shifted to the second team because they were too small.

Bo's woes were highly publicized, but he was just following a pattern. In fact, any college coach who says out loud that his team will knock its Saturday opponent into the next county is liable to be ostracized.

How many times has Frank Leahy told his public that Notre Dame would lose so many games, and then coached it through an undefeated season? For sheer, 1,000-watt moaning Leahy probably is champion, or at least a leading contender.

No matter how the college coaches moan and groan over their prospects, and promise the fans that the team they will see will be held together by adhesive tape and baling wire and couldn't beat the Elm Street Tigers, the customers always turn out. They are used to such goings-on, and take the coaches' doleful statements for what they are worth, which is nothing.

The pros, however, are taken at their word. If they said their team would lose, the fans would believe them, that's all, and stay away in gross lots.

If Ted Williams and Bucky Harris said their respective teams just couldn't cut the cake, they would be considered defeatists and would be very unpopular indeed. If they were in college circles and said the same thing they would just be conforming to style.

It's all in the point of view, and the pros' point of view is the ticket seller's window.

Chicago Wallops Redbirds, 9 To 1, Mauch Hits Homer

Phils Hand Dodgers 4th Straight Loss

CHICAGO, June 30 (INS) — Rookie Ralph Hamner let the St. Louis Cardinals down with six hits today while his mates drilled out 13 safeties, including Gene Mauch's first major league home run, to win their second straight from the Redbirds, 9 to 1.

Jim Hearn was the victim of Mauch's blow, which came in the third inning and proved to be the winning run. Then the Cubs put the game on ice with four runs in the fifth.

PHILS TROUNCE DODGERS

NEW YORK, June 30 (INS) — The Philadelphia Phillies cracked four Brooklyn pitchers for a dozen hits today and handed the Dodgers a 13 to 4 defeat, the 1947 champions' fourth straight loss.

Philadelphia blasted losing pitcher Harry Taylor for a 6 to 0 advantage in the first three innings and then sewed up the game with a six-run outburst in the fourth.

Veteran knuckleballer Dutch Leonard was the winning pitcher, although he only worked two innings. Taylor felled Leonard with a pitched ball in the third and the Philadelphia hurler had to be taken to the Swedish Hospital.

Preliminary examination revealed "no fracture," but Leonard will be kept under observation in the hospital for about four days.

Monk Dubiel relieved Leonard and surrendered the four Brooklyn runs.

VOISELLE BEATS GIANTS

BOSTON, June 30 (AP)—The Boston Braves extended their National League lead to a game and a half tonight by defeating the New York Giants 3-1 behind big Bill Voiselle, who had been driven out of the box in his last nine starts.

The victory, achieved over Larry Jansen, who had won seven in succession over the Braves — six last season — was the first at home for the Tribe over the New Yorkers.

Hyndman Tossers Top Corriganville, 8-3

Hyndman Firemen defeated Corriganville, 8-3, yesterday in a County Softball League game played at Corriganville.

Miller paced the winners' 10-hit barrage against Mattingly with four hits in as many trips to the plate. His collection included a triple and homer while teammate G. Cook also banged out a three-base hit. Clauson and Mattingly had two hits apiece for the losers. Both of Mattingly's base knocks were three-baggers. The score:

2 British Ryder Cuppers Lead Open Golf Tourney

Post First Round 67's; Little Cards A 72

By THOMAS C. WATSON
INS Staff Correspondent

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, June 30 (INS) — Sam King and Charlie Ward, British Ryder Cuppers, and Flory Van Donck, Belgium pro, shot 69's, one over par, today to share the first round lead in the British open golf championship.

Lawson Little, of Cleveland, former holder of several major golf crowns, carded a 72 over this bunkered layout to set the pace for nine Americans in the 72-hole medal play calssic.

A steady 36 out and the same score on the back nine put Little well up among the leaders in the scramble for a place among the 40 who will play the final 36 holes Friday.

These survivors will be determined on the basis of low 36-hole scores made up of today's round and another 18 tomorrow.

Jimmy Thomson, Johnny Bulla, Bobby Cruickshank and Arthur Clark, 74's; Claude Harmon and Charlie Rotar, 75's; Frank Stranahan and Capt. Ed Kingsley, 77's.

Tomorrow's 18 will tell the story as to whether Americans will be a threat for the title or will be strictly playing out the string.

Stranahan, one of the pre-tournament favorites and recent winner of the British Amateur, virtually eliminated himself with that 77.

Kingsley, a Utah amateur stationed in Germany with the United States Army, never was given consideration and, like Stranahan, has been all but eliminated.

The other Americans except Little also were on the ragged edge.

Little won the British and United States amateur titles twice in a row each in 1934 and 1935 and, after turning professional, took the American open in 1940. He was the most feared American after today's play.

FARRADY POST PLAYS IN MIDLAND, 'CONEY AFTER 7TH STRAIGHT

Farrady Post of Frostburg will test the first place Midland Post nine in the No. 1 game today in the eastern division of the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League.

The game is scheduled for Midland and will begin at 5:30 p. m.

Fort Cumberland Post's team will cross bats with Grantsville on the Garrett countians' field. Tomorrow the Cumberland Junior Legion team meets Frostburg at State Teacher's Field at 5:30 p. m. in a playoff of a postponed contest.

James P. Love Post will be out to make it seven in a row when it faces Proctor Kildow Post of Oakland in Lonaconing today. 'Coney has won six in a row while Oakland has failed to break into the win column in six starts. This is a western division contest.

Tomorrow Wilson-Filder Post of Kitzmiller plays in Lonaconing and Oakland meets Victory Post in Westernport.

Bob Lemon Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Tilt For Indians

Beats Detroit 2-0; Walks Three Batters

DETROIT, June 30 (AP) — Right-hander Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians tossed the first no hit-run game of the major league season as he blanked the Detroit Tigers 2 to 0 tonight. It was his 11th win of the season and his fifth shutout.

Bob Lemon

Only three Tigers reached first base, all via walks, as the big converted outfielder put together his niftiest pitching performance of the year.

All the scoring came in the first inning as the Indians pushed over two unearned runs to give Lemon a headstart. It was all the big righthander needed, as he had the Tigers swinging futilely for the rest of the distance.

It was a tough loss for Art Toutteman, hard luck man of the Detroit Tiger mound staff, as he yielded only two runs and five hits. The Tigers kicked in two errors in the initial inning to get Houtteman into trouble. The score:

CLEVELAND ..... 200 000 000—2 5 0
DETROIT ..... 000 000 000—0 0 2

Lemon and Hegan; Houtteman and Swift.

BOSOX DEFEAT RASCHI

NEW YORK, June 30—(INS)—Vernon Stephens drove in five runs and Jack Kramer hurled seven-hit ball today to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 7 to 3 victory over the Yankees and snap Vic Raschi's nine-game winning streak.

The current series between these two pre-season favorites for the American League pennant now stands at one-all.

Kramer, who like shortstop Stephens was purchased during the winter from the St. Louis Browns, won his seventh game against three losses. Raschi, who hadn't lost since April 21, now sports a nine won, two lost record.

Boston held a 3 to 2 edge through five innings, then Stephens clinched the verdict in the sixth with a two-run homer, his 14th of the season.

LEHNER'S HIT WINS

ST. LOUIS, June 30 (AP) — Paul Lehner homered in the fifth inning and singled home the winning run in the eighth to lead the St. Louis Browns to a 2 to 1 victory over the Chicago White Sox tonight. Fred Sanford and Al Gettel both gave up eight hits in the pitching duel. The score:

Naval Reserve Wins

The Naval Reserve won its 11th straight victory yesterday at Taylor field by defeating Merrill Brothers, 13-5, in a Junior City Softball League contest.

Dave Ritter and Roy Rodenhauser each had three hits for the winners while Wilson had two for three for Merrill Brothers. The score:

Reed's Tossers Rally To Topple Astor Cab, 5-4

North End, Lacy's And Amvets Win

A two-run rally in the bottom of the seventh inning enabled Reed's Electricians to eke out a 5-4 decision over the Astor Cabbies in the top game of the City Softball League yesterday at East Side field.

In other loop contests, first-half champions Lacy's walloped Joe's Crusaders, 9-3, the Amvets edged the Mower's Bakery tossers, 6-5, in a contest played under protest by the Bakers, and North End topped Ballard's, 6-3.

Gene Scaletta pitched three-hit ball for Johnny Manges' Electricians but six bases on balls kept him in hot water throughout the game.

Three bases on balls, two wild pitches and Harry Dean's single gave tne Cabbies a three-run lead in the first inning and they added another tally in the fifth when Dean again singled with two on.

Trailing 4-1 in the sixth, Reed's scored twice when Hixenbaugh and Elliott singled and Porter doubled home both runs. In the seventh with one out Scaletta walked, Basilio beat out an infield hit and Hixenbaugh came through with his second hit, a ringing double to tie the score. On an attempted squeeze play, the bunt was missed and Basilio was trapped off third but a low throw got away from the third baseman and Basilio came home with the winning run.

A five-run fifth inning pulled the game out of the fire for the Amvets after Mower's had built up a 5-1 lead in the first four innings. Mower's played the game under protest after the fourth frame when Umpire Jim Browning reversed his decision at second base after calling an Amvet runner out for interference.

George Geatz paced the winners' nine-hit attack with three singles and "Happy" Crabtree collected a double and single.

Vern Penner's triple and homer were the big blows in Lacy's victory over the Crusaders. Bee Orndorff also banged out two hits for the winners while Davis had two bingles for the Crusaders.

A three-run first inning got the North End Social and Athletic Club off to a flying start as they handed Ballard's their third straight loss in the second half of the loop race. Walsh topped the North End barrage with three hits while Dawson and Speir each had two bingles for the losers. The scores:

New Record Set In Tryouts For Olympic Rowing

Cornell, Princeton Among The Winners

PRINCETON, N. J., June 30—(AP)—The two favorites from the west, Washington and California, and two surprise crews from the east, Princeton and Cornell, turned in record-smashing performances today to win their first heats in the Olympic eight-oared rowing tryouts.

All four winners and two of the second-place crews surpassed the old record for the 2,000 meters course on Lake Carnegie. Cornell, negotiating the distance of 13 yards less than a mile and a quarter in five minutes, 56 and four-tenths seconds, was more than eight seconds under the old mark.

The former record, 6:04.8, was established by Washington's Olympic champion crew of 1936 in winning the tryouts here.

The four winners qualified for the semi-final heats Friday. The seven beaten eights will get a second chance tomorrow in three "repechage" heats. The repechage victors also will go into the semi-finals.

Washington and California had easy victories, the Huskies winning by about 2½ lengths from Wisconsin and California by a length and three quarters from Navy.

Mulloy, Asboth Eliminated In Dull Matches

Former's Steady Game Is Missing

By GAYLE TALBOT

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—Bob Falkenburg of Hollywood, Calif., and Jack Bromwich of Australia stumbled into the finals of the men's championships at Wimbledon today. They won two semi-final exhibitions as bad as the old place ever saw.

Falkenburg took just one hour and 15 minutes to polish off Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., 6-4, 6-4, 8-6. The Florida veteran not only was sadly off his game but he had no luck, which made it worse.

Both Dull Bouts

Bromwich, on the other hand, ate up two hours and 10 minutes in disposing of Josef Asboth, a Hungarian, in an interminable baseline duel which saw only one service ace struck. The score was 6-3, 14-12, 6-2, and the second set alone needed 80 minutes to complete.

The crowd which packed the famed Center Court to its last foot of standing room was divided on which of the two matches was worse. The Bromwich-Asboth "duel" undoubtedly was the more boring. But it yielded little to the Falkenburg-Mulloy affair.

Neither would go near the net except when it was absolutely necessary to retrieve a drop shot. They stood on the baseline and batted the ball back and forth until one or the other missed. And that was all they did.

Falkenburg's victory, which followed, was at least different. The two Americans missed their shots quick. Very seldom did the sphere cross the net more than a time or two until it was whaled to where it no longer mattered.

Falkenburg, who had gone to the net on virtually every point of the match, was dog tired toward the end and ripe to be taken. Yet Mulloy, usually a steady man, couldn't bring his game under control long enough to take advantage of it.

Bromwich Easy Winner

Asboth, who scored a fine victory over Tom Brown of San Francisco in the previous round, seldom looked like the same player against Bromwich, who wore him out to the backhand and displayed too much court skill on the important points. The Hungarian led only once, at 5-3 in the second set, and Bromwich easily brought it to deuce. There was never much doubt of the winner.

Just which of today's winners will triumph on Friday is not known for sure, but it likely will be Bromwich. The Aussie is determined to win Wimbledon and show his home officials what a mistake they made in leaving him off their Davis Cup squad.

One thing is certain, the eventual winner will bear fair resemblance to the big fellow who crushed all opposition here a year ago—Jack Kramer.

The women did not play singles today. In their All-American semi-final tomorrow, Doris Hart of Miami will meet the defending champion, Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont of Wilmington, Del., and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., the current American titlist, will oppose Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of La Jolla, Calif.

My Request Wins $20,000 Shevlin

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP) — My Request and Escadru, two colts that would be battling for the three-year-old title were it not for Calumet's devastating duo of Citation and Coaltown, finished as named and expected in today's $20,000 added Shevlin Stakes.

My Request, Ben Whitaker's top-weighted Texas representative, carried 126 pounds as if it were a toy balloon and took the $16,300 first money by a handy length and a half. Escadru, the Maryland hope from W. L. Brann's barn, earned the place by three lengths in the role of second choice to the even money victor. Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's Jet Black accounted for the show, three lengths farther back.

Despite the attraction of this 21st Shevlin, the smallest crowd of the meeting was present. Only 16,468 perspiring fans saw My Request step the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 4-5 under Eddie Aracaro, who broke up a brief fishing furlough in Everglades City, Fla., to guide My Request home.

Whitney Martin's SPORTS TRAIL

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—You've heard about the fellow who, indicating another fellow who was wearing his hat side-saddle and sticking his hand inside of his coat, remarked:

"He thinks he's Napoleon. Silly man. How could he be? I am."

Well, there are always differences of opinion, and baseball provides its share. Bucky Harris, for instance, was quite perturbed because Ted Williams popped off and said the Boston Red Sox will win the American League pennant.

"Where does he get that stuff?" Harris asked petulantly. "Saying that the Red Sox will win and the other teams know it. The Red Sox won't win. The Yankees will."

Disregarding the possibility that both Harris and Williams are wrong, and that the Athletics or Indians might sneak in ahead of both of them, it's a healthy situation when the athletes and managers have such supreme confidence in their respective teams.

Bucky really isn't peeved at Ted. For one thing, it doesn't pay to rile a guy who is capable of knocking your brains out, even when he isn't riled. And Bucky wouldn't have much respect for Williams if Ted went around moaning that his team didn't have a chance.

In that way professional athletes and officials are just a little more honest than the amateurs. Sure, they are looking toward the box office when they say it, but the pros don't try to hide optimism and a sure thing under a cloak of glycerin tears.

We wonder a little how Bo McMillin will react in his new role of coach of a pro team. Bo became quite famous with his "Poor Little Boys" statements at Indiana. His anguish at the thought of what would happen to his kids in a particular game was heart-touching, even if you knew a couple of 225-pounders had been shifted to the second team because they were too small.

Bo's woes were highly publicized, but he was just following a pattern. In fact, any college coach who says out loud that his team will knock its Saturday opponent into the next county is liable to be ostracized.

How many times has Frank Leahy told his public that Notre Dame would lose so many games, and then coached it through an undefeated season? For sheer, 1,000-watt moaning Leahy probably is champion, or at least a leading contender.

No matter how the college coaches moan and groan over their prospects, and promise the fans that the team they will see will be held together by adhesive tape and baling wire and couldn't beat the Elm Street Tigers, the customers always turn out. They are used to such goings-on, and take the coaches' doleful statements for what they are worth, which is nothing.

The pros, however, are taken at their word. If they said their team would lose, the fans would believe them, that's all, and stay away in gross lots.

If Ted Williams and Bucky Harris said their respective teams just couldn't cut the cake, they would be considered defeatists and would be very unpopular indeed. If they were in college circles and said the same thing they would just be conforming to style.

It's all in the point of view, and the pros' point of view is the ticket seller's window.

PHILS TROUNCE DODGERS

NEW YORK, June 30 (INS) — The Philadelphia Phillies cracked four Brooklyn pitchers for a dozen hits today and handed the Dodgers a 13 to 4 defeat, the 1947 champions' fourth straight loss.

Philadelphia blasted losing pitcher Harry Taylor for a 6 to 0 advantage in the first three innings and then sewed up the game with a six-run outburst in the fourth.

Veteran knuckleballer Dutch Leonard was the winning pitcher, although he only worked two innings. Taylor felled Leonard with a pitched ball in the third and the Philadelphia hurler had to be taken to the Swedish Hospital.

Preliminary examination revealed "no fracture," but Leonard will be kept under observation in the hospital for about four days.

Post First Round 67's; Little Cards A 72

By THOMAS C. WATSON
INS Staff Correspondent

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, June 30 (INS) — Sam King and Charlie Ward, British Ryder Cuppers, and Flory Van Donck, Belgium pro, shot 69's, one over par, today to share the first round lead in the British open golf championship.

Lawson Little, of Cleveland, former holder of several major golf crowns, carded a 72 over this bunkered layout to set the pace for nine Americans in the 72-hole medal play calssic.

A steady 36 out and the same score on the back nine put Little well up among the leaders in the scramble for a place among the 40 who will play the final 36 holes Friday.

These survivors will be determined on the basis of low 36-hole scores made up of today's round and another 18 tomorrow.

The eight Americans who trailed Little today scored as follows:

Jimmy Thomson, Johnny Bulla, Bobby Cruickshank and Arthur Clark, 74's; Claude Harmon and Charlie Rotar, 75's; Frank Stranahan and Capt. Ed Kingsley, 77's.

Tomorrow's 18 will tell the story as to whether Americans will be a threat for the title or will be strictly playing out the string.

Stranahan, one of the pre-tournament favorites and recent winner of the British Amateur, virtually eliminated himself with that 77.

Kingsley, a Utah amateur stationed in Germany with the United States Army, never was given consideration and, like Stranahan, has been all but eliminated.

The other Americans except Little also were on the ragged edge.

Little won the British and United States amateur titles twice in a row each in 1934 and 1935 and, after turning professional, took the American open in 1940. He was the most feared American after today's play.

FARRADY POST PLAYS IN MIDLAND, 'CONEY AFTER 7TH STRAIGHT

Farrady Post of Frostburg will test the first place Midland Post nine in the No. 1 game today in the eastern division of the Mountain District American Legion Junior Baseball League.

The game is scheduled for Midland and will begin at 5:30 p. m.

Fort Cumberland Post's team will cross bats with Grantsville on the Garrett countians' field. Tomorrow the Cumberland Junior Legion team meets Frostburg at State Teacher's Field at 5:30 p. m. in a playoff of a postponed contest.

James P. Love Post will be out to make it seven in a row when it faces Proctor Kildow Post of Oakland in Lonaconing today. 'Coney has won six in a row while Oakland has failed to break into the win column in six starts. This is a western division contest.

Tomorrow Wilson-Filder Post of Kitzmiller plays in Lonaconing and Oakland meets Victory Post in Westernport.

Bob Lemon Hurls No-Hit, No-Run Tilt For Indians

Beats Detroit 2-0; Walks Three Batters

DETROIT, June 30 (AP) — Right-hander Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians tossed the first no hit-run game of the major league season as he blanked the Detroit Tigers 2 to 0 tonight. It was his 11th win of the season and his fifth shutout.

Bob Lemon

Only three Tigers reached first base, all via walks, as the big converted outfielder put together his niftiest pitching performance of the year.

All the scoring came in the first inning as the Indians pushed over two unearned runs to give Lemon a headstart. It was all the big righthander needed, as he had the Tigers swinging futilely for the rest of the distance.

It was a tough loss for Art Toutteman, hard luck man of the Detroit Tiger mound staff, as he yielded only two runs and five hits. The Tigers kicked in two errors in the initial inning to get Houtteman into trouble. The score:

CLEVELAND	200 000 000—2 5 0
DETROIT	000 000 000—0 0 2

Lemon and Hegan; Houtteman and Swift.

BOSOX DEFEAT RASCHI

NEW YORK, June 30—(INS)—Vernon Stephens drove in five runs and Jack Kramer hurled seven-hit ball today to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 7 to 3 victory over the Yankees and snap Vic Raschi's nine-game winning streak.

The current series between these two pre-season favorites for the American League pennant now stands at one-all.

Kramer, who like shortstop Stephens was purchased during the winter from the St. Louis Browns, won his seventh game against three losses. Raschi, who hadn't lost since April 21, now sports a nine won, two lost record.

Boston held a 3 to 2 edge through five innings, then Stephens clinched the verdict in the sixth with a two-run homer, his 14th of the season.

Reed's Tossers Rally To Topple Astor Cab, 5-4

North End, Lacy's And Amvets Win

A two-run rally in the bottom of the seventh inning enabled Reed's Electricians to eke out a 5-4 decision over the Astor Cabbies in the top game of the City Softball League yesterday at East Side field.

In other loop contests, first-half champions Lacy's walloped Joe's Crusaders, 9-3, the Amvets edged the Mower's Bakery tossers, 6-5, in a contest played under protest by the Bakers, and North End topped Ballard's, 6-3.

Gene Scaletta pitched three-hit ball for Johnny Manges' Electricians but six bases on balls kept him in hot water throughout the game.

Three bases on balls, two wild pitches and Harry Dean's single gave the Cabbies a three-run lead in the first inning and they added another tally in the fifth when Dean again singled with two on.

Trailing 4-1 in the sixth, Reed's scored twice when Hixenbaugh and Elliott singled and Porter doubled home both runs. In the seventh with one out Scaletta walked, Basilio beat out an infield hit and Hixenbaugh came through with his second hit, a ringing double to tie the score. On an attempted squeeze play, the bunt was missed and Basilio was trapped off third but a low throw got away from the third baseman and Basilio came home with the winning run.

A five-run fifth inning pulled the game out of the fire for the Amvets after Mower's had built up a 5-1 lead in the first four innings. Mower's played the game under protest after the fourth frame when Umpire Jim Browning reversed his decision at second base after calling an Amvet runner out for interference.

George Geatz paced the winners' nine-hit attack with three singles and "Happy" Crabtree collected a double and single.

Vern Penner's triple and homer were the big blows in Lacy's victory over the Crusaders. Bee Orndorff also banged out two hits for the winners while Davis had two bingles for the Crusaders.

A three-run first inning got the North End Social and Athletic Club off to a flying start as they handed Ballard's their third straight loss in the second half of the loop race. Walsh topped the North End barrage with three hits while Dawson and Speir each had two bingles for the losers. The scores:

Moose Tops Romney

The Cumberland L. O. O. Moose softball team journeyed to Greenspring, W. Va., and defeated the Kopper's tossers by a 7-0 score yesterday.

The Kopper's are co-holders of the league-lead in the Romney Softball League and are currently undefeated in the loop.

Cessna, Williams, and Minnicks each collected two hits to head the winners' 11-hit attack as Minnicks tossed a seven-hitter against the West Virginians. Minnicks allowed no Kopper's runner to advance beyond second base. The score:

LEONARD IS HURT-- Dutch Leonard, Phillies' knuckleball artist, lies on turf yesterday after he was struck in the head by Dodger pitcher Harry Taylor's offering in the third inning of the Brooklyn-Philadelphia game at Ebbets Field. Dodger catcher Bruce Edwards goes to the aid of Leonard who suffered no fracture but will be held in hospital for observation. Phillies won the game, 13-4.

Century, Twigg's And Aristocrats Win League Tilts

Davis Hurls Shutout For League-Leaders

The league-leading Century A. C. defeated Moose tossers yesterday by a 2-0 score in a Frostburg City Softball League contest at State Teachers' field.

In other loop games, Twigg's defeated St. Michael's 9-1 and the Aristocrats edged Allegany 3-2 in nine innings.

Century's two runs were scored in the fourth inning when Shaner bunted and reached third on an overthrow, Densmore singled and Dennison doubled. Conway topped the losers with two of their three hits, including a double.

Henry had three hits for Twigg's including a homerun with the bases full in the second inning when the winners tallied seven runs. Starkey also had a homer and single for the winners. J. Byrnes had a double for the only extra-base blow for St. Michael's.

The Aristocrats had to go two extra innings before topping Allegany although outhit six to five by the losers.

Anderson and Blank had two hits apiece for Allegany while R. Harper tripled for the Aristocrats. It was a playoff of a postponed game. The scores:

Mulloy, Asboth Eliminated In Dull Matches

By GAYLE TALBOT

LONDON, June 30 (AP)—Bob Falkenburg of Hollywood, Calif., and Jack Bromwich of Australia stumbled into the finals of the men's championships at Wimbledon today. They won two semi-final exhibitions as bad as the old place ever saw.

Falkenburg took just one hour and 15 minutes to polish off Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., 6-4, 6-4, 8-6. The Florida veteran not only was sadly off his game but he had no luck, which made it worse.

Both Dull Bouts

Bromwich, on the other hand, ate up two hours and 10 minutes in disposing of Josef Asboth, a Hungarian, in an interminable baseline duel which saw only one service ace struck. The score was 6-3, 14-12, 6-2, and the second set alone needed 80 minutes to complete.

The crowd which packed the famed Center Court to its last foot of standing room was divided on which of the two matches was worse. The Bromwich-Asboth "duel" undoubtedly was the more boring. But it yielded little to the Falkenburg-Mulloy affair.

Neither would go near the net except when it was absolutely necessary to retrieve a drop shot. They stood on the baseline and batted the ball back and forth until one or the other missed. And that was all they did.

Falkenburg's victory, which followed, was at least different. The two Americans missed their shots quick. Very seldom did the sphere cross the net more than a time or two until it was whaled to where it no longer mattered.

Falkenburg, who had gone to the net on virtually every point of the match, was dog tired toward the end and ripe to be taken. Yet Mulloy, usually a steady man, couldn't bring his game under control long enough to take advantage of it.

Bromwich Easy Winner

Asboth, who scored a fine victory over Tom Brown of San Francisco in the previous round, seldom looked like the same player against Bromwich, who wore him out to the backhand and displayed too much court skill on the important points. The Hungarian led only once, at 5-3 in the second set, and Bromwich easily brought it to deuce. There was never much doubt of the winner.

Just which of today's winners will triumph on Friday is not known for sure, but it likely will be Bromwich. The Aussie is determined to win Wimbledon and show his home officials what a mistake they made in leaving him off their Davis Cup squad.

One thing is certain, the eventual winner will bear fair resemblance to the big fellow who crushed all opposition here a year ago—Jack Kramer.

The women did not play singles today. In their All-American semi-final tomorrow, Doris Hart of Miami will meet the defending champion, Mrs. Margaret Osborne Dupont of Wilmington, Del., and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., the current American titlist, will oppose Mrs. Patricia Canning Todd of La Jolla, Calif.

New Record Set In Tryouts For Olympic Rowing

Cornell, Princeton Among The Winners

PRINCETON, N. J., June 30—(AP)—The two favorites from the west, Washington and California, and two surprise crews from the east, Princeton and Cornell, turned in record-smashing performances today to win their first heats in the Olympic eight-oared rowing tryouts.

All four winners and two of the second-place crews surpassed the old record for the 2,000 meters course on Lake Carnegie. Cornell, negotiating the distance of 13 yards less than a mile and a quarter in five minutes, 56 and four-tenths seconds, was more than eight seconds under the old mark.

The former record, 6:04.8, was established by Washington's Olympic champion crew of 1936 in winning the tryouts here.

The four winners qualified for the semi-final heats Friday. The seven beaten eights will get a second chance tomorrow in three "repechage" heats. The repechage victors also will go into the semi-finals.

Washington and California had easy victories, the Huskies winning by about 2½ lengths from Wisconsin and California by a length and three quarters from Navy.

My Request Wins $20,000 Shevlin

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP) — My Request and Escadru, two colts that would be battling for the three-year-old title were it not for Calumet's devastating duo of Citation and Coaltown, finished as named and expected in today's $20,000 added Shevlin Stakes.

My Request, Ben Whitaker's top-weighted Texas representative, carried 126 pounds as if it were a toy balloon and took the $16,300 first money by a handy length and a half. Escadru, the Maryland hope from W. L. Brann's barn, earned the place by three lengths in the role of second choice to the even money victor, Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's Jet Black accounted for the show, three lengths farther back.

Despite the attraction of this 21st Shevlin, the smallest crowd of the meeting was present. Only 16,468 perspiring fans saw My Request step the mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 4-5 under Eddie Aracaro, who broke up a brief fishing furlough in Everglades City, Fla., to guide My Request home.

Smith Asks CAB For Action On Plane Service

Protesting that Cumberland is apparently no nearer to air transportation than in 1944, Harold W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, called upon the Civil Aeronautics Board to make "some honest effort" toward giving air service to the people of this area.

The letter, addressed to James J. O'Connell, CAB chairman, declared:

"The city of Cumberland and the federal government have invested approximately $2,500,000 in an airport with a Class 5 rating. This investment has produced no returns in the way of service or money since its completion.

"Briefs and arguments have been submitted to your body requesting the granting of certificates of convenience and necessity for the operation of airplane passenger and freight carriers over routes to and from Cumberland at hearings in Greensboro and Philadelphia some three years ago.

"Applications have been filed by a number of airlines to serve Cumberland, yet we are still without service. On Feb, 20, 1948, the All American Aviation, Inc., was authorized to provide service between Pittsburgh, Cumberland, Baltimore and intermediate points.

"It is our understanding that the desire of All American Aviation, Inc., to discontinue its pickup service in certain communities in Pennsylvania and West Virginia is responsible for failure of the airline to undertake the service for which it was certificated. The information which we have would indicate that the Pittsburgh-Baltimore route, as such, is not involved in the controversy.

"May we suggest that this route be given consideration on its merits and eliminated from the airmail pickup complications in other areas. As our briefs have repeatedly asked, Cumberland is badly in need of the service offered. Our local people cannot understand why they have been denied this means of transportation for such a long period of time since the airport was completed and applications for service were filed."

Mayor Thomas S. Post said the city will send a similar letter to the CAB, and Cumberland civic and fraternal organizations are expected to follow suit. The city and the chamber are official parties to the CAB Middle Atlantic cases.

T. Donald Shires, secretary of the Airport Commission, reported Daniel L. Miller, secretary of All-American Aviation, Inc., Wilmington, Del., plans to come here "within a month" to inspect the airport again and to obtain additional information on its layout and landing fees.

Miller is "most anxious to begin service to and from Cumberland," Shires said.

mander Gray said that it was the policy of the Navy to replace organizing officers with new Naval officers in all sections of the country.

The purpose of the changes is two-fold, the report states. The first is that new ideas and recent methods are being taught at all times and it also provides a periodic rotations of personnel to insure the Reserve is kept up to date. The other is for economy reasons as the United States Navy officers reduces the total number of officers on active duty. The employment of Commander Gray as inspector-instructor is an example of the Navy's policy of fully integrating the Reserve into regular Navy training and administering it in the same way as the rest of the Navy, he explained.

H. O. Springer

added that all training flights were cancelled for the day following the accident.

During the entire 10-minute flight, witnesses said Springer did not fly out of the three-mile training radius around the field. He had been flying daily, according to field officials.

Friends of the injured pilot said he recently moved here from Belington, W. Va., and was married on Christmas eve. A step-daughter resides with him and his wife.

BIBLE CLASS HANDICRAFT-- The classroom scenes above were duplicated in many churches of the Cumberland area during the past two weeks, when daily vacation Bible schools were held for youngsters from kindergarten to high school age. Shown in the pictures are some of the 95 children who have been attending vacation Bible School classes at Park Place Methodist Church, Narrows Park. The children will receive certificates at graduation exercises tomorrow night at 7:30 at the church. Some of the students in the arts and crafts class of the junior department are shown in the picture at the upper left with the dean of the school, Mrs. Foy Curry. The class was taught by Mrs. Merle Major, assisted by Lee Chenowith and William Martin, Jr., who are shown standing in the background. Children are (left to right) Homer Martz, Jr., Roger Curry, Donald Short, Gaylord Miller, Ronald Wolfe, Harold Barmoy, Richard Evans, Orlin Tressler, Donald Bower, Donald Jewell, David Martz, Ronald Norris and Glenn Bower. All of the other pictures show children in various classes of the beginners' department, which is headed by Mrs. Edward Chenowith. The group in the upper right photograph, shown making sandwich trays, includes (left to right) Nancy Ann Bactell, Lewis Schumann, Harold Borden, Eileen Rice, Janet Church and Judy Schoenadel. At the lower right, examining a newly completed Maypole, are Darlene Albright, Drinda Chenowith, Philip Defibaugh, Borden Dolly, Sara Ducket, Gary Barmoy and Wanda Lee Aman. Shown in the center picture, working on magazine cut-outs, are Steven Curry, Sue Cessna, Judy Youngblood, Charles Hatfield and Darlene Zimmerman. Children in the lower left picture, displaying booklets made in the classroom, are Sandra Spencer, Wayne Bower, Bonnie Bower, Cletus Mallow, Carl Long, Jean Ducket and Harry Woods. Other department heads were Mrs. Herbert Cessna, primary; Mrs. Charles Moody, juniors, and Mrs. Elsie Combs, intermediates. The pastor is Rev. Charles E. Smith.

Mrs. Roe Submits Winning Radio Joke

A favorite story, in her family, contributed by Mrs. Mark W. Roe, 415 Fayette Street, was read on the nationwide radio program, "Can You Top This?" Saturday night.

Mrs. Roe will receive a cash award and a recording of her story as it was told over the air, according to program officials.

Informed of her good fortune last night, Mrs. Roe said she had missed the broadcast and was unaware that her story had won a prize.

Mrs. Mary Edminston, Rochester, N. Y., a former local resident and an acquaintance of Mrs. Roe's, heard the broadcast and wrote to a friend here, asking the latter to telephone Mrs. Roe. Mrs. Edminston said she was "most astonished" when Cumberland was mentioned.

Mrs. Roe said her story was based on an amusing incident told a number of years ago by a colored maid, "a real vaudeville performer," who worker for the Roe family at that time.

Students Compete For State Scholarships

Four Allegany county students are listed in the Johns Hopkins University School of Engineering scholarships, according to Richard A. Mumma, assistant director of admissions. They are Ivan L. DeWitt, Donald L. Ort, Raymond N. Stevenson and John M. Twigg.

The competitive examination for the state scholarships in the school of Engineering of the Johns Hopkins University were held May 1948.

Local Briefs

BRYTE INFANT DIES

Earl Bryte, Jr., three-months-old son of Earl and Lova Everley Bryte, Bruceton Mills, W. Va., died yesterday morning at 12:20 in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted June 25.

MRS. ESTELLA PENNINGTON

Mrs. Estella Hellyer Pennington, 67, died early yesterday afternoon in Allegany County Infirmary where she had been a patient for six weeks.

She was a native of Baltimore, a daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. James Herbert Hellyer, and was the last surviving member of her family.

Mrs. Pennington had made her home with Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Free, 616 Sylvan Avenue, for the past five years.

She resided on Thomas Street until shortly after her husband, P. H. Pennington, died in 1940. Mr. Pennington was watchman on the B. and O. Polk Street until that street was closed.

She attended Living Stone Church of the Brethren here.

The body has been taken to the Mitchell Funeral Home, Baltimore. Burial will be in Baltimore Cemetery.

Hagerstown Long-Range Traffic Program Urged

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 30 (AP) —The State Roads Commission recommended today conversion of 14 streets to one-way traffic immediately and expenditure of $13,000,000 in a long-range program to relieve traffic congestion in downtown Hagerstown.

The traffic survey report stated the long range program should include a number of bridges and underpasses to have traffic by-pass the business district. It was based on anticipated traffic problems of 1970.

The town of Napa, Cal., has several places of interest to tourists. These are the Napa soda springs. Napa redwoods, Calistogo hot springs and petrified forests.

Soviet-Derided

Yugoslav Communist Party had denounced as lies and slander a Communist Information Bureau statement calling for Tito and his chief aides to change their course or lose their leadership.

The fourth plank of the party program espousing a Balkan bloc called for "uniting the Albanian and Bulgarian peoples and the Yugoslav people on the principle of national equality."

Russia Cool To Bloc Idea

(Communist Premier Georgi Dimitrov, of Bulgaria, proposed a Balkan federation last January after Tito had spoken favorably of the idea. The two leaders were believed to have discussed some phases of the project at a conference. Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper in Moscow, openly declared Moscow's opposition. After this slap, both Dimitrov and Tito were silent.)

The party last night declared the accusations of the Cominform, which is made up of Communist Party representatives from Russia, Yugoslavia, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, France and Italy, were "founded on hearsay."

It denied Yugoslav secret agents had shadowed Soviet agents in Yugoslavia, and declared some of these Soviet agents had not made themselves known to Yugoslav authorities.

It denied Yugoslavia was preparing to make "concessions to imperialists." It denied it had strayed from the true precepts of Communism, as the Cominform charged.

The possibility that the Tito revolt threatens the whole structure of Soviet-allied satellite states in Eastern Europe is under close study by the State Department, said Washington dispatches.

The only sign of repercussions so far, however, came from Vienna, where there were indications of differences among Austrian Communists as to the line to take toward the Yugoslav rebellion. A closed meeting was called for Saturday.

Child Tick Fever Victim

DEALE, Md., June 30 (AP)—Three-year-old Joan Doris Cohey, Deale, died yesterday, Anne Arundel County's first tick fever fatality of 1948, Health Officer William J. French said today.

The hawk owl is a large owl of the subarctic regions of North America and Europe. It is occasionally seen in Central Europe and northern United States. It is about 16 inches long and its face is hawklike.

Charity Days Set At Wheeling Downs

WHEELING, W. Va., June 30 (AP) —Proceeds of four racing days in September will be turned over to charity, the management of Wheeling Down announced today.

President William G. Lias said the four Fridays of September have been set aside as charity days, and profits will be placed in a special fund and distributed later among various charitable organizations of this area.

"During the war years," the announcement said, "charity days were popular on American race tracks, the Treasury Department having generally recognized the funds as tax exempt. Later rulings, however, have subjected such money to income taxation just as though the tracks retained it. As a result, charity days have disappeared from most American race track programs."

The management said that assignment of stalls virtually has been completed for the meeting opening July 31, and the first horeses are expected shortly after July 4.

May Payrolls Show Decrease

A decrease in both employment and payrolls in Cumberland's 17 major industries during May was noted in the June report of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

In May, 1947, the industries employed 18,996 while this May's total was 17,433, a decrease of 1,563.

Payrolls for the same industries which reached $4,240,369.82 last May were $3,922,248.83 this May, a decrease of $318,120.99.

The decrease in employment and payrolls probably resulted from delayed effects of the coal strike and to the normal spring slump in orders in one major industry here, Harold W. Smith, manager, said.

Postal receipts of $23,260.67 were down $5,911.40 from the April total and sales of Postal Saving Bonds dropped $937.50 over the preceeding month.

Lutheran Bible School Plans Closing Service

The Vacation Church School of St. John's Lutheran Church, corner of Fourth and Arch Streets, will hold its closing service Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The school has held daily sessions for two weeks. General theme of study for all age groups was "The Life Of Christ."

The general superintendent of the school was Mrs. DeCoursey Roth. She was assisted by the following departmental workers:

Intermediate — Mrs. Donald F. Brake and Mrs. Glennie Shelton; Juniors—Mrs. Wilson Couter, Mrs. Leo Bartik and Mrs. R. Kirk Lathrum; Primary—Mrs. Merle Shumaker, Mrs. Carl Reuschel, Mrs. Richard Hollar and Miss Doris Growden; Beginners—Mrs. Charles Growden, Mrs. Osa Brown, Mrs. Robert Rizer, Mrs. John Hite and Miss Louise Lathrum. The organist of the school was Miss Mary Louise Bender and the registrar was Mrs. Robert A. Giessman.

"Meanwhile, maximum use of air transport will be made to supply the civilian population. It has been found, after study, that the tonnage of foodstuffs and supplies which can be lifted by air is greater than had at first been assumed."

Diplomatic officials saw the pronouncement as a likely prelude to a strong three-power protest directly to Moscow against the Russian squeeze on the city's supply lines.

France Urges Joint Action

PARIS, June 30 (AP) — Foreign Ministry sources said today France has proposed joint American, British and French efforts to break the Soviet land blockade of Berlin.

The informants said American officials have expressed verbal approval.

The French note to Washington and London asked that no unilateral measures be taken and urged that no tripartite moves be made which would compromise chances of reaching agreement with the Russians.

Smith Asks CAB For Action On Plane Service

Protesting that Cumberland is apparently no nearer to air transportation than in 1944, Harold W. Smith, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, called upon the Civil Aeronautics Board to make "some honest effort" toward giving air service to the people of this area.

The letter, addressed to James J. O'Connell, CAB chairman, declared:

"The city of Cumberland and the federal government have invested approximately $2,500,000 in an airport with a Class 5 rating. This investment has produced no returns in the way of service or money since its completion.

"Briefs and arguments have been submitted to your body requesting the granting of certificates of convenience and necessity for the operation of airplane passenger and freight carriers over routes to and from Cumberland at hearings in Greensboro and Philadelphia some three years ago.

"Applications have been filed by a number of airlines to serve Cumberland, yet we are still without service. On Feb. 20, 1948, the All American Aviation, Inc., was authorized to provide service between Pittsburgh, Cumberland, Baltimore and intermediate points.

"It is our understanding that the desire of All American Aviation, Inc., to discontinue its pickup service in certain communities in Pennsylvania and West Virginia is responsible for failure of the airline to undertake the service for which it was certificated. The information which we have would indicate that the Pittsburgh-Baltimore route, as such, is not involved in the controversy.

"May we suggest that this route be given consideration on its merits and eliminated from the airmail pickup complications in other areas. As our briefs have repeatedly asked, Cumberland is badly in need of the service offered. Our local people cannot understand why they have been denied this means of transportation for such a long period of time since the airport was completed and applications for service were filed."

Mayor Thomas S. Post said the city will send a similar letter to the CAB, and Cumberland civic and fraternal organizations are expected to follow suit. The city and the chamber are official parties to the CAB Middle Atlantic cases.

T. Donald Shires, secretary of the Airport Commission, reported Daniel L. Miller, secretary of All-American Aviation, Inc., Wilmington, Del., plans to come here "within a month" to inspect the airport again and to obtain additional information on its layout and landing fees.

Miller is "most anxious to begin service to and from Cumberland," Shires said.

Six Divorces Granted

Final divorce decrees were signed yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster for the following:

Clyde C. Hosselrode from Elva H. Hosselrode; Ethel Wilson from Clyde Wilson; Delsie D. MacMillan from Archibald MacMillan; Rebecca Adams Speir from Hugh Speir, Jr.; Martha E. Appel from Paul Joseph Appel, and Bessie L. Clauson from George K. Clauson.

Equity suits were filed by Robert Lee Phillips against Constance N. Phillips; Charles Volb against Norma Volb and Evelyn Reitmeier against Francis Reitmeier.

mander Gray said that it was the policy of the Navy to replace organizing officers with new Naval officers in all sections of the country.

The purpose of the changes is two-fold, the report states. The first is that new ideas and recent methods are being taught at all times and it also provides a periodic rotations of personnel to insure the Reserve is kept up to date. The other is for economy reasons as the United States Navy officers reduces the total number of officers on active duty. The employment of Commander Gray as inspector-instructor is an example of the Navy's policy of fully integrating the Reserve into regular Navy training and administering it in the same way as the rest of the Navy, he explained.

BIBLE CLASS HANDICRAFT-- The classroom scenes above were duplicated in many churches of the Cumberland area during the past two weeks, when daily vacation Bible schools were held for youngsters from kindergarten to high school age. Shown in the pictures are some of the 95 children who have been attending vacation Bible School classes at Park Place Methodist Church, Narrows Park. The children will receive certificates at graduation exercises tomorrow night at 7:30 at the church. Some of the students in the arts and crafts class of the junior department are shown in the picture at the upper left with the dean of the school, Mrs. Foy Curry. The class was taught by Mrs. Merle Major, assisted by Lee Chenowith and William Martin, Jr., who are shown standing in the background. Children are (left to right) Homer Martz, Jr., Roger Curry, Donald Short, Gaylord Miller, Ronald Wolfe, Harold Barmoy, Richard Evans, Orlin Tressler, Donald Bower, Donald Jewell, David Martz, Ronald Norris and Glenn Bower. All of the other pictures show children in various classes of the beginners' department, which is headed by Mrs. Edward Chenowith. The group in the upper right photograph, shown making sandwich trays, includes (left to right) Nancy Ann Bactell, Lewis Schumann, Harold Borden, Eileen Rice, Janet Church and Judy Schoenadel. At the lower right, examining a newly completed Maypole, are Darlene Albright, Drinda Chenowith, Philip Defibaugh, Borden Dolly, Sara Ducket, Gary Barmoy and Wanda Lee Aman. Shown in the center picture, working on magazine cut-outs, are Steven Curry, Sue Cessna, Judy Youngblood, Charles Hatfield and Darlene Zimmerman. Children in the lower left picture, displaying booklets made in the classroom, are Sandra Spencer, Wayne Bower, Bonnie Bower, Cletus Mallow, Carl Long, Jean Ducket and Harry Woods. Other department heads were Mrs. Herbert Cessna, primary; Mrs. Charles Moody, juniors, and Mrs. Elsie Combs, intermediates. The pastor is Rev. Charles E. Smith.

Mrs. Roe Submits Winning Radio Joke

A favorite story, in her family, contributed by Mrs. Mark W. Roe, 415 Fayette Street, was read on the nationwide radio program, "Can You Top This?" Saturday night.

Mrs. Roe will receive a cash award and a recording of her story as it was told over the air, according to program officials.

Informed of her good fortune last night, Mrs. Roe said she had missed the broadcast and was unaware that her story had won a prize.

Mrs. Mary Edminston, Rochester, N. Y., a former local resident and an acquaintance of Mrs. Roe's, heard the broadcast and wrote to a friend here, asking the latter to telephone Mrs. Roe. Mrs. Edminston said she was "most astonished" when Cumberland was mentioned.

Mrs. Roe said her story was based on an amusing incident told a number of years ago by a colored maid, "a real vaudeville performer," who worker for the Roe family at that time.

Students Compete For State Scholarships

Four Allegany county students are listed in the Johns Hopkins University School of Engineering scholarships, according to Richard A. Mumma, assistant director of admissions. They are Ivan L. DeWitt, Donald L. Ort, Raymond N. Stevenson and John M. Twigg.

MRS. ESTELLA PENNINGTON

Mrs. Estella Hellyer Pennington, 67, died early yesterday afternoon in Allegany County Infirmary where she had been a patient for six weeks.

She was a native of Baltimore, a daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. James Herbert Hellyer, and was the last surviving member of her family.

Mrs. Pennington had made her home with Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Free, 616 Sylvan Avenue, for the past five years.

She resided on Thomas Street until shortly after her husband, P. H. Pennington, died in 1940. Mr. Pennington was watchman on the B. and O. Polk Street until that street was closed.

She attended Living Stone Church of the Brethren here.

The body has been taken to the Mitchell Funeral Home, Baltimore. Burial will be in Baltimore Cemetery.

Hagerstown Long-Range Traffic Program Urged

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 30 (AP) —The State Roads Commission recommended today conversion of 14 streets to one-way traffic immediately and expenditure of $13,000,000 in a long-range program to relieve traffic congestion in downtown Hagerstown.

The traffic survey report stated the long range program should include a number of bridges and underpasses to have traffic by-pass the business district. It was based on anticipated traffic problems of 1970.

The town of Napa, Cal., has several places of interest to tourists. These are the Napa soda springs, Napa redwoods, Calistogo hot springs and petrified forests.

Yugoslav Communist Party had denounced as lies and slander a Communist Information Bureau statement calling for Tito and his chief aides to change their course or lose their leadership.

The fourth plank of the party program espousing a Balkan bloc called for "uniting the Albanian and Bulgarian peoples and the Yugoslav people on the principle of national equality."

Russia Cool To Bloc Idea

(Communist Premier Georgi Dimitrov, of Bulgaria, proposed a Balkan federation last January after Tito had spoken favorably of the idea. The two leaders were believed to have discussed some phases of the project at a conference. Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper in Moscow, openly declared Moscow's opposition. After this slap, both Dimitrov and Tito were silent.)

The party last night declared the accusations of the Cominform, which is made up of Communist Party representatives from Russia, Yugoslavia, Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, France and Italy, were "founded on hearsay."

It denied Yugoslav secret agents had shadowed Soviet agents in Yugoslavia, and declared some of these Soviet agents had not made themselves known to Yugoslav authorities.

It denied Yugoslavia was preparing to make "concessions to imperialists." It denied it had strayed from the true precepts of Communism, as the Cominform charged.

The possibility that the Tito revolt threatens the whole structure of Soviet-allied satellite states in Eastern Europe is under close study by the State Department, said Washington dispatches.

The only sign of repercussions so far, however, came from Vienna, where there were indications of differences among Austrian Communists as to the line to take toward the Yugoslav rebellion. A closed meeting was called for Saturday.

Minister Of Mt. Zion Welsh Baptist Memorial Church, Frostburg, Will End 30-Year Pastorate This Month

Rev. W. D. Reese Plans To Resign

FROSTBURG—Rev. W. D. Reese, pastor of Mt. Zion Welsh Baptist Memorial Church since November, 1917, will tender his resignation to the congregation Sunday, July 4, at the morning service, to become effective the last Sunday in July, when he will have served the church for 30 years and eight months.

A native of Craig-Cefn-Parc, Swansea, South Wales, where he was born December 2, 1876, a son of the late David and Miriam Reese, Rev. Reese was educated at the Old Carmathan School, Ammanford Academy and the University of Wales, Cardiff, where he studied theology.

Following his graduation he accepted the pastorate of St. David's Church at Pembrokeshire, Wales, serving for seven and one-half years before coming to the United States in May, 1912. Six months after his arrival in this country he was married to Miss Elizabeth Eliza Thomas in New York, a native of Pembrokeshire.

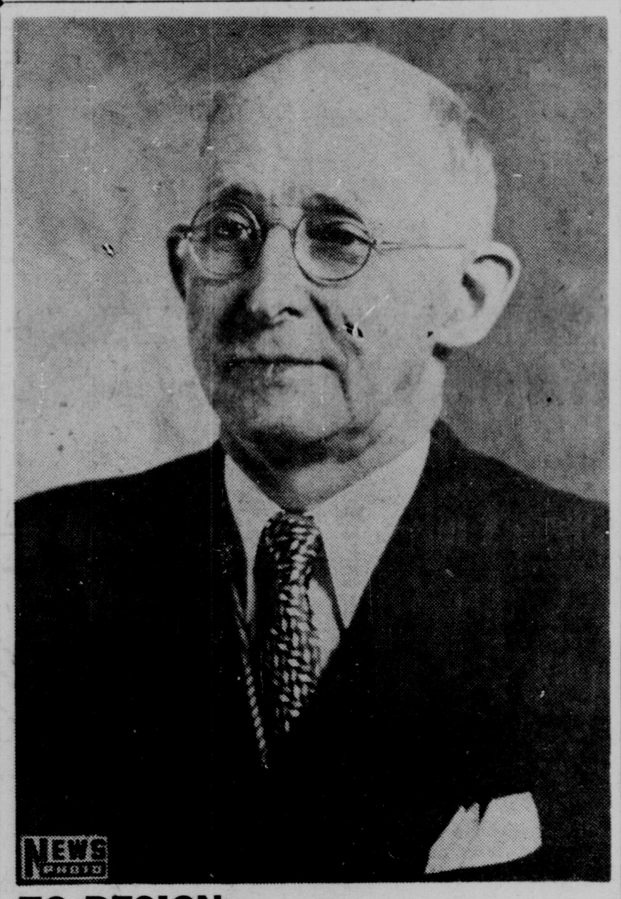

Rev. Reese's first charge in this country was at Taylor, Pa., where he served the Baptist Church for five and one-half years before coming to Frostburg in 1917

Have Three Children

Rev. and Mrs. Reese, who reside in the Baptist parsonage on Beall Street, have three children Mrs. Era Dorn, wife of Griffith Byrd Dorn, manager of the Jewel Tea Company, Baltimore; Richard B. Reese, administrating engineer for the Carbide and Carbon Corporation with headquarters in Newark, N. J., and Miss Bronwen Reese, a member of the nursing staff of Union Memorial Hospital, Baltimore.

Rev. Reese, whose pastorate has been one of the longest in the history of the community, has accomplished much for his church since his arrival here. The little frame church on Beall Street in which he first preached is now one of the most attractive stone chapels in this section.

The rebuilding and enlargement of the structure was completed in 1936. While the work was underway, the Masonic Fraternity of Frostburg officiated at the corner-stone laying held October 19, 1935. The original frame church was built in 1868 for use of the large number of Welshmen who came here shortly after the Civil War. Their grandchildren now constitute the major portion of the congregation of the present church.

TO RESIGN-- Rev. W. D. Reese will resign Sunday, July 4, after serving as pastor of Mt. Zion Welsh Baptist Memorial Church since November, 1917. He will tender his resignation to the congregation at morning services on that day.

While his work as a Christian minister has always come first, Rev. Reese has been active in community affairs and musical circles. He is a charter member of the Frostburg Lions Club and is serving on the Civil Service Board of the city.

He was a member of the board of directors of Miners Hospital for eight years and at various times was a member of several choral groups. Both he and Mrs. Reese are talented vocalists and instrumentalists and have always been generous in lending their talents at local church and community affairs.

In his own denomination and in the community, Rev. Reese is regarded as a preacher with profound convictions. In 1945 he was selected to make the principal address at the Maryland State Baptist Convention in Baltimore and in 1946 he was honored by being named guest minister to preach a Welsh sermon at the International Singing Festival, Akron, O., with representatives present from all major Welsh choral groups in the United States and Canada.

Returned Home Twice

Since residing in Frostburg, Rev. and Mrs. Reese spent one vacation in 1914 on a trip to Wales to visit relatives and friends, and in 1925 Rev. Reese paid another visit to his home in Wales. Rev. and Mrs. Reese plan to remain in Frostburg after their work at the church is completed next month. They recently purchased the Ort property on Beall Street, which they will occupy after the place is vacated by the present tenants and remodeling is completed.

Rev. Reese said yesterday that the nearly 31 years that he has served the church in Frostburg have been happy years. He said the congregation has always been loyal and only fine co-operation on their part made it possible to have the present church with its spacious social annex and the attractive parsonage which forms the group of buildings on Beall Street.

He referred with particular pride to the efforts of the young women of the church who sponsored installation of a new electric organ last year on the occasion of his 30th anniversary.

He also regards as one of the treasures of the church the large Bible presented to the congregation by Mountain Lodge No. 99, A. F. and A. M. commemorating the occasion of the cornerstone laying of the remodeled stone building in 1935-36. The Bible was presented the day the cornerstone was laid.

Moorefield High In Big Business

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—Moorefield High School was a major business in Hardy county last year with disbursements of $16,236.46, according to the statement made by the Board of Education this week. Receipts from the extra-curricular activities amounted to $15,980.04, which was less than disbursements but the balance on hand amounted to $1,250.46 at the beginning of the school year, and $1,018.57 at the end.

The hot lunch fund was the largest activity with receipts of $3,738.71 and disbursements of $3,838.27. The receipts from athletics amounted to $2,081 with disbursements of $2,269.69. The Juniors spent more than any other class with disbursements of $1,109.84 and receipts of $1,110.42. The seniors spent $319 and had receipts of $278.46.

The community cannery had receipts of $2,233.54 with disbursements of $2,131.30. This activity is indirectly connected with the high school. The bleacher fund disbursed $1,217 and showed receipts of $1,217.42. The Journalism class showed a deficit of $23.53 with receipts of $210 and disbursements of $233.53.

Baptist Bible School Plans Exercises

WESTERNPORT. — The commencement exercises of the Daily Vacation Bible School of the First Baptist Church will be held today at 7:45 p .m.

The students will receive certificates and those having a perfect attendance for the eight days will receive special wards. Mrs. William B. Orndorff, principal of the school, said the enrollment is 135.

Piedmont Bible School To Start

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The annual Vacation Bible School of the Trinity Methodist Church will be held July 5 to 16th, inclusive, the Rev. Raymond L. Moore, dean of the school, announces.

The two weeks school will be held Monday through Friday from 9 to 11 a. m.

Besides Rev. Moore the faculty will include Mrs. Frank Dayton, principal; Mrs. Raymond W. Reeves, school mother and Mrs. Minor McClung, assistant.

The teachers for the beginners will be Miss Helen Wagoner and Misses Lois Ann Kelly, Flora Mae Hood and Verda Loy; primary—Mrs. Frank Dayton assisted by Miss Shirley Ravenscroft, Miss Helen McGee and Miss Deretta Newman; juniors—Miss Nellie Keplinger, assisted by Mrs. Zihlman Callis, Miss Elizabeth LaRue, Mrs. Eileen Campbell and Miss Mona Beard; intermediates — Mrs. G. H. Whiteman, Mrs. Kenneth Malcolm and Rev. Moore.

Transportation will be provided by Carl Shaffer, Franklin; Harry Richards, Luke; Mrs. Z. Callis, Greene's Addition and Rev. Moore, Westernport Hill.

The cars will leave the following places at 8:45 a. m., Shaffer's Store at Franklin; Devon Club, Luke; Hammond Street School, Westernport and Green Street.

Extension Granted For License Tags

KEYSER, W. Va.—A 15-day extension on the use of 1947-48 license plates on all vehicles in West Virginia has been granted, it was announced yesterday by Cpl. R. R. Karickhoff, Keyser State Police.

Cpl. Karickhoff explained that the extension was granted due to the unusual demand for the 1948-49 license plates, which has made it impossible for all of them to be issued by the usual deadline, midnight, June 30.

Excavation Starts For New Residence

FROSTBURG.—A power shovel began work yesterday excavating for a foundation on the lot at 227 East Main Street, where Paul Carpenter, junior member of the firm of Carpenter Brothers, egg brokers, will erect a modern seven-room stone residence.

Work on the structure will begin immediately. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter recently sold their home at 275 East Main Street.

Last Rites For McCoole Sailor Set Tomorrow

KEYSER, W. Va.—Funeral services for Donald Franklin Taylor Pugh, engineman third class, who was accidentally drowned Sunday, June 6, at Argostolion, Greece, while on duty with the Navy, will be held from the Pugh home, 457 Maryland Avenue, McCoole, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Military honors will be accorded at the grave in Queens Point Cemetery by members of Queens Point Memorial Post No. 6775, Veterans of Foreign Wars, McCoole.

Engineman Pugh, 22, was the son of the late Wade H. and Mrs. Mary Hood Pugh, McCoole. He enlisted in the Navy in August, 1943, and was discharged in December, 1945. He re-enlisted in the Navy in July, 1946, for six years. He was serving aboard the USS Yellowstone at the time of his death.

The young Navy man was home on leave in April and early May this year, leaving McCoole on May 11. His ship sailed from New York May 17.

Survivors include two brothers, Wade Pugh, Coatsville, Pa., and James Pugh, McCoole, and four sisters, Mrs. Elsie Yocum, McMullen Highway; Mrs. R. C. Fazenbaker, Tampa, Fla.; Mrs. Joseph Gray, and Miss Margaret Pugh, both of McCoole.

The body will remain at Rogers Funeral Home, 85 South Main Street, until the time of the service.

Minister Of Mt. Zion Welsh Baptist Memorial Church, Frostburg, Will End 30-Year Pastorate This Month

Rev. W. D. Reese Plans To Resign

FROSTBURG—Rev. W. D. Reese, pastor of Mt. Zion Welsh Baptist Memorial Church since November, 1917, will tender his resignation to the congregation Sunday, July 4, at the morning service, to become effective the last Sunday in July, when he will have served the church for 30 years and eight months.

A native of Craig-Cefn-Parc, Swansea, South Wales, where he was born December 2, 1876, a son of the late David and Miriam Reese, Rev. Reese was educated at the Old Carmathan School, Ammanford Academy and the University of Wales, Cardiff, where he studied theology.

Following his graduation he accepted the pastorate of St. David's Church at Pembrokeshire, Wales, serving for seven and one-half years before coming to the United States in May, 1912. Six months after his arrival in this country he was married to Miss Elizabeth Eliza Thomas in New York, a native of Pembrokeshire.

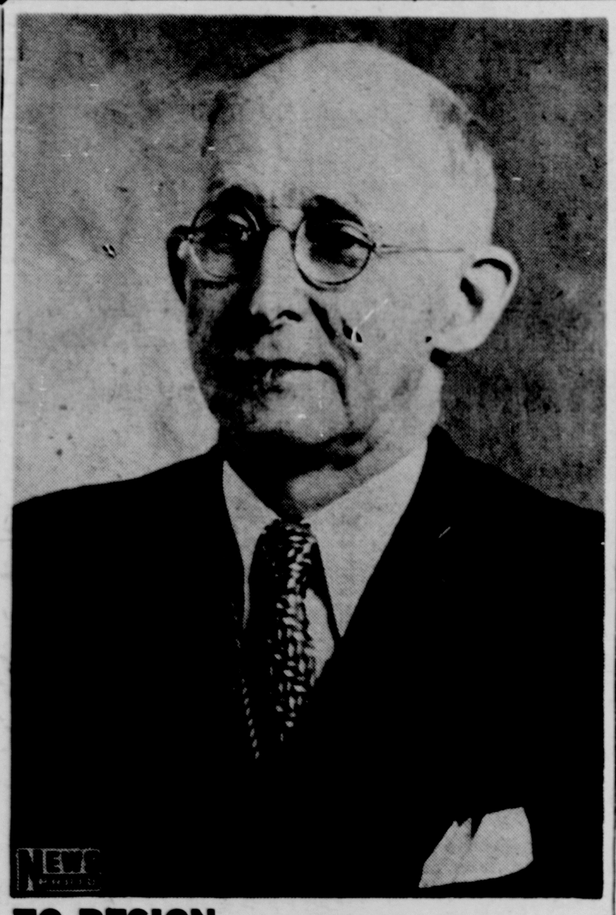

Rev. Reese's first charge in this country was at Taylor, Pa., where he served the Baptist Church for five and one-half years before coming to Frostburg in 1917

Have Three Children

Rev. and Mrs. Reese, who reside in the Baptist parsonage on Beall Street, have three children Mrs. Ira Dorn, wife of Griffith Byrd Dorn, manager of the Jewel Tea Company, Baltimore; Richard B. Reese, administrating engineer for the Carbide and Carbon Corporation with headquarters in Newark, N. J., and Miss Bronwen Reese, a member of the nursing staff of Union Memorial Hospital, Baltimore.

Rev. Reese, whose pastorate has been one of the longest in the history of the community, has accomplished much for his church since his arrival here. The little frame church on Beall Street in which he first preached is now one of the most attractive stone chapels in this section.

The rebuilding and enlargement of the structure was completed in 1936. While the work was underway, the Masonic Fraternity of Frostburg officiated at the corner-stone laying held October 19, 1935. The original frame church was built in 1868 for use of the large number of Welshmen who came here shortly after the Civil War. Their grandchildren now constitute the major portion of the congregation of the present church.

TO RESIGN-- Rev. W. D. Reese will resign Sunday, July 4, after serving as pastor of Mt. Zion Welsh Baptist Memorial Church since November, 1917. He will tender his resignation to the congregation at morning services on that day.

While his work as a Christian minister has always come first, Rev. Reese has been active in community affairs and musical circles. He is a charter member of the Frostburg Lions Club and is serving on the Civil Service Board of the city.

He was a member of the board of directors of Miners Hospital for eight years and at various times was a member of several choral groups. Both he and Mrs. Reese are talented vocalists and instrumentalists and have always been generous in lending their talents at local church and community affairs.

In his own denomination and in the community, Rev. Reese is regarded as a preacher with profound convictions. In 1945 he was selected to make the principal address at the Maryland State Baptist Convention in Baltimore and in 1946 he was honored by being named guest minister to preach a Welsh sermon at the International Singing Festival, Akron, O., with representatives present from all major Welsh choral groups in the United States and Canada.

Returned Home Twice

Since residing in Frostburg, Rev. and Mrs. Reese spent one vacation in 1914 on a trip to Wales to visit relatives and friends, and in 1925 Rev. Reese paid another visit to his home in Wales. Rev. and Mrs. Reese plan to remain in Frostburg after their work at the church is completed next month. They recently purchased the Ort property on Beall Street, which they will occupy after the place is vacated by the present tenants and remodeling is completed.

Rev. Reese said yesterday that the nearly 31 years that he has served the church in Frostburg have been happy years. He said the congregation has always been loyal and only fine co-operation on their part made it possible to have the present church with its spacious social annex and the attractive parsonage which forms the group of buildings on Beall Street.

He referred with particular pride to the efforts of the young women of the church who sponsored installation of a new electric organ last year on the occasion of his 30th anniversary.

He also regards as one of the treasures of the church the large Bible presented to the congregation by Mountain Lodge No. 99, A. F. and A. M. commemorating the occasion of the cornerstone laying of the remodeled stone building in 1935-36. The Bible was presented the day the cornerstone was laid.

Items Of Interest From Frostburg

The Deborah Society of First Presbyterian Church will hold a bake sale on the church lawn Saturday, July 3, from 10:30 a. m. to 1 p. m.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Welsh Baptist Memorial Church will hold a meeting in the church annex tonight at 7:45 o'clock. Mesdames Thomas Lloyd, James D. Aldridge and Stanley Chidester will be hostesses.

Mrs. Evelyn Sacks Goldsmith, Corpus Christi, Tex., a former resident of Frostburg, was a recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar C. Robeson, Linden Street. Mrs. Goldsmith, a daughter of the late Abram and Ragina Sacks, one time residents of Frostburg, left here about 20 years ago.

Mrs. Nellie Shuck, Broadway, has returned to her home after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Helene Marshall, Washington, and son, William A. Shuck, a patient for six months at Fort Howard Hospital, Baltimore. Mrs. Shuck was accompanied here by her granddaughter, Marlene Marshall, 15, who will spend the summer here.

Sunday School classes No. 3 and 5 of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church will hold a summer festival Wednesday evening, July 14, in the church school room, with a program starting at 7:30 o'clock, followed by refreshments. The proceeds will be used to help class members complete mission projects.

The Ladies' Aid Society of First Congregational Church, Bowery Street, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Lloyd, McCulloh Street. Mrs. Catherine Greening will be in charge of devotions. The covered dish supper planned tonight has been postponed.

The Pioneer Club of Welsh Baptist Memorial Church will meet Friday evening at the home of Mrs. LaVerne Kerr, Mt. Pleasant Street. Mrs. Margaret Scott will be assistant hostess.

The Women's Work Group of The Church of the Brethren will meet tonight at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Nellie Coleman, 110 Bowery Street.

Lonaconing City Band To Wear New Uniforms

LONACONING—The Lonaconing City band will wear their new uniforms Friday night when they play a concert on Douglas Avenue especially for William Reiber, of Douglas Avenue, who was with the band for many years. They will also participate in the parade at 7 p. m. in the Good Will Volunteer Fire company's Fourth of July celebration this week. A carnival is held each evening on the glass factory site, Railroad Street.

Ministerial Association To Hold Picnic Friday

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The Tri-Towns Ministerial Association will hold a picnic for its members and their families tomorrow at Swallow Falls. The group will leave the Church of the Brethren, Westernport at 8 p. m.

FROSTBURG.—Rev. John Cameron Taylor, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Broadway, has returned from Baltimore, where he attended the annual planning conference of the Presbytery of Baltimore's committee on Christian Education, of which he is a member.

One of the chief functions of the committee is to examine all candidates for the Presbyterian ministry prior to their licensure and ordination. Rev. Taylor examined candidates in the subjects of Hebrew and Greek.

Boating Bees Make Tupelo Honey

WEWAHITCHKA, Fla. (AP)—West Floridans say you need a boat to be a successful tupelo honey producer. And they say the only place in the world where tupelo honey is produced in quantity is along the swampy banks of the lower Apalachicola river, where tupelo trees are found in great numbers. There every year bees are brought by boat from the farmlands where they have spent the winter. Many of the hives are placed on high platforms by the edge of the river to protect them from spring floods.

During the brief tupelo season, the bees ignore other flowers to concentrate on the tree blossoms. The honey they produce is unique because it never crystallizes.

Volunteers Will Build Recreation Center

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va., June 30—(AP)—Volunteers from all over the country will come to Storer College next week to lend a hand in building a new physical education center which will serve both the school and the community.

The American Friends Service Committee is sponsoring the project and its recruits will contribute their labor for eight weeks.

Wool Workers Get Pay

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., June 30—(AP)—The Dunn Woolen Company announced it is paying its 400 employes about $30,000 in vacation benefits on the eve of their annual holiday, which runs from July 5 to July 12.

Amazon Oil Sought

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Congressmen from the Amazon territory of Brazil are sponsoring a bill to search for oil in the dense jungles of the famed Amazon river. They are asking a government fund equal to $2,000,000 for the research.

Parent-Teacher Unit To Hear School Head

COLLEGE PARK, Md., June 30 (AP) — Parent-Teacher Association leaders from six states attending a week-long workshop at the University of Maryland will hear an address tomorrow by Dr. Ward Miller, Superintendent of Schools, Wilmington, Del.

His topic will be "The Characteristics of a Good Leader."

After his speech, Dr. Miller will lead a panel discussion on "Problems in Developing Parent-Teacher Leaders."

Participants in the discussion will be Mrs. Ralph Thomas, Phillipsburg, N. J., Editor of The New Jersey P-T-A Bulletin; Mrs. G. C. Justusson, Falls Church, Va., chairman of the Northern Virginia P-T-A District; and State P-T-A Presidents William Jamieson, Jr., Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. A. J. Nicely, Erie, Pa.; Mrs. Robert G. Doty, Cumberland, Md., and Mrs. Dale Thomas, Charleston, W. Va.

Suggestions Made To Better Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va.—Several suggestions for the improvement of Keyser were made at the first of a series of group meetings held yesterday morning in the city offices by members of the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce. Meeting with the group were Chester J. Compton, executive secretary, and W. B. Woolfe, president of the board of directors.

The meeting was termed "very successful" by Compton, in spite of the small attendance.

Compton explained that meetings will be held weekly until all members of the association have been given a chance to make suggestions relative to the improvement of Keyser.

He said the association also plans to invite representatives of civic groups in the community to offer suggestions and discussions on the improvement of the town.

The chamber, which was organized in March, now has a membership of 92.

Business Women Hold Meeting

KEYSER, W. Va.—"Know Your Federation" was the topic used by Mrs. Carl Peters, program leader, when she addressed the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Keyser at their regular meeting held recently at the Peters summer home on Patterson Creek.

The early history of the Keyser club and its organization featured her address. Miss Madeleine Martin discussed the club emblem.

Preceding the program a business session was held, with the new president, Miss Josephine Bolyard, presiding. Announcement was made of the board meeting to be held in Huntington August 21 and 22, and reports of the state convention held in Wheeling in June were given.

The club collect was read by Miss Virginia Robinson, guest of the club, who is a member of the staff of Potomac State School. Miss Robinson is also a member of the B and PW Club of Clarksburg and has worked in previous years with Miss Myrl Rohrbaugh, past state president.

A covered dish supper was served on the lawn. A past president's pin was presented to Miss Alma Peters, retiring president.

The July meeting of the club will be held at the summer home of Mrs. W. S. Caldwell, near Dawson.

Attending were Mrs. W. S. Caldwell, Miss Robinson and Mrs. Laurin Swisher, guests, and Mesdames Homer Hott, Dan Huffman, Earl Fischbach, Arnold Childers, Myrtle Harrison, Vernon Twigg, W. A. Leatherman and A. A. P. Neel, and Misses Alma Peters, Josephine Bolyard, Madaline Knott, Wilma Robson and Madeleine Martin.

NAVY ENLISTMENTS REPORTED IN KEYSER

KEYSER, W. Va.—Two more area youths have enlisted in the Navy for three years, according to Chief Quartermaster Charles C. Drinkwater of the local Navy recruiting station, making a total of 11 men from this area for the month of June.

They are Darwin Theodore Hartman, 17, 493 St. Cloud Street, who enlisted as an airman recruit, and Donald Dale Taylor, 17, Ridgeville, who enlisted as a seaman recruit. Hartman will be sent to an airman recruit school for training in aviation fundamentals and Taylor will be assigned to general service upon completion of recruit training. Hartman was a member of the 1948 graduating class of Keyser High School.

Chief Drinkwater also announced that medals for service in the American, Asiatic-Pacific and African-European theaters are available upon presentation of discharge papers at the recruiting office in the West Virginia Unemployment Office, corner of Main and Center Streets.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 30—(INS)—New full-fledged associate in Arthur Lake independent picture setup with Irving Allen is Gilda Dahlberg, wife of Bror Dahlberg, fabulously wealthy head of Celotex Corporation and building materials manufacturer. Gilda played a mere "backer's" role in the first venture, "16 Fathoms Deep." But she steps out front with associate producer's credit on the second, "Flying Lady."

Louella Parsons

Arthur and partners, glowing over advance notices on their exciting movie about Florida sponge divers, have selected another tall adventure yarn—this time about the wild horse country of Wyoming. Most of the picture will be filmed in Wyoming, getting the real backgrounds.

Getting back to Gilda, she isn't exactly new in the professional field. She has had several successful singing and artist proteges and has backed shows on Broadway.

• — • — •

David Selznick, the "lendingest" producer in town, is letting his prize import, Rossano Brazzi, make his American debut on the MGM lot.

Mervyn Leroy has snagged the Italian actor for the role of the professor in "Little Women," just 25 days after Brazzi left Italy with a record of such successes as "Furia" and "The King's Jester" behind him.

He spent today meeting June Allyson, Peter Lawford, Elizabeth Taylor and Margaret O'Brien on the MGM lot and tomorrow, David hosts a cocktail party in his honor at Ciro's.

• — • — •

Sam Goldwyn, so hepped over Farley Granger and Cathy O'Donnell, runs off "The Twisted Road" (formerly "Your Red Wagon") in his private projection roof at odd hours just to admire his young stars again.

Frankly, I don't see that comparisons are in order between these kids and Vilma Banky and Ronald Colman, Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell, or any of the other great teams, past or present.

The things that gets you about them—particularly Granger—is that they are not reminiscent of other screen personalities. Farley, who is 23, reminds you of no other actor. He is not a "second" anybody. He has a throbby maturity, specially in his speaking voice, that will find an echo in plenty of heartbeats.

• — • — •

Comes now another breezy cable from Louella Parsons covering all European countries, including the Scandinavian:

"Ingrid Bergman is expected in Sweden in August and while she is here she will visit the SF Studios where she made her first picture. I paid a visit to Dr. Harald Molander at the studio which once was the movie home of not only Bergman, but Greta Garbo, Viveca Lindfors and Marta Toren. Two pictures were being filmed.

"The very good-looking Molander says he does not believe he can give America another Garbo or Bergman. "We don't have them every day', he explained and added wistfully, 'I'm not sure I'll let the Hollywood producers see my pictures. Every time they see a star they like they grab her'!"

• — • — •

Scandinavian Shorts: "Our visit to the yacht of King Haakon, just before we left Oslo, was an experience I shall never forget," continues our lady ambassador without portfolio.

"The boat was given the King on his birthday by the people of Norway. The reason we were able to visit aboard is that our hostess was Ruskin Isdahl, who had been one of the crown princess' bridesmaids. It seems, when Marta married the Crown Prince, she had four Swedish bridal maids and the Queen of Norway selected four Norwegian girls. Ruskin was one of them and I can understand why. She is so completely charming."

• — • — •

Back to Sweden—"Edgar Bergen has renamed Charlie McCarthy 'Axel' and he is talking Swedish. Frances and Edgar are in a small town near Stockholm for the holidays—by holidays, I mean midsummer, the longest days of the year.

"No one speaks English to me but the International News Service head here who is a darling. He was sent here originally as a war correspondent.

"My face has been plastered in all the local newspapers, which is flattering publicity, I suppose—not being able to read a word of the interviews.

"Dr. Martin says I now speak English with a broad 'A', plus an Irish brogue and a Swedish inflection and no one dares think about what will happen to my speech when we land in France next week."

That's all from Louella and today.

Henry Aldrich To Bid Radio Adieu For Summer Rest

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, June 30—Summer show schedule shows up in new places on Thursday.

For instance, Henry Aldrich is off the air, and in goes the Armed Services revue for his 8 o'clock time on NBC. The first broadcast will have Irving Berlin as guest as well as Marlene Dietrich. The M. C. is to be Burgess Meredith. The band will be that of Roy Shield; also the Smoothies sextet.

At the same hour on CBS, starts "Dr. Standish, medical examiner, a mystery series based on the experiences of fictional medical examiner of a medium sized city. He takes over from FBI in Peace and War.

Further down the CBS list Doorway to Life is being moved from Sundays to 10:30 to occupy the First Nighter's spot.

Moving over to ABC, it is quickly discovered that Henry Morgan has gone off the kilocycles and in his 7:30 spot there appears another music program supplied by Rex Maupin, or so the network lists. Another ABC change puts Child's World in at 9, while at 10 the Friday night boxing period is now resting. But in view of the fact that boxing is in recess until mid-July, the time will be turned over to a typical sports show.

ABC at 10:30 announces that it will carry the keynote speech of James P. Cannon, national secretary of the Socilist Workers' party, as delivered at that party's convention in New York.

Family Theater of MBS at 10 is to have Joe E. Brown as one of the lead actors.

SALLY'S SALLIES

"I told you before we were married that I didn't care for money."

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Television's Big Week

I hope I will be forgiven for dwelling so persistently in recent days on television. History of sorts was made in this new art last week and it should be writ down someplace, if only here, the nearest thing to writing in water that contemporary journalism offers. The Louis - Walcott fight, for example, opened up a number of legal, financial, journalistic and social problems that bear some looking into. We'll take them up in inverse order to their importance.

John Crosby

Socially the fight provided a grim and unexpected test to the amiability of the host. Every man, woman and vice-president who owned a television set was besieged by friends who felt a sudden, desperate urge to see them, say, Wednesday night. This inexplicable desire to renew the bonds of friendship struck anywhere from fourteen to twenty persons in the case of each set-owner. When the rains came, the host was confronted with a dilemma at least as unpleasant as that of Mike Jacobs. The outspoken set-owner called up his fourteen to twenty friends and peremptorily issued rainchecks. The timid one laughed falsely into the phone and cackled unconvincingly: "Don't be silly, Joe. Come anyway."

The first group endured the emptiness of an evening which had promised to be full of the laughter and fellowship of close friends for three straight etvenings. I don't know which is worse. I suspect it's the second. The entertainment of fourteen to twenty persons on three successive nights is both wearing and expensive. With the price of whiskey what it is, it may easily have been cheaper to have treated the mob to ringside seats.

But the unkindest cut came around the fourth round on Friday evening when, after two postponements, the grea t event clearly promised to be one of the most insipid heavxyweight championship fights of all time. The host, dutily filling glasses, presently felt the reproachful stares of his roomful of friends. You had promised a thrilling sporting event; you haven't delivered. You're not just a host, you discover. You're Mike Jacobs. After all, you own the set, don't you? Why can't you stir these sluggish combatants into something resembling a prize fighter.? Any day I expect a summons from the New State Athletic Commission asking me to explain why my fighters lay down in this unpardonable manner.

Now for the journalistic angle, if that's the phrase I want. Bob Stanton, the television announcer, who was fully aware his audience could see the waltz as well, if not better, than he could, kept his chatter in minor key tinged with a faint disgust. Don Dunphy, the radio announcer, apparently had not been told that most people who own television sets also own radio sets and that it is a custom among many of them to turn both sets on at once. M. Dunphy made quite a contest of it. He reported accurately enough the throwing of the punches but neglected to tell the customers that the fighters were separated by roughly five feet during this strenuous but meaningless exercise. In the future it might be wise for radio announcers to report what is known in legal circles as the whole truth.

Now, finance. The empty seats at Yankee Stadium were blamed by the fight promoters on the two postponements. Certain sporting writers ascribed it at least partially to television. There isn't any doubt that the postponements hurt attendance seriously, but I find it inconceivable that the promoters can laugh off television so lightheartedly. According to N.B.C. estimates, the first Louis-Walcott fight was viewed by 1,000,000 persons via television; the second, by 10,000,000. The second figure is wildly optimistic, but it indicates the enormous growth of television in a short time. By the time the next really big fight rolls around, the television audience may have expanded to 30,000,000 persons.

I venture the prediction that most of them will prefer to witness the fight, if possible, in the comfort of their own livingrooms. There is no comparison to radio in its early years. By television you get a better view of a fight than the ringsiders. In fact, the only person who gets a comparable view is the referee, and how can fight promoters overcome such competition? The Louis-Walcott fight may well be the last big fight ever televised.

As to the legal angle, N.B.C. and the Twentieth Century Sporting Club won three important court decisions restraining hotel, theater and auditorium owners from projecting the fight on large screens before audiences who had paid either direct admission charges or indirectly through cover or minimum charges. The court held this was an unlawful appropriation of property rights. This is the first such court case concerning television before paid audiences. Years ago, the Pepsodent Company won a similar order restraining theater managers from showing Amos 'n' Andy before paid audiences but the company, recognizing the promotional value, later dropped the case.

I predict that neither the broadcasters nor the sports promoters will ever relent in the case of television. Radio and television are not at all the same things.

Henry Aldrich To Bid Radio Adieu For Summer Rest

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, June 30—Summer show schedule shows up in new places on Thursday.

For instance, Henry Aldrich is off the air, and in goes the Armed Services revue for his 8 o'clock time on NBC. The first broadcast will have Irving Berlin as guest as well as Marlene Dietrich. The M. C. is to be Burgess Meredith. The band will be that of Roy Shield; also the Smoothies sextet.

At the same hour on CBS, starts "Dr. Standish, medical examiner, a mystery series based on the experiences of fictional medical examiner of a medium sized city. He takes over from FBI in Peace and War.

Further down the CBS list Doorway to Life is being moved from Sundays to 10:30 to occupy the First Nighter's spot.

Moving over to ABC, it is quickly discovered that Henry Morgan has gone off the kilocycles and in his 7:30 spot there appears another music program supplied by Rex Maupin, or so the network lists. Another ABC change puts Child's World in at 9, while at 10 the Friday night boxing period is now resting. But in view of the fact that boxing is in recess until mid-July, the time will be turned over to a typical sports show.

ABC at 10:30 announces that it will carry the keynote speech of James P. Cannon, national secretary of the Socilist Workers' party, as delivered at that party's convention in New York.

Family Theater of MBS at 10 is to have Joe E. Brown as one of the lead actors.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear husband and father, Tony Sullivan, who was killed in a mine accident, June 30, 1944.

Your memory is as dear today
As in the hour you passed away.
To have, to hold and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of our hearts.

Although your soul is now at rest
And free from care and pain,
This world would seem like Heaven
If we had you back again.

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY
School of Engineering
Scholarships

In the competitive examination for State Scholarships in the School of Engineering of the Johns Hopkins University held in May, 1948, the candidates from the following contested county in Maryland stood in the order listed below:

ALLEGANY COUNTY

DeWitt, Ivan L. (1)
Stevenson, Raymond N. (4)
Twigg, John M. (3)

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their kindness and helpfulness during our recent bereavement, the death of Alva Lee Foltz, Gormania, W. Va. We also wish to thank those who sent flowers and those who loaned cars for the funeral.

MRS. LORETTA FOLTZ & SONS.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear husband and father, Tony Sullivan, who was killed in a mine accident, June 30, 1944.

Your memory is as dear today
As in the hour you passed away.
To have, to hold and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of our hearts.

Although your soul is now at rest
And free from care and pain,
This world would seem like Heaven
If we had you back again.

Sadly missed by His Wife, Fannie and sons,
Tony David and Vernon Lee

Market Finishes First Half Of '48 By Almost Reaching 22-Month High

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—The stock market finished the first half of 1948 today with a general advance that carried prices near to a 22-month high. The high was reached on June 10.

Rails and oils stole the show with advances running to more than five points. Most gains, though, were fractional.

Volume was unusually small for a while, then picked up. At that, sales totaled only 990,000 shares. This compared with 820,000 yesterday which was one of the slowest of the past three months.

The prize act was put on by the Nickel Plate Railroad which jumped a tidy eight points or so at one time to a new high for the year and ended 5⅝ higher at 80½. Nickel Plate recently turned out a highly favorable earnings report and directors are working on a plan which might result in a common stock dividend.

Gains of around a point or less were posted for Illinois Central 41⅛, Atlantic Coast Line 58, Great Northern preferred 47½, and Santa Fe 113¾. Central of New Jersey moved against the trend with a 1¼-point loss at 27.

Lower were Firestone Tire, Schenley, General Electric, New York Central, Standard Oil (NJ), and American Can.

Selected rails moved ahead in the bond market, but otherwise there was little to get excited about.

Total sales were $4,400,000, quite a bit better than yesterday's $3,372,000.

Market Finishes First Half Of '48 By Almost Reaching 22-Month High

NEW YORK, June 30. (AP)—The stock market finished the first half of 1948 today with a general advance that carried prices near to a 22-month high. The high was reached on June 10.

Rails and oils stole the show with advances running to more than five points. Most gains, though, were fractional.

Volume was unusually small for a while, then picked up. At that, sales totaled only 990,000 shares. This compared with 820,000 yesterday which was one of the slowest of the past three months.

The prize act was put on by the Nickel Plate Railroad which jumped a tidy eight points or so at one time to a new high for the year and ended 5⅝ higher at 80½. Nickel Plate recently turned out a highly favorable earnings report and directors are working on a plan which might result in a common stock dividend.

Gains of around a point or less were posted for Illinois Central 41⅛, Atlantic Coast Line 58, Great Northern preferred 47½, and Santa Fe 113¾. Central of New Jersey moved against the trend with a 1¼-point loss at 27.

Lower were Firestone Tire, Schenley, General Electric, New York Central, Standard Oil (NJ), and American Can.

Selected rails moved ahead in the bond market, but otherwise there was little to get excited about.

Total sales were $4,400,000, quite a bit better than yesterday's $3,372,000.

Student Pilot Critically Hurt In Crash

H. O. Springer Is Reported In Poor Condition

Plane Dives From 75-Foot Altitude

A 27-year-old student pilot was critically injured yesterday when the Piper Cub he was soloing went into a spin at 75 feet and crashed at the Municipal Airport 10 minutes after he took off at 4:35 p. m., an eye witness to the crash reported.

At Memorial Hospital, attaches said Herbert O. Springer, 211 North Lee Street was in "poor condition" and added he suffered a possible fractured skull, fractures of both legs and shock.

Springer, a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employe was on a routine training flight, according to Sanford Jenkins, secretary and treasurer of the Mountain Air Service, In., which operates the local port.

Officials at the post said they were unable to explain the crash, but added Civil Aeronautics Authorities were expected here this morning to begin an investigation. The West Virginia State Aviation Commission, Charleston, W. Va., was also notified of the accident, Jenkins said.

Plane Is Wrecked

The plane, one of the newest training crafts at the air port, was described as a total loss and Jenkins said when he arrived at the scene of the crash the nose of the plane was buried in the ground and it was necessary to tip it back before Springer could be removed.

Jenkins said he and John DelaGrange, port president, loosened the safety belt from around Springer and removed the unconscious man to an ambulance. Springer had more than 75 hours of flying time to his credit, officials explained, adding they were at a loss to explain the cause of the spin.

The plane's engine was pushed back into the cockpit by the impact of the crash, witnesses said, and the cockpit door and windshield were covered with blood. The ordinarily shatter-proof plexi-glass windshield and windows in the plane were broken and scattered over a wide area near the crash spot.

Witnesses who viewed the plane said the wings were bent and their covering torn to shreds. The propeller was splintered, and wrapped around the dislocated engine.

The pilot seat and control stick of the plane were jarred loose by the impact and the entire front of the plane bent and twisted. The nose of the plane buried itself about six inches in the ground, one observer declared.

Practicing Landings

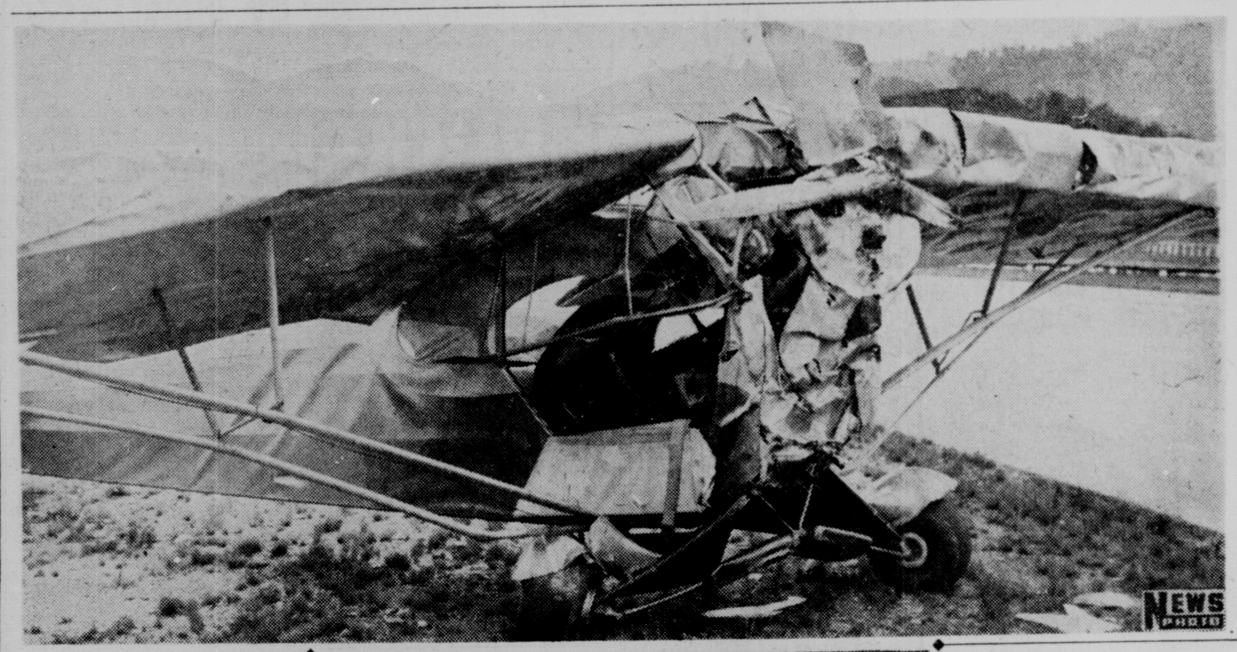

Airport officials declared they were unable to determine if Springer was attempting to land at the time of the crash, although they said his training lesson called for practice landings.

The plane barely missed the hard surface taxi strip which runs east and west on the field and was only a couple of feet from Runway No. 19.

Jenkins said the victim has been flying since May 27, 1947 and has been soloing since August 11, 1947. He added that Springer was taking the flying course under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

According to Jenkins, Springer was the only pilot from the local port in the air at the time, but

PLANE CRASH, VICTIM-- Ten minutes after he took off on a routine training flight, Herbert O. Springer, 211 North Lee Street, here, was critically injured when the Piper Cub Trainer went into a spin at a 75 foot altitude and crashed at the Municipal Airport, near Wiley Ford, W. Va., yesterday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock. Springer, a veteran of World War II who served in the Aleutian Islands, was taking the pilot course under the G.I. Bill of Rights. Attaches at Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted, described the victim's condition as "poor" late last night.

28 Area Youths Named To Attend Boys State Camp

Delegations Will Leave Here Monday

Twenty-eight Western Maryland youths will attend the Department of Maryland, American Legion's Boys State which will open next Monday at Fort George G. Meade, Thomas F. Conlon, Sr., Boys State chairman, announced last night.

Two of the youths will attend the annual camp designed to promote good citizenship, as counselors. They are Joseph Love and Lowell Sowers, both of Lonaconing, who were invited to assist in the program as a result of marks made at Boys State last year. Both won high honors from letters on Americanism and other activities.

Those who have been selected to attend Boys State July 5 through 19, with schools and sponsors are:

Robert Reinhart, 511 Arnett Terrace, Allegany High; John Kelly, 16 North Chase Street, LaSalle High; Lawrence Lovenstein, 610 Niagara Street, LaSalle; Wesley Abrams, 310 Piedmont Avenue, Allegany; John Alderton, Williams Road, Fort Hill High, all sponsored by Voiture No. 164, Forty and Eight here.

Fred Corbin, 22 West First Street, Fort Hill; Robert Keefe, 522 Beall Street, Allegany, and Larry McKenzie, Route 4, Fort Hill, all sponsored by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Local Youths Named

Robert Gulick, 819 Shawnee Avenue, Allegany, Tonkaway Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men.

Eugene Mason, 218 Maryland Avenue, Fort Hill, Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose.

Edward Lendefeld, 709 Bedford Street, Allegany, sponsored by Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, 410 Washington Street.

Marvin Luttrell, 320 Dorn Avenue, Fort Hill, by the Mayor and Council of Cumberland.

Robert Johnson, 206 Washington Street, Allegany, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

To Represent Frostburg

Edwin Wareheim, Melvin Eichhorn and Samuel Arnone, all of Frostburg, sponsored by Farrady Post, American Legion, Frostburg.

Raymond Ralston and Andrew Smith, both of Lonaconing, sponsored by James P. Love Legion Post, Lonaconing.

Jack Bean, Barton, sponsored by Barton Post, American Legion.

Robert Dicken, 1000 Virginia Avenue, Fort Hill, and Robert Shaffer, 419 Fayette Street, LaSalle, both of this city, and sponsored by Accident Post, American Legion.

Frederick Thayer, Jr., Oakland, Oakland Volunteer Fire Company.

Frederick Bell, Jr., and Jackie Kight, both of Oakland, by Proctor-Kildow Post, American Legion there.

Conlon said the youths will travel to Boys State by a chartered bus which will leave the Frostburg Legion Home July 5 at 8 a. m. and arrive here to pick up all others at the City Hall at 9 a. m. They will arrive at the camp at 2 p. m.

Names Captains

All Cumberland youths selected for the camp will meet Conlon this morning at 11 o'clock in the Maryland Veterans Office in the Liberty Trust Building to complete applications and receive final instructions.

Captains in charge of groups will be Charles Sitter, LaSalle; Robert Keefe, Allegany, and Fred Corbin,

Eight Squirrels Added To Wildlife Contingent At Constitution Park

Animals Are Shipped Here From Baltimore

Golden said two dozen squirrels had been requested, adding that additional shipments may be arranged later on.

Apparently the long trip from Baltimore put the squirrels into bad humor, he said, for they were fighting in their special wire cage and one was bloodied.

As soon as they were released, Golden said, "they hit for the trees right away." Because they are parkbred, Golden said, the small furry animals will probably become more friendly as soon as they get used to their new surroundings.

"Jasper" the deer, who has been living there for the past six weeks in a pen, has attracted hundreds of children, Golden said.

Jasper will eat anything, including popcorn and potato chips, and one of the children even had him drinking pop out of a bottle, according to one report.

Golden said Jasper's favorite dessert is chewing tobacco, but the deer seems to be thriving on his remarkable diet.

Union Delays Meeting

Robert Jones, business agent for Operating Engineers Local 37, AFL, announced yesterday that a meeting of the local scheduled Saturday has been postponed until the next regular meeting in August.

Washington Woman Seeking Father Here

Mrs. Rita Daniels, Washington, D. C., has asked the Cumberland News to help in trying to find her father, Elmer R. Lewis, who she says conducted a small clothing store in Cumberland.

A check of traders' licenses issued at the Allegany County Court House failed to reveal any license issued to any such person. Neither the phone book or the city directory lists any one by that name in Cumberland.

If Mr. Lewis reads this article, please contact Mrs. Daniels at 3624 "O" Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. or phone Washington (Hobart) 2179. Mrs. Daniels said that it is urgent, as his mother is critically ill. Any information that may lead to the finding of Daniels may be called to The Cumberland News.

Employe Data Prepared For Pension Study

129 City Workers Included In List

Data on city employes necessary for an actuarial study to determine the cost of a city pension plan has been prepared, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

The list includes all employes except those in the Police and Fire Departments, which have their own pension plans, set up under legislative statute.

Mayor Post said the data will be sent to the Maryland State Employes' Retirement System, which retains a New York actuary to make such studies for counties and municipalities desiring to take part in the pension program.

At a special meeting in May, the Mayor and Council decided to request the actuarial study, after members of Local 812, Municipal Employes Union, expressed unanimous approval of securing a pension plan.

The list of 129 employes gives the name, date of birth, position, base salary, current salary and the number of years of service. Included are city employes at Constitution Park, the Cumberland Municipal Airport, and the Health, Street, Finance, Water and Engineering Departments.

Cost of the actuarial study is expected to be about $200. Passage of an ordinance by the Mayor and Council would be necessary to put the pension plan into effect.

Under the Maryland retirement system, rates of payment by employes are based on age, sex and work classification, with employe contributions matched by the state or the employing unit.

Employe payments are placed in one account to provide an annuity when retirement age is reached, while the state contributes an equal amount to a second account, to provide a retirement pension.

Disorderly Conduct Lands Two In Jail

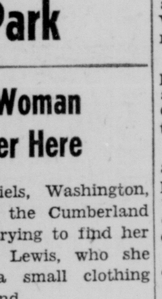

City Police last night apprehended two local people for being disorderly. Jasper Miller, Bedford Road, was arrested on that charge alone, while Lena Webster, Cumberland, was charged with drunk and disorderly conduct. Both will be tried this morning in Police Court.

Just Between Us

The Male Animal Is As Unpredictable As Weather

By NANCY MOTTRAM

"Why is it that a male's moods change so often, and from one extreme to the other?" A lot of high-school and college misses would like to know. It's a question with no date or season—and the reason is a mystery no one can solve.

Nancy Mottram

Why is Johnny attentive and thoughtful on a Saturday night date, seeming to hold the opinion that you're the nicest thing that's happened to him since he first bought a soda with two straws for the girl next door—but the next week, pass you by with barely a nod of the head?

Sometimes you're pretty sure of him. He calls every evening after supper, you can plan on spending Friday and Saturday eves in his company, and life moves along without a crisis or complication.

Another thing, and it's important, is the lack of competition. You don't have to sit and chew your nails to the elbow wondering if you're losing him to the lass who sits next to you in English class. Even if he doesn't come right out and tell you that you're the stuff dreams are made of, you're happy, because you know he thinks it privately.

So for a couple of months, you haven't a worry in the world. You're not even envisioning any problems in the near future. Of course, you're likely to have tiffs now and then, and be a little cool to each other occasionally, but it blows over soon, and things get back to normal. Because of your differences, your relationship improves. Forgiving and forgetting is good experience. You get to know how he feels about things, and you learn to avoid the more serious quarrels.

Then, there comes a time when your friendship hits a snag. If it's a genuine, honest rift, there's less hurt or hard feelings, and little regret on either side. But if it ends without any good reason—if those phone calls and invitations stop without any apparent cause—that's hard to take.

For the life of you, you can't understand why it happened. There wasn't any violent disagreement, and as far as you know, no other gal has entered the picture. Occasionally, he murmurs a hello when you meet on the street. There's no formal break-up. But it's the start of a cold war—why, you can't guess.

It may be just a temporary mood. Again, it may be the end. If you have a good opportunity, ask him about it. You can invite him over for an evening of playing records and dancing, preferably with a group, and try to get it straight. Otherwise, accept different dates, and try to occupy your time so that you can look back on it without a twinge of regret.

You're a little wiser now in the ways of the male sex. Perhaps, some day, you'll hear from him again. Until then, cross it off, and count it as a pleasant experience. It's bound to happen in your young life. But keep in mind one thing. There'll be others who'll means as much, and though it was wonderful while it lasted, you still have a good many years to make up your mind for keeps.

Miss Mottram cannot answer all letters personally, but the most important ones will be answered in her column.

City Worker Is Injured When "Oiler" Burns

Traffic Blocked On Shades Lane

One Street Department employe was injured yesterday when a city truck and the tank trailer "oiler" it was hauling caught fire and burned on Shades Lane about noon yesterday as the street was being oiled.

Treated in Allegany Hospital for burns of both arms was C. W. Emery, 49, of 433 Grand Avenue, who was standing on the dump truck when the vehicles caught fire. The driver of the truck, Paul Mouse, 45, of 420 Valley Street, was not injured.

East Side firemen, who were summoned to the scene at 12:15 p. m., fought the blaze for an hour and a half before bringing it under control. Fresh oil on the street directly behind the truck caught fire and burned back along the street for about 30 feet, firemen said.

Cause Undetermined

Although the exact cause of the fire has not been determined, firemen said the truck probably backfired and a spark ignited the oil. There was no explosion.

The driver said the first he knew of the blaze was when he heard his helper yell. He stopped the truck and both men jumped to safety.

The 600-gallon "oiler", purchased in September, 1945, for $1,428, was insured for $1,430. The one and one-half ton dump truck, a 1938 Ford model, was purchased 10 years ago for $866 and was insured for $400, according to city records.

Martin Corrigan, street superintendent, said the truck is believed beyond salvage. He said he does not know yet whether the oiler can be repaired sufficiently to remain in use.

Will Finish Work

The tank car of oil is the third ordered by the city this season. Officials explained that new carloads of oil normally are not ordered until the current supply is exhausted, since roads which are to be oiled must be graded in advance.

Reynolds said total damage to the truck and oiler has not been determined.

Asked whether the overall street oiling program will be delayed, he said, "We'll finish the work." The damaged oiler was the only equipment which the city had on hand for the work, but Reynolds said he will arrange to secure another oiler truck.

Father Tragesser Dies In Baltimore

Rev. John Tragesser, 86, a former pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Mt. Savage, and the oldest Catholic priest in the archdiocese of Baltimore, died Tuesday in Jenkins Memorial Hospital, Baltimore.

Father Tragesser left Mt. Savage in 1932 after serving as pastor of the parish for eight years.

Born in Baltimore January 12, 1862, Father Tragesser attended St. John's parochial school. St. Charles College and St. Mary's Seminary. He then went to Grand Seminary in Montreal and completed his theology study at Saint Sulpice in Paris.

On July 8, 1888, he was ordained in Paris. His first assignment in Baltimore was at St. Patrick's Church in 1891. After serving in numerous parishes his last appointment was at St. Joseph's Church.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. today in the chapel of Jenkins Memorial Hospital with Archbishop Keough as celebrant of the solemn high mass. Burial will be in New Cathedral Cemetery.

Child, 4, Returned To Mother's Custody

A court decree was reversed yesterday, and a 4-year-old child was taken away from the father and placed in the custody of its mother, who previously was granted a divorce in the local court.

Chief Judge William A. Huster ordered the child returned to Mrs. Helen Breighner Teter, after the mother petitioned the court for the child.

Mrs. Teter told the court she has married again and is in a position to make a comfortable home for her child. In granting the mother custody, the court ruled that the father must be allowed to visit the child "at reasonable times."

Waste Paper Drive To Continue Today

Cumberland's waste paper drive will continue today, with all sections between Baltimore Street-Baltimore Avenue and Oldtown Road to be serviced. All persons are requested to place the bundles or packages at the curb in front of their homes.

Yesterday's total, according to the drive chairman netted 15 tons.

Textile Workers To Hear Report On Negotiations

Holden Reports Further Progress

James A. Holden, Federal conciliator, reported last night that "further progress" was made yesterday in contract negotiations between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the Celanese Corporation of America.

The meeting arranged by Holden yesterday began at 10 a. m. and continued until 5:15 p. m. and the conciliator said the parties to the dispute agreed to meet further in an attempt to reach an agreement.

He said he would call the next conference but did not indicate when the meeting will be held.

Holden returned to Washington following the meeting to fulfil other duties to which he is committed for several days.

James A. Dundon, who is representing the TWUA in the contract negotiations of the 8,500 member union commented last night:

"In accordance with instructions at the last membership meetings, I have given my word that we will continue negotiations for a reasonalbe length of time. I intend to keep my word."

Playford Aldridge, president of the local, stated last night that membership meetings will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. and Saturday at 10:30 a. m. in the union hall to receive reports of contract negotiations.

CIO Phone Union Asks Contract On Eve Of Election

The Maryland Telephone Traffic Union, CIO, which will seek bargaining rights for telephone operators and clerical workers of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company in a National Labor Relations Board conducted election here and throughout the state today, yesterday asked the firm for immediate negotiations on a new contract.

Voting on the consent election will be held at the company office here from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. today with about 150 workers eligible to vote.

The ballots will contain the names of the Maryland Telephone Traffic Union, CIO, No Union, and the Communication Workers of America, Independent.

C. C. Smith, CIO representative, reported last night following a series of meetings held here yesterday, that the CIO union will score an overwhelming victory in Maryland.

Ballots cast here and throughout the state estimated at some 4,200, will be taken to Baltimore where they will be counted Friday.

July Court Term Opens At 10 A. M.

Chief Judge William A. Huster will call the docket this morning at 10 a. m. when the July term of Circuit Court is scheduled to convene. Court attaches said 184 cases are listed on the docket.

Of the cases 130 are on the Trial Docket, 40 on the Originial Docket and 14 on the Civil Appeals Docket. Attaches said that from past experience it is expected the majority of the cases will be forwarded to the October term.

The July term is the only court session that a jury is not called for, therefore no criminal cases will be tried or arraigned at this session.

Following the reading of the docket trial dates will be set by Judge Huster, if attorneys do not request them carried over to the October term, which is a jury session.

The docket was termed average yesterday by attaches who said the July term usually finds around 190 cases on the record.

Ridgeley Playground Group To Meet

The Ridgeley Playground Association will meet tonight at 7 o'clock at Ridgeley High School, and all citizens are invited to attend, according to Mrs. Homer Borror, president.

Druggists Say Medical Care Program Lax

Pharmacists Cite Examples Of Abuse

Cumberland area druggists expressed the opinion yesterday that the present Maryland Medical Care program as it is now administered is "lax and plans should be immediately formulated to straighten the entire "mess" out to the satisfaction of all concerned."

The druggists that were questioned said they were not pointing out any particular individual for criticism, but believed the entire setup could be made to operate more efficiently.

One druggist, who asked that his name be withheld said he knew of one case where a woman was residing with a daughter and son-in-law who had an income of over $8,000 a year. Yet, this same woman calls regularly at the drug store and is given the medicine that is prescribed by a physician.

Cite Several Cases

Another case related by a different pharmacist is about a local man who draws a $60 a week pay check, but still is eligible to receive State Medical Care. It was explained the man has five children but if in any one week he makes $65 he is automatically dropped from the rolls. It is said by the druggist that the man is a habitual drinker and could possibly make more, if and when he wanted to exert himself.

As far as the local drug stores are concerned they make little or nothing out of filling the so-called relief prescriptions, since the scale is set by the State. For instance a prescription calling for one ingredient and the cost of the ingredient and container is less than $2.50, the store may make a flat charge of 35 cents. If two or more ingredients are used, the store may charge 50 cents. Anything over $2.50 the store may charge 30 per cent. The new scale was put into effect on May 1.

Present day prices and the fact that most of the stores are paying help more than in ordinary times, coupled with the fact that they must sell from the wholesale price list, works a hardship on the smaller stores, one druggist stated. In comparision, the person must first see a physician and he charges a flat $2 per call, he asserted.

Must Be Investigated

To be eligible for medical care, the client must first be investigated. After that he is given a pocket size card which expires in 6 months time.

When the client is investigated and is found to be in need of medical attention, the card is issued and the patient takes it to a physician sanctioned by the Welfare Board. He in turns writes out a prescription in duplicate on regular forms supplied by the State. Both forms are taken to the drug store and stamped by the druggist. Once a month the original prescriptions are sent to the health department to be sent later to Baltimore for payment.

The system seems to work fine at times, the druggists say, but the type of people who are receiving the care seem for the most part to be high calibre people and could easily pay their way instead of getting medicine and medical care gratis.

As one druggist said last night, "you'd expect to see someone that was down and out, but many of them are better dressed than myself—and the women, gosh, I'd certainly like to have the same kind of clothes for my wife."

It is incredible, another one said, inasmuch as those who are given the relief are so demanding, which leads one to believe they think the State owes them a living.

$600 Damage Suit Filed In Court

A $600 damage suit was filed yesterday against William Porter by Mary Catherine Ryan, who claims that "through his negligence" he was responsible for a collision involving her automobile on Route 36, near Pekin, March 24.

In the declaration, Mrs. Ryan charges her son was operating the car at the time it was struck by a machine driven by Porter. She claimed the car was damaged considerably.

With Mrs. Ryan, The Service Fire Insurance Company, a corporation, was also listed as the plaintiff. The declaration states that the company was insuring the Ryan car at the time of the accident.

A judgment for $500 at 6 per cent interest was also filed against Mr. and Mrs. Ervin W. French, by Marie L. Smith and Oliver K. Keefer, executors of the estate of the late Lida J. Gorner.

The declaration states that the Frenches defaulted in payment on a promissory note which was drawn on terms that it be paid over a 20 months period at the rate of $25 per month and at interest of 6 per cent per annum. James Alfred Avirett represented the plaintiffs.

New PE Projects To Attract 7,000

A $15,000,000 improvement program for expansion of Potomac Edison facilities, which will include a $1,300,000 project for extending lines from the Cumberland generating station is expected to bring in 7,000 new customers in 1948, R. Paul Smith, president said yesterday.

The local project will include extending a high-voltage line from Cumberland, to the Riverton, Va., plant. Surveys are being made now and rights-of-ways are being procured for the line which will carry 132,000 volts.

With as little deviation as possible, the Riverton-Cumberland transmission line will follow a direct route between the two points. The rights-of-ways will carry the line across 12 mountain tops.

The other phase of the project will include installation of a generating plant at Riverton, Va. cost is expected to amount to $6,500,000.

The Weather

A light sprinkling of rain broke a three day siege of hot humid weather in the Cumberland area yesterday and forecasters predicted the respite from the sultry weather would continue through today. A high of 80 degrees was recorded during Wednesday, with the reading at 11 o'clock standing at 72 degrees. At 8 a. m. yesterday the mercury was 74. Today being the first day of July, the weatherman thought to review the month of June in regard to various conditions. Twenty of the 30 days produced rain of some sort, he says, while one day hail came to the Cumberland area. The total rain fall for the month was 3.86 inches, which is near normal. Six days of thundershowers were tabled, while seven light fogs and one heavy fog was recorded. The highest temperature for the month was 94 degrees, while the lowest was 45, which is a bit cool for June. The forecast for today is fair, but somewhat cooler and less humid.

Lewis' Miners Also Going To Court, But They Want Wedding Permits

Many of John L. Lewis' miners, now in the midst of a 10-day vacation, are following his steps into court, but the contracts are "going to last more than a year, and the UMW boss isn't going to have much to say about terms," one bride-elect said yesterday.

Local marriage records, already swelled by the June wedding tradition, this week took an additional jump, at Allegany County Court House, and the clerk said "it's the miners, seems like they all are determined to marry before the vacation ends."

None of the applicants would admit that the already signed and sealed UMW contract has anything to do with so many "little women" saying "yes" but the clerk said nearly 50 per cent of the permits issued this week went to coal miners.

There were 14 permits issued yesterday to miners from the Pennsylvania coal fields, the clerk said, and added it has been going on all week.

"They're coming here from all over southern Pennsylvania, as far away as Pittsburgh, to get their licenses and then have the ceremonies performed before they go on to other resorts to complete the vacation period," he declared.

There is one little fact creeping out as a result of the questions the "soon-to-be newlyweds" answer. There are some young men still making a living by digging coal, for more than 70 per cent of the male applicants are under 30 years of age.

But as always in coal contracts and negotiations, the operators are going to have something to say. This time it was a 60-year-old coal dealer from New Briton, Pa. He said "I do,"— just like the miners—when the minister popped the all important question.

Lt. Cmdr. Charles B. Gray Is New Head Of Area Naval Reserve Office

Lt. Cmdr. Charles B. Gray, has been appointed Inspector of the Cumberland area Naval Reserve, the Navy Department announced last night. Gray succeeds Lt. Cmdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer.

Cmdr. Gray has just completed a ten-month General Line School in Newport, R. I., where he was brought up-to-date on all new Navy methods.

Prior to attending the school he served on the CVE No. 1, the USS Long Island. The CVE is an escort aircraft carrier and served in the Pacific area. Gray was with the carrier prior to its commissioning and served two years with it in active service. He later served with the auxiliary vessels program on the Gulf Coast until the APA, attack transport program, started. The program included the preliminary trial and shakedown cruises. He served here until September 1945.

Originally from Summit, N. J., Commander Gray is married and has one daughter, a year old.

Commander Hedrick has been at the helm of the local Reserve office since its organization almost two years ago. It is now at full strength with 206 enlisted men and 12 officers. The first office was located on the third floor of the post office building, but the new group soon outgrew the one room and they were moved to the basement of the post office where larger rooms were available.

Hedrick, who declined reappointment in the Naval Reserve has no definite plans for the future, but will be available at the local office at least until after the commissioning exercises of the new Naval Armory later this year.

Student Pilot Critically Hurt In Crash

H. O. Springer Is Reported In Poor Condition

Plane Dives From 75-Foot Altitude

A 27-year-old student pilot was critically injured yesterday when the Piper Cub he was soloing went into a spin at 75 feet and crashed at the Municipal Airport 10 minutes after he took off at 4:35 p. m., an eye witness to the crash reported.

At Memorial Hospital, attaches said Herbert O. Springer, 211 North Lee Street was in "poor condition" and added he suffered a possible fractured skull, fractures of both legs and shock.

Springer, a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employe was on a routine training flight, according to Sanford Jenkins, secretary and treasurer of the Mountain Air Service, In., which operates the local port.

Officials at the post said they were unable to explain the crash, but added Civil Aeronautics Authorities were expected here this morning to begin an investigation. The West Virginia State Aviation Commission, Charleston, W. Va., was also notified of the accident, Jenkins said.

Plane Is Wrecked

The plane, one of the newest training crafts at the air port, was described as a total loss and Jenkins said when he arrived at the scene of the crash the nose of the plane was buried in the ground and it was necessary to tip it back before Springer could be removed.

Jenkins said he and John DelaGrange, port president, loosened the safety belt from around Springer and removed the unconscious man to an ambulance. Springer had more than 75 hours of flying time to his credit, officials explained, adding they were at a loss to explain the cause of the spin.

The plane's engine was pushed back into the cockpit by the impact of the crash, witnesses said, and the cockpit door and windshield were covered with blood. The ordinarily shatter-proof plexi-glass windshield and windows in the plane were broken and scattered over a wide area near the crash spot.

Witnesses who viewed the plane said the wings were bent and their covering torn to shreds. The propeller was splintered, and wrapped around the dislocated engine.

The pilot seat and control stick of the plane were jarred loose by the impact and the entire front of the plane bent and twisted. The nose of the plane buried itself about six inches in the ground, one observer declared.

Practicing Landings

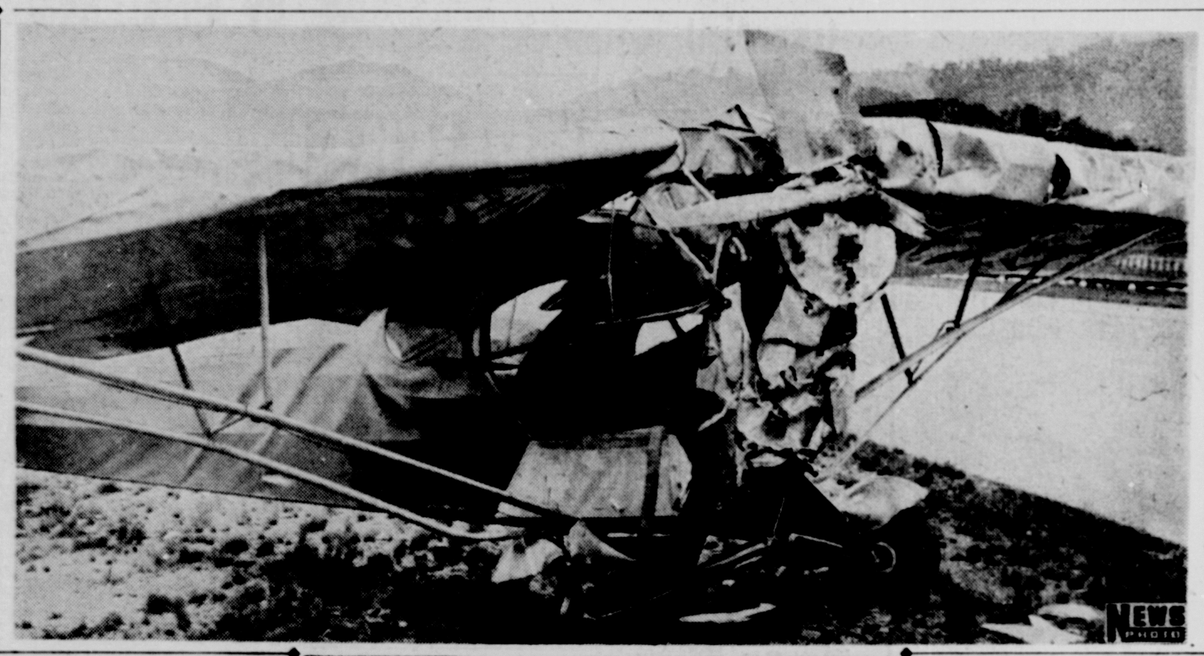

Airport officials declared they were unable to determine if Springer was attempting to land at the time of the crash, although they said his training lesson called for practice landings.

The plane barely missed the hard surface taxi strip which runs east and west on the field and was only a couple of feet from Runway No. 19.

Jenkins said the victim has been flying since May 27, 1947 and has been soloing since August 11, 1947. He added that Springer was taking the flying course under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

According to Jenkins, Springer was the only pilot from the local port in the air at the time, but

PLANE CRASH, VICTIM-- Ten minutes after he took off on a routine training flight, Herbert O. Springer, 211 North Lee Street, here, was critically injured when the Piper Cub Trainer went into a spin at a 75 foot altitude and crashed at the Municipal Airport, near Wiley Ford, W. Va., yesterday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock. Springer, a veteran of World War II who served in the Aleutian Islands, was taking the pilot course under the G.I. Bill of Rights. Attaches at Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted, described the victim's condition as "poor" late last night.

28 Area Youths Named To Attend Boys State Camp

Delegations Will Leave Here Monday

Twenty-eight Western Maryland youths will attend the Department of Maryland, American Legion's Boys State which will open next Monday at Fort George G. Meade, Thomas F. Conlon, Sr., Boys State chairman, announced last night.

Two of the youths will attend the annual camp designed to promote good citizenship, as counselors. They are Joseph Love and Lowell Sowers, both of Lonaconing, who were invited to assist in the program as a result of marks made at Boys State last year. Both won high honors from letters on Americanism and other activities.

Those who have been selected to attend Boys State July 5 through 19, with schools and sponsors are:

Robert Reinhart, 511 Arnett Terrace, Allegany High; John Kelly, 16 North Chase Street, LaSalle High; Lawrence Lovenstein, 610 Niagara Street, LaSalle; Wesley Abrams, 310 Piedmont Avenue, Allegany; John Alderton, Williams Road, Fort Hill High, all sponsored by Voiture No. 164, Forty and Eight here.

Fred Corbin, 22 West First Street, Fort Hill; Robert Keefe, 522 Beall Street, Allegany, and Larry McKenzie, Route 4, Fort Hill, all sponsored by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

Local Youths Named

Robert Gulick, 819 Shawnee Avenue, Allegany, Tonkaway Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men.

Eugene Mason, 218 Maryland Avenue, Fort Hill, Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose.

Edward Lendefeld, 709 Bedford Street, Allegany, sponsored by Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, 410 Washington Street.

Marvin Luttrell, 320 Dorn Avenue, Fort Hill, by the Mayor and Council of Cumberland.

Animals Are Shipped Here From Baltimore

A shipment of eight full-grown gray squirrels was received at Constitution Park yesterday, Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, reported last night.

Joseph A. Minke, deputy game warden, arranged for the squirrels, which were trapped in Baltimore parks, to be shipped here.

Golden said two dozen squirrels had been requested, adding that additional shipments may be arranged later on.

Apparently the long trip from Baltimore put the squirrels into bad humor, he said, for they were fighting in their special wire cage and one was bloodied.

As soon as they were released, Golden said, "they hit for the trees right away." Because they are parkbred, Golden said, the small furry animals will probably become more friendly as soon as they get used to their new surroundings.

However, from all indications last night they had decided to spend the night in trees at a safe distance above the ground.

The squirrels are the second wildlife contingent to become residents of the park.

"Jasper" the deer, who has been living there for the past six weeks in a pen, has attracted hundreds of children, Golden said.

Jasper will eat anything, including popcorn and potato chips, and one of the children even had him drinking pop out of a bottle, according to one report.

Golden said Jasper's favorite dessert is chewing tobacco, but the deer seems to be thriving on his remarkable diet.

Washington Woman Seeking Father Here

Mrs. Rita Daniels, Washington, D. C., has asked the Cumberland News to help in trying to find her father, Elmer R. Lewis, who she says conducted a small clothing store in Cumberland.

A check of traders' licenses issued at the Allegany County Court House failed to reveal any license issued to any such person. Neither the phone book or the city directory lists any one by that name in Cumberland.

If Mr. Lewis reads this article, please contact Mrs. Daniels at 3624 "O" Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. or phone Washington (Hobart) 2179. Mrs. Daniels said that it is urgent, as his mother is critically ill. Any information that may lead to the finding of Daniels may be called to The Cumberland News.

Union Delays Meeting

Robert Jones, business agent for Operating Engineers Local 37, AFL, announced yesterday that a meeting of the local scheduled Saturday has been postponed until the next regular meeting in August.

Employe Data Prepared For Pension Study

129 City Workers Included In List

Data on city employes necessary for an actuarial study to determine the cost of a city pension plan has been prepared, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday.

The list includes all employes except those in the Police and Fire Departments, which have their own pension plans, set up under legislative statute.

Mayor Post said the data will be sent to the Maryland State Employes' Retirement System, which retains a New York actuary to make such studies for counties and municipalities desiring to take part in the pension program.

At a special meeting in May, the Mayor and Council decided to request the actuarial study, after members of Local 812, Municipal Employes Union, expressed unanimous approval of securing a pension plan.

The list of 129 employes gives the name, date of birth, position, base salary, current salary and the number of years of service. Included are city employes at Constitution Park, the Cumberland Municipal Airport, and the Health, Street, Finance, Water and Engineering Departments.

Cost of the actuarial study is expected to be about $200. Passage of an ordinance by the Mayor and Council would be necessary to put the pension plan into effect.

Under the Maryland retirement system, rates of payment by employes are based on age, sex and work classification, with employe contributions matched by the state or the employing unit.

Employe payments are placed in one account to provide an annuity when retirement age is reached, while the state contributes an equal amount to a second account, to provide a retirement pension.

Disorderly Conduct Lands Two In Jail

City Police last night apprehended two local people for being disorderly. Jasper Miller, Bedford Road, was arrested on that charge alone, while Lena Webster, Cumberland, was charged with drunk and disorderly conduct. Both will be tried this morning in Police Court.

Just Between Us

The Male Animal Is As Unpredictable As Weather

By NANCY MOTTRAM

"Why is it that a male's moods change so often, and from one extreme to the other?" A lot of high-school and college misses would like to know. It's a question with no date or season—and the reason is a mystery no one can solve.

Nancy Mottram

Why is Johnny attentive and thoughtful on a Saturday night date, seeming to hold the opinion that you're the nicest thing that's happened to him since he first bought a soda with two straws for the girl next door—but the next week, pass you by with barely a nod of the head?

Sometimes you're pretty sure of him. He calls every evening after supper, you can plan on spending Friday and Saturday eves in his company, and life moves along without a crisis or complication.

Another thing, and it's important, is the lack of competition. You don't have to sit and chew your nails to the elbow wondering if you're losing him to the lass who sits next to you in English class. Even if he doesn't come right out and tell you that you're the stuff dreams are made of, you're happy, because you know he thinks it privately.

So for a couple of months, you haven't a worry in the world. You're not even envisioning any problems in the near future. Of course, you're likely to have tiffs now and then, and be a little cool to each other occasionally, but it blows over soon, and things get back to normal. Because of your differences, your relationship improves. Forgiving and forgetting is good experience. You get to know how he feels about things, and you learn to avoid the more serious quarrels.

Then, there comes a time when your friendship hits a snag. If it's a genuine, honest rift, there's less hurt or hard feelings, and little regret on either side. But if it ends without any good reason—if those phone calls and invitations stop without any apparent cause—that's hard to take.

For the life of you, you can't understand why it happened. There wasn't any violent disagreement, and as far as you know, no other gal has entered the picture. Occasionally, he murmurs a hello when you meet on the street. There's no formal break-up. But it's the start of a cold war—why, you can't guess.

It may be just a temporary mood. Again, it may be the end. If you have a good opportunity, ask him about it. You can invite him over for an evening of playing records and dancing, preferably with a group, and try to get it straight. Otherwise, accept different dates, and try to occupy your time so that you can look back on it without a twinge of regret.

You're a little wiser now in the ways of the male sex. Perhaps, some day, you'll hear from him again. Until then, cross it off, and count it as a pleasant experience. It's bound to happen in your young life. But keep in mind one thing. There'll be others who'll means as much, and though it was wonderful while it lasted, you still have a good many years to make up your mind for keeps.

Miss Mottram cannot answer all letters personally, but the most important ones will be answered in her column.

City Worker Is Injured When "Oiler" Burns

Traffic Blocked On Shades Lane

One Street Department employe was injured yesterday when a city truck and the tank trailer "oiler" it was hauling caught fire and burned on Shades Lane about noon yesterday as the street was being oiled.

Treated in Allegany Hospital for burns of both arms was C. W. Emery, 49, of 433 Grand Avenue, who was standing on the dump truck when the vehicles caught fire. The driver of the truck, Paul Mouse, 45, of 420 Valley Street, was not injured.

East Side firemen, who were summoned to the scene at 12:15 p. m., fought the blaze for an hour and a half before bringing it under control. Fresh oil on the street directly behind the truck caught fire and burned back along the street for about 30 feet, firemen said.

Billowing clouds of black smoke attracted numerous spectators to the scene. Traffic in both directions was blocked for nearly an hour.

Cause Undetermined

Although the exact cause of the fire has not been determined, firemen said the truck probably backfired and a spark ignited the oil. There was no explosion.

The driver said the first he knew of the blaze was when he heard his helper yell. He stopped the truck and both men jumped to safety.

The 600-gallon "oiler", purchased in September, 1945, for $1,428, was insured for $1,430. The one and one-half ton dump truck, a 1938 Ford model, was purchased 10 years ago for $866 and was insured for $400, according to city records.

Martin Corrigan, street superintendent, said the truck is believed beyond salvage. He said he does not know yet whether the oiler can be repaired sufficiently to remain in use.

Street Commissioner Edgar Reynolds said arrangements have been made to borrow an oiler from the Cumberland Contracting Company to continue oiling city streets until the remaining 4,000 gallons on hand are used up.

Will Finish Work

The tank car of oil is the third ordered by the city this season. Officials explained that new carloads of oil normally are not ordered until the current supply is exhausted, since roads which are to be oiled must be graded in advance.

Reynolds said total damage to the truck and oiler has not been determined.

Asked whether the overall street oiling program will be delayed, he said, "We'll finish the work." The damaged oiler was the only equipment which the city had on hand for the work, but Reynolds said he will arrange to secure another oiler truck.

Father Tragesser Dies In Baltimore

Rev. John Tragesser, 86, a former pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Mt. Savage, and the oldest Catholic priest in the archdiocese of Baltimore, died Tuesday in Jenkins Memorial Hospital, Baltimore.

Father Tragesser left Mt. Savage in 1932 after serving as pastor of the parish for eight years.

Born in Baltimore January 12, 1862, Father Tragesser attended St. John's parochial school, St. Charles College and St. Mary's Seminary. He then went to Grand Seminary in Montreal and completed his theology study at Saint Sulpice in Paris.

On July 8, 1888, he was ordained in Paris. His first assignment in Baltimore was at St. Patrick's Church in 1891. After serving in numerous parishes his last appointment was at St. Joseph's Church.

Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. today in the chapel of Jenkins Memorial Hospital with Archbishop Keough as celebrant of the solemn high mass. Burial will be in New Cathedral Cemetery.

Child, 4, Returned To Mother's Custody

A court decree was reversed yesterday, and a 4-year-old child was taken away from the father and placed in the custody of its mother, who previously was granted a divorce in the local court.

Chief Judge William A. Huster ordered the child returned to Mrs. Helen Breighner Teter, after the mother petitioned the court for the child.

Mrs. Teter told the court she has married again and is in a position to make a comfortable home for her child. In granting the mother custody, the court ruled that the father must be allowed to visit the child "at reasonable times."

Waste Paper Drive To Continue Today

Cumberland's waste paper drive will continue today, with all sections between Baltimore Street-Baltimore Avenue and Oldtown Road to be serviced. All persons are requested to place the bundles or packages at the curb in front of their homes.

Yesterday's total, according to the drive chairman netted 15 tons.

Textile Workers To Hear Report On Negotiations

Holden Reports Further Progress

James A. Holden, Federal conciliator, reported last night that "further progress" was made yesterday in contract negotiations between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the Celanese Corporation of America.

The meeting arranged by Holden yesterday began at 10 a. m. and continued until 5:15 p. m. and the conciliator said the parties to the dispute agreed to meet further in an attempt to reach an agreement.

He said he would call the next conference but did not indicate when the meeting will be held.

Holden returned to Washington following the meeting to fulfil other duties to which he is committed for several days.

James A. Dundon, who is representing the TWUA in the contract negotiations of the 8,500 member union commented last night:

"In accordance with instructions at the last membership meetings, I have given my word that we will continue negotiations for a reasonalbe length of time. I intend to keep my word."

Playford Aldridge, president of the local, stated last night that membership meetings will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. and Saturday at 10:30 a. m. in the union hall to receive reports of contract negotiations.

CIO Phone Union Asks Contract On Eve Of Election

The Maryland Telephone Traffic Union, CIO, which will seek bargaining rights for telephone operators and clerical workers of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company in a National Labor Relations Board conducted election here and throughout the state today, yesterday asked the firm for immediate negotiations on a new contract.

Voting on the consent election will be held at the company office here from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. today with about 150 workers eligible to vote.

The ballots will contain the names of the Maryland Telephone Traffic Union, CIO, No Union, and the Communication Workers of America, Independent.

C. C. Smith, CIO representative, reported last night following a series of meetings held here yesterday, that the CIO union will score an overwhelming victory in Maryland.

Ballots cast here and throughout the state estimated at some 4,200, will be taken to Baltimore where they will be counted Friday.

July Court Term Opens At 10 A. M.

Chief Judge William A. Huster will call the docket this morning at 10 a. m. when the July term of Circuit Court is scheduled to convene. Court attaches said 184 cases are listed on the docket.

Of the cases 130 are on the Trial Docket, 40 on the Originial Docket and 14 on the Civil Appeals Docket. Attaches said that from past experience it is expected the majority of the cases will be forwarded to the October term.

The July term is the only court session that a jury is not called for, therefore no criminal cases will be tried or arraigned at this session.

Following the reading of the docket trial dates will be set by Judge Huster, if attorneys do not request them carried over to the October term, which is a jury session.

The docket was termed average yesterday by attaches who said the July term usually finds around 190 cases on the record.

Ridgeley Playground Group To Meet

The Ridgeley Playground Association will meet tonight at 7 o'clock at Ridgeley High School, and all citizens are invited to attend, according to Mrs. Homer Borror, president.

Druggists Say Medical Care Program Lax

Pharmacists Cite Examples Of Abuse

Cumberland area druggists expressed the opinion yesterday that the present Maryland Medical Care program as it is now administered is "lax and plans should be immediately formulated to straighten the entire "mess" out to the satisfaction of all concerned."

The druggists that were questioned said they were not pointing out any particular individual for criticism, but believed the entire setup could be made to operate more efficiently.

One druggist, who asked that his name be withheld said he knew of one case where a woman was residing with a daughter and son-in-law who had an income of over $8,000 a year. Yet, this same woman calls regularly at the drug store and is given the medicine that is prescribed by a physician.

Cite Several Cases

Another case related by a different pharmacist is about a local man who draws a $60 a week pay check, but still is eligible to receive State Medical Care. It was explained the man has five children but if in any one week he makes $65 he is automatically dropped from the rolls. It is said by the druggist that the man is a habitual drinker and could possibly make more, if and when he wanted to exert himself.

As far as the local drug stores are concerned they make little or nothing out of filling the so-called relief prescriptions, since the scale is set by the State. For instance a prescription calling for one ingredient and the cost of the ingredient and container is less than $2.50, the store may make a flat charge of 35 cents. If two or more ingredients are used, the store may charge 50 cents. Anything over $2.50 the store may charge 30 per cent. The new scale was put into effect on May 1.

Present day prices and the fact that most of the stores are paying help more than in ordinary times, coupled with the fact that they must sell from the wholesale price list, works a hardship on the smaller stores, one druggist stated. In comparison, the person must first see a physician and he charges a flat $2 per call, he asserted.

Must Be Investigated

To be eligible for medical care, the client must first be investigated. After that he is given a pocket size card which expires in 6 months time.

When the client is investigated and is found to be in need of medical attention, the card is issued and the patient takes it to a physician sanctioned by the Welfare Board. He in turns writes out a prescription in duplicate on regular forms supplied by the State. Both forms are taken to the drug store and stamped by the druggist. Once a month the original prescriptions are sent to the health department to be sent later to Baltimore for payment.

The system seems to work fine at times, the druggists say, but the type of people who are receiving the care seem for the most part to be high calibre people and could easily pay their way instead of getting medicine and medical care gratis.

As one druggist said last night, "you'd expect to see someone that was down and out, but many of them are better dressed than myself—and the women, gosh, I'd certainly like to have the same kind of clothes for my wife."

It is incredible, another one said, inasmuch as those who are given the relief are so demanding, which leads one to believe they think the State owes them a living.

$600 Damage Suit Filed In Court

A $600 damage suit was filed yesterday against William Porter by Mary Catherine Ryan, who claims that "through his negligence" he was responsible for a collision involving her automobile on Route 36, near Pekin, March 24.

In the declaration, Mrs. Ryan charges her son was operating the car at the time it was struck by a machine driven by Porter. She claimed the car was damaged considerably.

With Mrs. Ryan, The Service Fire Insurance Company, a corporation, was also listed as the plaintiff. The declaration states that the company was insuring the Ryan car at the time of the accident.

A judgment for $500 at 6 per cent interest was also filed against Mr. and Mrs. Ervin W. French, by Marie L. Smith and Oliver K. Keefer, executors of the estate of the late Lida J. Gorner.

The declaration states that the Frenches defaulted in payment on a promissory note which was drawn on terms that it be paid over a 20 months period at the rate of $25 per month and at interest of 6 per cent per annum. James Alfred Avirett represented the plaintiffs.

New PE Projects To Attract 7,000

A $15,000,000 improvement program for expansion of Potomac Edison facilities, which will include a $1,300,000 project for extending lines from the Cumberland generating station is expected to bring in 7,000 new customers in 1948, R. Paul Smith, president said yesterday.

The local project will include extending a high-voltage line from Cumberland, to the Riverton, Va., plant. Surveys are being made now and rights-of-ways are being procured for the line which will carry 132,000 volts.

With as little deviation as possible, the Riverton-Cumberland transmission line will follow a direct route between the two points. The rights-of-ways will carry the line across 12 mountain tops.

The other phase of the project will include installation of a generating plant at Riverton, Va. cost is expected to amount to $6,500,000.

The Weather

A light sprinkling of rain broke a three day siege of hot humid weather in the Cumberland area yesterday and forecasters predicted the respite from the sultry weather would continue through today. A high of 80 degrees was recorded during Wednesday, with the reading at 11 o'clock standing at 72 degrees. At 8 a. m. yesterday the mercury was 74. Today being the first day of July, the weatherman thought to review the month of June in regard to various conditions. Twenty of the 30 days produced rain of some sort, he says, while one day hail came to the Cumberland area. The total rain fall for the month was 3.86 inches, which is near normal. Six days of thundershowers were tabled, while seven light fogs and one heavy fog was recorded. The highest temperature for the month was 94 degrees, while the lowest was 45, which is a bit cool for June. The forecast for today is fair, but somewhat cooler and less humid.

Lewis' Miners Also Going To Court, But They Want Wedding Permits

Many of John L. Lewis' miners, now in the midst of a 10-day vacation, are following his steps into court, but the contracts are "going to last more than a year, and the UMW boss isn't going to have much to say about terms," one bride-elect said yesterday.

Local marriage records, already swelled by the June wedding tradition, this week took an additional jump, at Allegany County Court House, and the clerk said "it's the miners, seems like they all are determined to marry before the vacation ends."

None of the applicants would admit that the already signed and sealed UMW contract has anything to do with so many "little women" saying "yes" but the clerk said nearly 50 per cent of the permits issued this week went to coal miners.

There were 14 permits issued yesterday to miners from the Pennsylvania coal fields, the clerk said, and added it has been going on all week.

"They're coming here from all over southern Pennsylvania, as far away as Pittsburgh, to get their licenses and then have the ceremonies performed before they go on to other resorts to complete the vacation period," he declared.

There is one little fact creeping out as a result of the questions the "soon-to-be newlyweds" answer. There are some young men still making a living by digging coal, for more than 70 per cent of the male applicants are under 30 years of age.

But as always in coal contracts and negotiations, the operators are going to have something to say. This time it was a 60-year-old coal dealer from New Briton, Pa. He said "I do,"— just like the miners—when the minister popped the all important question.

Lt. Cmdr. Charles B. Gray Is New Head Of Area Naval Reserve Office

Lt. Cmdr. Charles B. Gray, has been appointed Inspector of the Cumberland area Naval Reserve, the Navy Department announced last night. Gray succeeds Lt. Cmdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer.

Cmdr. Gray has just completed a ten-month General Line School in Newport, R. I., where he was brought up-to-date on all new Navy methods.

Prior to attending the school he served on the CVE No. 1, the USS Long Island. The CVE is an escort aircraft carrier and served in the Pacific area. Gray was with the carrier prior to its commissioning and served two years with it in active service. He later served with the auxiliary vessels program on the Gulf Coast until the APA, attack transport program, started. The program included the preliminary trial and shakedown cruises. He served here until September 1945.

Originally from Summit, N. J., Commander Gray is married and has one daughter, a year old.

Commander Hedrick has been at the helm of the local Reserve office since its organization almost two years ago. It is now at full strength with 206 enlisted men and 12 officers. The first office was located on the third floor of the post office building, but the new group soon outgrew the one room and they were moved to the basement of the post office where larger rooms were available.

Hedrick, who declined reappointment in the Naval Reserve has no definite plans for the future, but will be available at the local office at least until after the commissioning exercises of the new Naval Armory later this year.
